PREFACE

This book is intended to introduce high school and college students to the Aeneid and to enable them to read this great masterpiece with interest and appreciation.

The present edition is based on the cumulative results of the past centuries of Vergilian scholarship and pedagogical method, and the author is indebted to his many predecessors, ancient and modern, American and foreign, who have worked in this field. The author would make grateful acknowledgment to all those who have contributed in any way to a better understanding of the Aeneid, but it is manifestly impossible to enumerate the countless sources from which the present work has been drawn.

In preparing the present text an attempt has been made to profit by the contributions furnished by the printer's art in the differentiation of vocalic and consonantal i (i, j) as well as in the differentiation of vocalic and consonantal u (u, v). For what seems to be adequate pedagogical reasons such forms as dējiciō, subjiciō, and conjiciō are given in the printed text instead of the dēiciō, subiciō, and coniciō of the inscriptions and manuscripts. For the use of j and v the author feels that no more apology is needed than for the use of lower case letters in general instead of the square capitals of the inscriptions and early manuscripts. The employment of such forms as dējiciō, subjiciō, and conjiciō is abundantly justified by their simplicity as well as by the ease with which they are understood in connection with the rest of their conjugational systems.

The text is that of Hirtzel, Oxford University Press, 1900, and the author here gratefully acknowledges the kind permission granted by the Syndics of this Press to reproduce their text. Only a few changes have been made from the Oxford text, such as the use of capitals in this book at the beginning of each new sentence instead of merely at the beginning of each new paragraph, the use of j in this text to represent consonantal i, and the spellings relligio, relligiosus, relliquiae, to represent more accurately the pronunciation of these words in Vergil's day.

In the definitions of the Latin words given in the page vocabularies the author has not sought to secure a mechanical uniformity, but has attempted merely to preserve such a general consistency that the student may from the definitions recognize any later occurrence of a word and associate it with its earlier appearances. In the number of meanings given for each Latin word, the author has tried to preserve some mean between a poverty which is barren and a wealth which is confusing to the student who is trying at the same time both to read Vergil and to learn Latin.

The chief distinction of this book is its visible vocabulary system. The acquisition of a vocabulary is generally recognized as one of the most important as well as one of the most troublesome problems in learning either to read or speak a foreign language. No important advance has been made in this field for thousands of years, and the present antiquated methods are wasteful of much valuable time and effort, especially in the case of the more difficult languages, such as Latin and Greek.

This book attempts to attack the problem from another angle and prints adjacent to any given passage the whole of its vocabulary, making it unnecessary ever to turn a page for the purpose of learning the meaning of any word.

The use of the special word list, printed on the extensible sheet at the back of the book, adds certain features of considerable value educationally. This list contains the most common words in the work being studied. Each word which occurs in this list is indicated in the text by being printed in italics. This use of italics serves several distinct purposes. First, it indicates to the student where he must look for the meaning of these words, whether in the special list or in one of the vocabularies at the foot of the page. In the second place, the difference in type assists in impressing these more important words on the memory without as much conscious effort as has ordinarily been needed and hence, perhaps, removes an element of discouragement from the task. The word list also furnishes convenient material for the use of teachers who still prefer to require their students to memorize the most important words in their text. In addition to this word list, a second list of rather less common words is indicated in the special vocabularies by means of asterisks, thus calling the attention of the student to their importance. The first occurrence of a word in the text being studied is indicated in the vocabularies by a dagger (†). This serves a valuable purpose in sight reading, since it continually distinguishes for the student the words he has already met from those he has not yet seen in that particular text, and helps to impress them on his memory.

The author is convinced that this new method is an advance over the old both pedagogically and psychologically. The old system involves not merely a great waste of time, but it necessitates continual interruption in the continuity of attention of the student, hindering or even preventing concentration upon the work at hand and thus making for bad mental habits.

This plan has been tried in a number of secondary schools and in every case it has met with a most enthusiastic response on the part of both teachers and students. After an extensive series of experiments, it is agreed that the following are some of the manifest advantages of this method:

1. Students are able to read intelligently a great deal more in a given period of time than has heretofore been possible.

2. Reading of the great classical authors can be begun at a much earlier stage than was formerly practicable. With a modicum of grammar one can begin reading the great classics and can read them rapidly enough to enjoy them as literature.

3. Since the vocabulary for any given passage is comparatively small, the possibility of error is much less and the student seldom selects the wrong word or the wrong meaning from the vocabulary.

4. With the elimination or great lessening of vocabulary difficulties, the student has a much better opportunity of gaining a thorough foundation in the essentials of grammar, reinforced continually by more copious reading than has hitherto been possible.

5. The student learns his vocabulary without much conscious effort at memorizing, in the easiest and most natural way possible, by meeting the words constantly in his reading, with their meanings always before him. Similarly he learns the forms of his words, by constantly seeing the indications of their structure, as denoted in the vocabulary by the principal parts of the verbs, the nominative and genitive singular of the nouns, together with an indication of their gender, and other information presented in the vocabularies.

6. Printing this vocabulary in sight of the passage not only conserves the time of the student commonly spent in mechanically looking up words, but allows him to concentrate his attention on the problems involved in translation, in the development of thought, in the literary, historical, and other problems of his author, and in various other features of the text.

There is no pedagogical value attached to the mechanical labor involved in looking up words according to the old system which, moreover, entails an enormous waste of time. According to the arrangement employed in this book, the student has constantly before him the same information which he formerly was compelled to seek elsewhere at the cost of so much labor.

This visible vocabulary system is far better than a parallel translation, since this method does not solve the problems for the student, but merely places in his hands, in the most readily accessible form, all the requisite data for making his own solutions. By thus ridding him of drudgery and by making this feature of his work lighter and more interesting, this vocabulary system helps to eliminate the improper use of translations by the student, for he now finds that he can prepare his lesson quite as quickly and much more intelligently without a translation than he formerly could with its help.

The vocabularies of the ordinary school editions, arranged according to the old system, must give the general meaning of each word and then exhaust all the special meanings found in the whole text, and this to most students is a source of considerable confusion and loss of time. In this text the student will always have the general meaning of each word as well as the special meaning necessary for each passage. This enables him to fix the general meaning and to build up his knowledge of the special meanings as he meets them in his reading.

In the notes of this book a great many constructions are explained, partly as a key to the proper understanding of the Latin text and partly as a device to make it unnecessary for the teacher to spend valuable time in requiring the class to analyze constructions. It is believed that this feature will enable the ordinary student to proceed more securely and expeditiously with the work of translation and comprehension of his text and will make it possible for him to solve for himself the difficulties of many passages where the perplexities are so great that many editors have felt it necessary to do the work of translation for the student. A generous use is made in this text of the Grammatical Appendix and the student is constantly referred to it for additional information. If, for example, the student knows the meaning of such terms as ablative absolute or subjunctive of result, he spends no time in consulting the grammatical reference. If he does not know the meaning of these terms or if he shows by his translation that he has a wrong conception, it is very easy for the teacher to correct his fault at once by requiring him to consult the Grammatical Appendix.

A number of circumstances have combined to delay the appearance of this book. By a happy coincidence it is now issued on the two thousandth anniversary of Vergil's birth, and the author is much pleased to offer this little volume in homage to the spirit of the bard of Mantua at a time when all the world is uniting to pay him tribute.

The author wishes to express his special gratitude to the late Dr. Dix Harwood, Assistant Editor of D. C. Heath and Company, for selecting the illustrations in this book, and to Professor W. L. Carr, of Columbia University, whose advice and assistance have been invaluable.

PREFACE TO THE REVISED EDITION

In addition to the General Word List already appearing in the end papers, two new word lists have been inserted after the Index in this revision. It will be recalled that the General Word List contains all the words that occur 24 or more times in Books I–VI of the Aeneid. The new lists contain those words that occur 12–23 times and 6–11 times, respectively, in Books I–VI. They will provide the same type of vocabulary drill that has made the General Word List useful and popular.

A few misprints and oversights throughout the text have been corrected, affecting mostly the notes and the visible vocabulary, though one or two small corrections have been introduced into the text itself.

It is hoped that these innovations and changes will find favor with the Latin teachers who for years have been faithful friends of this edition of the Aeneid.

The Wanderings of Aeneas

INTRODUCTION

Life of Vergil

1. Publius Vergilius Maro, one of the most celebrated poets of all time, was born in the little country village of Andes, near Mantua, in northern Italy, October 15, 70 B.C. His father was a small farmer; and, although a man of moderate means, he managed to give his son the equivalent of a college education. The poetically inclined youth studied at Mantua and Cremona, then at the larger city of Milan (Mediōlānum), whence he passed to Rome and finally to Naples, where he went to complete his college course. He early developed a taste for literature and especially for philosophy, and all his life he remained a student. Very modest and retiring, even to the point of shyness, he was not fitted to take an active part in the stirring political and military events of his day.

2. After the battle of Philippi in 42 B.C., Octavian confiscated Vergil's farm and assigned it to one of his veterans. Vergil had already begun to write poetry, and his work had attracted the favorable attention of Maecenas, a close personal friend, and political adviser of the emperor. Through Maecenas Vergil met Octavian, who at once took him under his protection, compensated him for the loss of his farm, and made it possible for him to devote the rest of his life to poetry.

3. The most important of his works are known as the Bucolics (or Eclogues), the Georgics, and the Aeneid. The Bucolics are short poems on pastoral themes, formed on Greek models and idealizing the life of the shepherds and herdsmen of northern Italy; the Georgics, also formed on Greek models, deal with the pleasures of farm life; while the Aeneid, a great literary epic, deals with the wanderings and adventures of Aeneas after the destruction of Troy, from which, according to tradition, he had come with a small band of followers and laid the foundations of the power which later became Rome.

4. For the last ten years of his life Vergil was occupied in writing the Aeneid. In the year 19 B.C. he went to Greece with the intention of spending the next three years in the East for the purpose of getting a more intimate acquaintance with the scenes depicted in his poem and of acquiring local color for his work, upon which he was putting the final touches. While in Athens he met the emperor Augustus, who was returning to Rome from a visit in the East and who induced Vergil to accompany him. Vergil was already ill before he set sail and steadily grew worse during the voyage. Shortly after landing at Brundisium in southern Italy he died, September 21, 19 B.C., a little before his fifty-second birthday. Vergil was buried at Naples, which he had especially loved, and his tomb bore the inscription:

5. Mantua mē genuit; Calabrī rapuēre; tenet nunc Parthenopē; cecinī pascua, rūra, ducēs,

I was born at Mantua; died in Calabria; my bones lie in Naples; pastures, fields, and heroes were the theme of my song.

His untimely death left his great poem incomplete, and there are many indications of this fact in the Aeneid, the most marked being the unfinished verses, of which there are more than fifty.

The Aeneid

6. The Aeneid is a literary epic, modeled upon the Iliad and the Odyssey of Homer, from which it has drawn a great deal of its material and inspiration. The poem was undertaken at the request of Augustus. The theme, which is also said to have been suggested by Augustus, is the settlement of Aeneas in Italy, which finally led to the founding of Rome. This legend was already well established in Italy, where many of the great families took especial pride in tracing their ancestry back to Aeneas and his band of Trojan heroes. The Julian gens, of which Julius and Augustus Caesar were members, especially gloried in its tradition of a direct descent from Aeneas himself through Ascanius, or Iulus, as he was sometimes called. Besides this, the Romans were gradually coming to claim a Trojan origin for many of the customs, ceremonies, and institutions of their fathers. Vergil and Augustus were both interested in thus giving divine sanction and the weight of hoary antiquity to the measures which Augustus had undertaken for establishing the empire. Thus Augustus appears as the restorer of the good old days and the good old ways of the fathers. He is the promised ruler of divine descent who is to bring peace and a return of the Golden Age to the whole world. Throughout the entire poem the person and the work of Augustus are magnified, but these are made to appear as secondary and as but instruments in the hands of the gods for working out the high destiny of the Roman people. By thus stirring the feeling of Roman patriotism and pride of race as well as by constantly appealing to the sanctity and the authority of the good old days, the Aeneid met with an instant and a direct response from the Roman people, who were taking an ever-growing pride in the great achievements of their fathers. The success of the poem was thus assured from the first, and it has continued to exert an enormous influence upon later Roman and European literature.

7. As a piece of literature, the Aeneid has both the strength and weaknesses of its author and subject matter. Vergil was a weakling, usually in poor health, shy to the point of painfulness, a sentimental idealist, and little acquainted with the hard and practical ways of the stern old Roman world. He was never married and seems to have cared little or nothing for feminine society. His one great ideal of life can be summed up in the word pietās, devotion, loyalty, and he equips his hero Aeneas (pius Aenēās) with a full and overflowing measure of this quality, which finds its best expression in an unquestioned obedience to the will of the gods and to their more or less contradictory commands, no matter how much human suffering may be entailed nor how much apparent wrong may result. Vergil was born in Cisalpine Gaul, probably ineligible for Roman citizenship in his early years and possibly a member of a conquered tribe which had felt the pitiless heel of the conqueror. In any case he seems to have early developed a deep sympathy for the oppressed and for the losers in life's battle, and also a profound conviction of the sadness and sorrow of human existence and the futility of human effort in its attempts to adjust its feeble struggles to a world that is too much for it. The craving for satisfaction of a thwarted nature found its chief expression in its reliance upon the gods and their inscrutable ways as they worked out their plans for the world. In addition, he found refuge in a deep reverence for the past with its great heroes who had been so submissive to the will of the gods that they had become but puppets in carrying out the divine commands.

8. Vergil's chief claim to fame as a poet rests upon his incomparable literary style. Nettleship[1] says: "Unquestionably it was Vergil's style which more than anything else gave him his preeminence among Roman poets. The great power of his style lies in the haunting music of his verse, in the rhythm and fall of his language." As a close student of Greek, he had absorbed much of the best in that literature. "Not only is he fond of filling his verses with Greek forms and Greek cadences, but his lines are rich and harmonious with a new music manifold in its capacity; it is as if the sound of the Greek language had awakened a sympathetic strain in Italian. . . . Vergil not only translates but works his Greek materials into new forms." As a great artist he thoroughly loses himself in his work, but his impersonality "is not the impersonality of Homer or of Shakespere, who simply show us the world as it stands; Vergil yearns over the spectacle which he spreads before us."

[1] Vergil, pp. 90–92.

Vergil's Later Fame

9. Vergil was ardently admired even in his own day, and his fame continued to increase with the passing centuries. Under the later Roman Empire the reverence for his works reached the point where the Sortēs Vergiliānae came into vogue; that is, the Aeneid was opened at random, and the first line on which the eyes fell was taken as an omen of good or evil. In the mediæval period a great circle of legends and stories of miracles gathered around his name, and the Vergil of history was transformed into the Vergil of magic. He was looked upon not only as a great magician but as an inspired pagan prophet who had foretold the birth of Christ. It was at this period that the spelling Virgil came into vogue, thus associating the great poet with the magic or prophetic wand, virga. "The mediæval world looked upon him as a poet of prophetic insight, who contained within himself all the potentialities of wisdom. He was called the Poet, as if no other existed; the Roman, as if the ideal of the commonwealth were embodied in him; the Perfect in Style, with whom no other writer could be compared; the Philosopher, who grasped the ideas of all things; the Wise One, whose comprehension seemed to other mortals unlimited. His writings became the Bible of the race. The mysteries of Roman priestcraft, the processes of divination, the science of the stars, were all found in his works."[1] The great mediæval poets, such as Dante and Chaucer, learned much from the immortal Roman; since that time few great poets have escaped his influence, and one cannot properly estimate the course of European thought and poetic art without some knowledge of Vergil and his dominating power.

The Trojan War

10. To understand the Aeneid, it is necessary to be familiar with the story of the Trojan War and of the events leading up to it. According to the story, Jupiter, father and king of gods and men, once fell in love with Thetis, a beautiful sea goddess, and wished to marry her, but an oracle had foretold that the son of Thetis was to be mightier than his father. Hence Jupiter decreed that Thetis was to marry a mortal, and Peleus, a Greek king, was chosen as her husband. The wedding was a magnificent occasion, and all the gods and goddesses were invited except Eris, goddess of strife. Incensed at being thus slighted, she appeared in the midst of the festivities and spitefully threw among the assembled guests a golden apple (the famous Apple of Discord) with the inscription "To the fairest." Each of the ladies present wished to claim this prize for herself; but the contest finally narrowed down to Juno, queen of the gods; Minerva, goddess of wisdom; and Venus, goddess of love and beauty. The rivalry became very bitter, and the angry goddesses called upon Jupiter to decide; but he discreetly refused to act as judge.

So the case was finally referred to Paris, son of Priam, king of Troy or Ilium. Each of the goddesses then tried to bribe Paris. Juno offered him great wealth and unlimited power, Minerva the gift of great wisdom, while Venus promised him the most beautiful woman in the world for his wife. Paris thereupon awarded the prize to Venus and thus incurred the vindictive and unforgiving hatred of Juno and Minerva. His decision, henceforth known as the "Judgment of Paris," was the beginning of unending trouble for Paris and the Trojan people.

11. The most beautiful woman in the world at that time was Helen, daughter of Leda, and wife of Menelaüs, king of Sparta. With the help of Venus, Paris succeeded in winning Helen and eloping with her to Troy. All Greece at once arose in arms to avenge the insult of having one of their women carried off by a foreigner, and a great expedition was fitted out under Agamemnon, brother of Menelaüs, as commander-in-chief. The forces assembled at the port of Aulis in eastern Greece, but day after day the winds were unfavorable, and it was not possible for them to set sail. The Greeks consulted Calchas, the soothsayer of the expedition; and he replied that no favorable wind could be expected until they had sacrificed Iphigeneia, daughter of Agamemnon, to appease the gods. The princess was duly sacrificed, thus appeasing the gods and securing a favorable voyage for the expedition.

12. Many great Greek heroes embarked on this undertaking with Agamemnon and Menelaüs. Among the most famous were the sententious Nestor, who was older, knew more, and could talk more than any other man of his time; the wily Ulysses, whose cunning was invincible; the swift-footed Achilles, the dashing young hero ever eager to do and to dare for the pure thrill of the excitement and the love of adventure; the mighty Ajax, whose enormous strength was accompanied by a correspondingly dull wit; another Ajax, son of Oïleus, who was ever eager to grab his part of the spoils; the mighty Diomedes, who dared to fight against the very gods on the field of battle. There were also many other Greek heroes who were eager to distinguish themselves in such a noble undertaking and to get their share of the booty, when they should succeed in capturing the rich city of Troy. Among the Trojan warriors who opposed the Greeks were the dauntless Hector, eldest son of Priam and the noblest of all the warriors before Troy; the jaunty Paris who was fighting mightily to keep Helen; and the faithful Aeneas, the son of Venus and Anchises.

The Fall of Troy and Aeneas's Wanderings

13. For ten long years the siege lasted with varying fortunes, although the Greeks had a slight advantage, owing to the fact that more of the gods were fighting on their side than on that of the Trojans. Juno and Minerva were especially helpful to the Greeks, since they had both developed an undying hatred against all the Trojans, because of the evident unfairness of Trojan Paris in awarding the beauty prize to their hated rival, Venus.

14. Through the stratagem of the wooden horse, fully described in the second book of the Aeneid, Troy was finally captured and destroyed. Most of the inhabitants were either killed or dragged away into slavery; but a remnant, under the leadership of Aeneas, succeeded in escaping. After long wanderings and much hardship they finally reached Italy, where they settled and established their rule over the uncivilized natives. This settlement finally resulted in the founding of Rome, which gradually extended its sway and established the Roman Empire, with Augustus at its head in the days of Vergil.

The Purpose of the Aeneid

15. One of the results which both Augustus and Vergil hoped to see effected with the help of the Aeneid was a revival of faith in the old-time religion. The educated Romans of the day were becoming quite blasé and sophisticated and were gradually losing the faith of their fathers with its simple, unquestioning reliance on the infallible wisdom of the gods and their helpful interference in human affairs.

The Roman Religion

16. The machinery of this religion was quite elaborate. Before their acquaintance with Greek culture the Romans had developed a religion of their own, with a number of departmental divinities, each having charge of some general field in human experience, the boundaries of which were never very clearly defined. Hence there was a considerable overlapping of authority, with a consequent confusion in the divine government. With the coming of Greek culture, no radical change was effected in the general conceptions, but the Romans took over a vast mass of Greek stories about the gods and the deeds of divine and semidivine characters. In most cases the Roman names of the various divinities were retained, and they were simply identified with the corresponding Greek deities with their elaborate system of mythology. Thus the Greek father of gods and men, Zeus, was identified with the Roman Jupiter, Hera with Juno, Athena with Minerva, Aphrodite with Venus, Hermes with Mercury, Poseidon with Neptune, Hephaestus with Vulcan, etc. In addition to these common features, the Roman religion had certain characteristic divinities and conceptions of its own before the coming of Greek culture, and these were retained.

17. In speaking then of the religious ideas embodied in the Aeneid, we are dealing primarily with the Greco-Roman religion, to which are added certain Roman features not belonging to the Greek system.

18. At the head of the Roman system of religion stood Jupiter, father and king of gods and men. He was the god of heaven who gathered the storm clouds and hurled the lightning. His sign was the thunderbolt, and the eagle was his messenger. Apollo was the great god of light and the foe of all darkness and evil. He was the ideal of manly beauty and the patron of music, prophecy, poetry, and medicine. Mars was the brutal and bloody god of war and of battles. Vulcan, god of fire, supervised the working of metals and all useful and mechanical arts. Mercury with his winged sandals and his magic wand was the messenger and the herald of the gods. He was also god of inventions, trade, and commerce. Bacchus was the god of wine and master of revelry. Neptune, brother of Jupiter, was god of all the seas and waters of the earth. Juno, wife of Jupiter and queen of the gods, presided over the life of women and especially over the rites of marriage. Minerva was goddess of wisdom and of the arts and handicrafts, especially of female handicrafts. Diana, sister of Apollo, was the divinity of the moonlight, goddess of the woods, and mistress of the chase. Venus, born of the sea foam near Cythera, was goddess of love and beauty. Ceres, goddess of grain, presided over seedtime and harvest. Vesta, the goddess of the household fire, presided over hearth and home and the sanctities of family life. Pluto or Dis, with his queen Proserpina, ruled over the lower world and the souls of the dead.

19. In addition to these greater divinities, there were many minor deities, such as the beautiful feminine nymphs who haunted every fountain, stream, mountain, or sea, and their masculine counterparts, the homely satyrs, who frequented the forests, fields, and mountains. The Fates presided over human destinies, while the Furies avenged such crimes as murder and sacrilege. Among the great number of lesser deities and spirits were such personified qualities as Fortune, Concord, and Peace.

20. In addition to these gods and goddesses may be mentioned Janus, the two-faced god of beginnings and of gateways, and the household deities, the lares and penates, who along with Vesta, goddess of the hearth, formed the center of the family worship. These household deities were worshiped each day at the family meal. When the household sat down to dinner, a little of the food was thrown into the flames of the fire on the hearth, and a little wine was poured out as an offering to the household gods. The images of the lares and penates would also be brought from their shrine and placed on the table to insure their presence at the meal.

21. Special veneration was also shown to the spirits of the dead. These were called manes, meaning " the pure ones," and they were always looked upon as guardian deities of the family. These manes, or souls of the departed, were supposed to live a shadowy sort of existence in the lower world, sometimes returning to haunt the grave where they had been buried: for, unless the body were properly interred, the soul could not at once enter the realm of the lower world and find a permanent resting place, but must wander unhappily around for a hundred years, as a source of torment and of terror to the living. Hence the great importance of the proper burial rites and the great care bestowed upon these ceremonials by the Romans.

22. It was believed that the gods indicated their purposes to men by means of signs and omens, such as dreams, thunder and lightning, an eclipse of the sun, a blazing comet, the flight of birds, or the peculiar appearance of the entrails of animals offered for sacrifice. The gods were also thought to deliver special communications at sacred places known as " oracles." The most famous of these was that of Apollo at Delphi. Here stood a temple of Apollo over a cleft in the rock, and over this cleft, in the dark inner recesses of the temple, was placed a tripod containing a seat for the priestess or Pythia, who delivered the oracles. Other famous oracles were those at Delos, at Cumae, and in the Libyan desert.

23. The old Roman religion was of an intensely practical nature and busied itself with the everyday life of the people. As each household was bound together by the tie of a common worship, so all the citizens were held together by a common reverence for the divinities and powers who protected and guided the state. The Roman religion thus formed an indispensable bond of union for the family as well as the nation.

25. Bibliography of Vergil

The following books will be found helpful and desirable in the library of any high school where Vergil is being studied:

Harper's Classical Dictionary. American Book.
Harper's Latin Dictionary. American Book.
Glover's Virgil. Macmillan.
Wetmore's Index Vergilianus. Yale University Press.
Prescott's Development of Vergil's Art. University of Chicago Press.
Gayley's Classic Myths. Ginn.
Sellar's Roman Poets of the Augustan Age; Virgil. Oxford University Press.
The article on Virgil in the Encyclopedia Britannica, or in any other good encyclopedia.
Conington's Works of Virgil, with commentary, in three volumes. George Bell & Sons, London.
Tyrrell's Latin Poetry. Ginn.
Some one or more good histories of Rome, such as that of Boak (Macmillan) or that of Frank (Holt).
Comparetti's Vergil in the Middle Ages. Macmillan.
Mackail's Vergil and his Meaning for the World of Today. Longmans, Green.

The following verse translations may be recommended: Dryden, Conington, William Morris, Rhoades, Billson, E. Fairfax Taylor, T. C. Williams, Ballard.

The following books are very desirable for those who read German:

Norden, Das sechste Buch der Aeneis.
Heinze, Virgils epische Technik.

The edition of Servius's Latin Commentary on Vergil (edited by Thilo and Hagen) is indispensable for any thorough understanding of Vergil's poems and should be in the hands of every one who wishes to do any scholarly work in this field.

GENERAL DIRECTIONS

This book, with its visible vocabulary system, is so arranged that the complete vocabulary of any given passage is constantly before the reader.

In beginning the work of a given lesson, the student should open the book at the passage to be studied, and unfold the extensible sheet at the back of the book.

The reader will find two varieties of type employed in the Latin text, roman (ordinary light-faced) and italics. Words printed in roman type in the text are to be found in the vocabulary at the foot of a given page. Those printed in italics in the text will be found on the extensible sheet at the back of the book. The list of the italicized words of the text, which represent the most common words in the author, should be mastered as early as possible.

A dagger (†) after a word in the vocabulary indicates the first appearance of this word in the work of the author being studied; an asterisk (*) after a word in the vocabulary indicates that it appears ten times or more in the work which is being read. Teachers who wish to give special vocabulary drills will find in the list at the back of the book and in the words followed by an asterisk perhaps the most valuable and the least wasteful of any material which may be available for their purpose.

This book may be employed with good results in a variety of ways, a few of which are here suggested as possibilities:

(1) It may be used as any other Latin text is commonly studied; that is, the teacher may assign a definite amount of work at each recitation, and the students may prepare this assignment and recite on it at the next meeting of the class. This is probably the least desirable method of studying any language.

(2) A much better method is to spend at least half of the recitation period in sight reading. The students should begin by quickly looking over the words followed by a dagger (†) in the vocabulary at the bottom of each page, and then be prepared to read. The teacher should never translate for them, but should give them an occasional hint or a question with respect to a form or a construction, and should make very brief comments on points that may appear obscure. In this way the students should usually cover the advanced lesson in class, so that their additional preparation would primarily consist in a review or elaboration of the work already done in class under the direction of the teacher.

(3) A still more satisfactory method is, however, to arrange for twice as much time for class meeting as has been customary. The whole of this time should be spent working on the text under the direct supervision of the teacher, and should be devoted primarily to sight reading. The work of the students outside the class meeting should consist in a limited amount of supplementary reading and in a continual review of the grammar, both forms and syntax, as found in the grammatical appendix of this book. Since little or no outside preparation would be required, such a course should have no more credit than the ordinary type which meets the customary number of hours a week. Schools which can arrange their schedule on this basis will find their students making much more satisfactory progress and developing much more enthusiasm for their work.

All Latin students in high school and college work should make a thorough review of Latin grammar at the beginning of each school year. Even though it may be done rapidly this review should be comprehensive and should include all forms and syntax previously studied. Some attention should be paid to any additional features which are to be used during the new year. This new matter, together with the review, may be briefly summarized in the first three or four meetings of the class. When the reading of poetry is begun a careful study should be made of the elementary principles of versification. All principles learned or reviewed should be continually applied as the class proceeds. The material for this work will be found in the Grammatical Appendix of this book, distributed as follows:

Pronunciation and Inflection	1–235
Syntax	236–390
Versification	391–410
Figures of Syntax and Rhetoric	411–477

The Index to the Appendix will be found useful in locating material which may otherwise be difficult to find. It is important to remember that no one can ever read intelligently any language without a practical working knowledge of the grammar. In general it will be found that a careful and systematic study of the grammar, with a constant application of its principles and with frequent reviews, will mean a great saving of time and a great increase in the power of the students to comprehend the language which is being studied.

NOTE TO THE STUDENT: For the meaning of the signs and abbreviations see page 14. The Latin dedication on page iii may be translated: With pleasure the author dedicates this little book to the divine spirit of the prophet-poet Vergil in appreciation of his worth.

saevus, a, um cruel, stern, fierce†*

1–7. The theme of the poem, namely, the wanderings and wars of Aeneas, who after many struggles laid the foundation for the greatness of future Rome, in accordance with the decrees of fate.

From the more extended introduction to the poem (lines 1–33) we learn: (1) the plan of the poet to describe the adventures of his hero, as is done in the Odyssey, and to depict wars and battles, as does the Iliad; (2) the deep religious conviction of the author, for whom the gods rule over all mortal affairs; (3) the national pride of the poet, found in his choice of material, and which later comes to its clearest expression in l. 33.

1. Arma virumque: the theme of the Aeneid; arma stands by metonymy for deeds of arms, wars, referring to the wars in which Aeneas engaged, both in Troy and in Italy; virum refers to Aeneas, so well known that he is not mentioned by name until l. 92. Trojae: with the first syllable long by position: App. 6, b. quī prīmus ab ōrīs Trojae (ad) Ītaliam vēnit. This refers to Aeneas as the first of the Trojans to come to Italy after their native city Troy had been captured, sacked, and destroyed by the Greeks in the Trojan war. Strictly speaking, the Trojan Antenor had preceded him, but Antenor's arrival was of no great consequence and did not have the far-reaching results that the coming of Aeneas had. Compare the discovery of America by Leif Ericson with that by Columbus.

2–3. (ad, in) Ītaliam, (ad, in) lītora: acc. of place to which; App. 315. fātō: abl. of means or cause; App. 331, 332; "such was the will of heaven." Lāvīn(i)a: of Lavinium, an ancient city on the western coast of Italy, near the spot where Rome was later founded. Lavinium was reputed to have been the first Trojan settlement in Italy and to have been named for Lavinia, an Italian princess whom Aeneas married. Lavinia was the daughter of Latinus, king of the Latins.

3. multum: with adverbial force, modifying jactātus. ille: Aeneas, the virum of l. 1. (in) terrīs, et (in) altō: abl. of place where; App. 319. jactātus (est).

4. vī: abl. of cause or means; App. 331, 332. superum = superōrum, gen. pl., of the gods above. memorem: a transferred epithet, logically belonging to Jūnōnis, but poetically applied to īram. saevae memorem Jūnōnis ob īram: an example of what is known as "interlocked order," saevae modifying Jūnōnis, and memorem modifying īram. This order is often found in Latin poetry. Jūnōnis ob īram: the reasons for Juno's hatred of Aeneas and the Trojans are given by Vergil in ll. 12–28.

5-6. conderet, īnferret: purpose; App. 374.

5. urbem: Lavinium. passus (est Aenēās). (in) bellō: abl. of place; App. 319; referring to the enemies whom he had to conquer after landing in Italy. multa: cognate accusative with passus; App. 307, 313.

6. īnferret deōs: App. 374; in antiquity migrating peoples regularly carried with them their gods, either as images or other sacred symbols; see ll. 68 and 378. Latiō: dat. of direction = ad (in) Latium; App. 306. unde genus Latīnum (est): Roman legends traced the origin of the Latin race, of the kingdom of Alba Longa (forerunner of Rome), and of the founding of Rome, back to the coming of the Trojans under Aeneas to Italy.

7. (unde) Albānī patrēs (sunt): in Roman times many of the noble senatorial families took much pride in tracing their ancestry back to Troy, through the great families of Alba Longa. patrēs: with the first syllable short; App. 17. altae: may refer either to position, situated on the (seven) high hills, or to the power and prestige of lofty (mighty) Rome.

8–11. Invocation of the Muse.

8. Mūsa: it is the custom of epic poets to invoke the muse for inspiration and to assign to some such divine source the gift of being able to compose their poems. mihī: this word in poetry may have the final i either long or short. The same is true of tibi, sibi, ubi, and ibi. quō nūmine (Jūnōnis) laesō: abl. abs. or abl. of cause; App. 332, 343.

9. quidve dolēns: or vexed at what. rēgīna de(ōr)um: Juno as Jupiter's wife was queen of the gods. cāsūs: object of volvere, to undergo, pass through.

10. virum = Aenēān, subject of volvere, which depends upon impulerit. pietāte: dependent on īnsignem; the most prominent characteristic of Aeneas was his pietās, loyalty or devotion to duty.

11. impulerit: subj. in indir. quest. App. 349, 350. Tantaene = suntne tantae īrae caelestibus animīs? animīs: dat. of possession; App. 299. īrae: poetic plural, often employed in Latin where English would ordinarily use the singular.

12–33. Reasons for the wrath of Juno against Aeneas and the Trojans.

12. Urbs antīqua fuit: according to the tradition which Vergil here follows, Carthage was in fact founded some four hundred years later than the traditional date of the fall of Troy, 1184 B.C. Tyriī: from Tyre, a city of Phoenicia whence Carthage was said to have been settled. The Phoenicians were the great traders of their time, and Carthage on the northern shore of Africa midway on the Mediterranean occupied a strategic position for controlling the commerce of these regions. tenuēre: shorter form for tenuērunt; App. 204, 4.

13. longē: modifying contrā, which governs both Ītaliam and Tiberīna ōstia.

14. ōstia: see note on īrae, l. 11. The general expression, Ītaliam, is followed by the more specific Tiberīna ōstia for the sake of greater clearness and vividness. opum: gen. with the adjective dīves, rich in resources; App. 287. studiīs: abl. of respect, depends on asperrima; App. 325. This phrase would remind the Romans of their bitter struggles with Carthage in the three Punic Wars.

15. quam: refers to urbs, l. 12, and is object of coluisse. fertur: is said, a common meaning. terrīs omnibus = terrīs aliīs; terrīs is abl. with comparative magis; App. 327. ūnam = sōlam, as often.

16. posthabitā Samō: abl. abs.; App. 343. Juno greatly loved Samos, an island off the western coast of Asia Minor. According to the myth, the goddess had been reared in Samos, had married Jupiter there, and one of her temples, one of the most famous in the world, was situated there. Samō: the final vowel is not elided, although the following word begins with an h. This failure to elide is called hiatus; App. 399. illius (Jūnōnis): the i of the genitive ending of the nine pronouns and adjectives ending in ius is usually long, but often short in poetry as here. arma (fuērunt): doubtless refers to ancient arms, chariot, and other relics preserved in Juno's temple at Samos.

16–17. hīc, hīc, hoc: repeated for emphasis; this repetition is called anaphora; App. 413. hoc: refers to urbs l. 12, but is attracted to the gender of the predicate noun rēgnum, the ruling power. Jūnō dea jam tum tenditque fovetque hanc urbem (Karthāginem) esse rēgnum omnibus gentibus, sed fāta voluērunt Rōmam esse hoc rēgnum. gentibus: dat. of reference; App. 301.

18. quā (viā): abl. of manner; quā is an indef. pron. fāta: the power of the fates was greater even than that of the gods.

19. Prōgeniem: the Romans. dūcī: was being derived, indir. disc.; App. 390; depends on audi(v)erat (l. 20), of which Juno is the subject understood.

20. Tyriās arcēs = Karthāginem. verteret: subj. of characteristic; App. 389, or rel. clause of purpose; App. 388.

21. hinc: ā Trojānō sanguine, or ab hāc prōgeniē. populum: subj. of ventūrum (esse) (l. 22), an inf. in indir. disc., depending on audierat; App. 390. rēgem: used like a participle (rēgnantem) here, and modified by lātē. bellō: abl. of respect, depending on superbum; App. 325.

22. excidiō: dat. of purpose; App. 303; for the destruction. Libyae: for Āfricae, meaning especially Karthāginī. Parcās = fāta: subject of volvere. The Parcae were represented as three sisters, Clotho (Spinner), who spun the thread of life for each mortal; Lachesis (Measurer), who measured the thread; and Atropos (Inevitable), who cut the thread when any one had reached his allotted days.

"Somewhere on an unknown shore,
Where the rivers of life their waters pour,
Sit three sisters forevermore,
Spinning a silver thread."

23. Id: the destined supremacy of Rome and overthrow of Carthage (ll. 19–22). metuēns: modifies Sāturnia (Jūnō) and has Id as object. Sāturnia: Saturn's daughter, subject of arcēbat. veteris bellī: the Trojan War.

24. prīma: (as) chief, leader, foremost, modifies ea (understood), which refers to Juno. The goddess had taken a leading part in assisting the Greeks against the Trojans. The reasons for her hatred of the Trojans are given in ll. 27–28. See also Introd. 10. cārīs Argīs: Argos, a noted center of the worship of Juno, stands here for all Greece and the Greeks.

25. īrārum: poetic plural; see note on īrae (l. 11), and cf. App. 243.

26. (ex) animō: abl. of separation; App. 340. (in) altā mente: abl. of place where, in her deep mind, i.e., deep in her mind; App. 319. repos(i)tum: the longer form, with its three successive short syllables (˘˘˘), could not be used in hexameter verse.

27. jūdicium Paridis: refers to the famous Judgment of Paris. Read Tennyson's Oenone and see Introd. 10 for the story. sprētae formae: appositional gen. with injūria; App. 281; the insult to her slighted beauty, shown by the adverse decision of Paris.

Trōs, Trōis m. Trojan†*

whole Trojan race, partly because of Paris, but also because Dardanus, the founder of the Trojans, was the son of Electra, her hated rival. Ganymēdis: a royal Trojan youth, brother of Priam, snatched up (raptī) by an eagle into heaven, where he was beloved by Jupiter, who made him his cupbearer, instead of Juno's own daughter, Hebe.

29. hīs: abl. of means or cause; App. 331, 332; dependent on accēnsa, and referring to the three chief causes of Juno's hatred which have just been mentioned in ll. 26–28. accēnsa (Jūnō). super: adverb, too, also, i.e., in addition to her fears for Carthage. (in) aequore tōtō: abl. of place where; App. 319.

30. Trōās: a Greek form; acc. pl. of Trōs. re(l)liquiās: sometimes spelled with ll, as here, making the first syllable long so that the word may be used in hexameter verse. Dana(ōr)um, Achillī: subjective genitives, the leavings (remnants) of the Greeks and of Achilles, i.e., those Trojans whom the Greeks and Achilles had allowed to escape.

31. arcēbat: the imperfect of continued action; App. 351, 2. (ā) Latiō: separation; App. 340. longē Latiō: note the repetition of the letter l; such a repetition is called alliteration; App. 411. Alliteration, or the recurrence of the same sounds in successive syllables or words, is found in all languages, especially in early verse. It is a special characteristic of early Germanic poetry, nearly all Old English verse being alliterative.

32. (Trōes) errābant. fātīs: abl. of means. āctī: participle of agō, modifies Trōes understood. maria omnia circum: in poetry the preposition is often placed after its noun, as here. This is called anastrophe; App. 414.

33. Tantae mōlis: gen. of quality in the predicate; App. 285, a.; of so great effort was it. This line, summarizing the preceding lines, forms a powerful and effective close to this first section of the Aeneid and serves as a general introduction to the whole poem.

34–49. Aeneas and the Trojans set sail from Sicily for Italy, as they hope, happy at the prospect of the end of their wanderings. Bitter soliloquy of Juno, who chafes at the apparent failure of her plans to keep Aeneas and the Trojans from reaching Italy.

34. The reader is now plunged in mediās rēs: "into the midst of the action," and we are abruptly introduced to Aeneas and his followers sailing away from the coast of Sicily. They have now been wandering for seven years since the destruction of Troy, their native city. These earlier events (the fall of Troy and their seven years of wandering) are later on narrated by Aeneas to Dido (Books II and III).

35. laetī (Trōes): subject of dabant. spūmās salīs aere ruēbant: note the alliteration; App. 411. aere: the prows of the ships were sheathed with bronze.

36–37. Jūnō . . . haec(dīxit).

36. aeternum vulnus: the causes of this anger have been given above: her fear for Carthage, the Judgment of Paris, etc. sub pectore: deep in her heart.

37. sēcum = cum sē; mēne: subj. of dēsistere. Mēne: -ne is the interrogative particle appended to the pronoun, mē.

37–38: dēsistere . . . nec posse: infinitives, in an exclamatory question; I beaten desist from my undertaking and not be able, etc.; App. 262. (ab) inceptō: abl. of separation; App. 340. victam: from vincō; it modifies mē.

38. (ab) Ītaliā: abl. of separation; App. 340. Teucrōrum: the Trojans are often referred to as Teucrī, a name derived from Teucer, one of the founders of the Trojan race.

39. Quippe vetor: ironical. fātīs: abl. of means; App. 331. -ne = nōnne. Pallas (Athēna): Minerva.

40. Argīvum: Argīvōrum; App. 37, d. ipsōs: (the masters) themselves, i.e., the Argives, as contrasted with classem. Ipse often means the master, the one of most importance in a situation, as contrasted with persons or things of less importance. pontō: abl. of place where App. 319, or means; App. 331.

41. ūnius Ajācis Oīleī: a whole fleet was destroyed on account of one man. For the short i in ūnius see the note on illius (l. 16). ob noxam et furiās: Ajax, son of Oïleus, had desecrated the temple of Minerva during the sack of Troy, when before the very altar of the sanctuary he had seized Cassandra, daughter of Priam and priestess of Minerva. Enraged at such rash irreverence, Minerva later sank the ship of Ajax and destroyed him with lightning. Ajācis Oīleī: of Ajax (son) of Oïleus. Observe that the A forms a long syllable by position; App. 6, b., and that -eī of Oīleī is here read as one syllable by synizesis; App. 403. This Ajax was less renowned than the other Ajax, son of Telamon.

42. Ipsa: (the goddess, Minerva) in person. She was the only divinity, except Jupiter, who might hurl the lightning. Jovis ignem: lightning.

43. -que . . . -que: both . . . and, polysyndeton; App. 439.

44. illum (Ajācem): with emphatic first position, which contrasts it with the ships and the sea previously mentioned

(ex) pectore: abl. of separation; App. 340.

45. turbine: abl. of means; App. 331. (Pallas)ī corripuit. scopulō: dat. with compound īnfīxit; or abl. of place where, as īnfīgō may take either construction; App. 298, 319.

46. ego: with proud self-consciousness and in contrast with Minerva; ego is never expressed unless emphatic. dīv(ōr)um: App. 37, d.

47. tot annōs: acc. of extent (duration) of time; App. 314; ten years around Troy, and now seven more years while the Trojans wander. ūnā cum gente = cum Teucrīs.

48. gerō: of past action continued into the present; App. 351, 1, b. Et quisquam: "can any one longer respect me, if I show myself such a weakling?" This figure is called a rhetorical question. Jūnōnis = meum: Juno is speaking, but the use of her own name is more picturesque and effective than the use of the possessive adjective.

49. supplex: (as a) suppliant. ārīs: dat. with compound; App. 298. honōrem: honor, i.e., an offering which would honor Juno.

50–80. Juno persuades Aeolus, god of the winds, to send forth a storm to prevent Aeneas and the Trojans from reaching Italy.

50. Tālia: used substantively, as object of volūtāns; such things, i.e., such thoughts. (in) flammātō corde: abl. of place where; App. 319. sēcum = cum sē, as in l. 37; App. 321, a.

51. patriam: with the first syllable short; App. 17. Austrīs: abl. with fēta, literally, south winds, but often meaning winds in general; App. 433. fēta furentibus: note the alliteration; App. 411.

51–52. loca . . . Aeoliam: apposition with patriam. Hīc: adverb, here. (in) vastō antrō: abl. of place where; App. 319.

53. luctantīs: acc. pl. of an i-stem.

54. vinclīs: the longer form vinculīs (—⏑—) could not be used in hexameter. imperiō, vinc(u)līs, carcere: ablatives of means; App. 331. frēnat: a picture

55. magnō cum murmure montis: alliteration (m) and onomatopœia; App. 411, 434; murmure is abl. of manner; App. 328.

56. (in) celsā arce: abl. of place, apparently a lofty seat within the cave or just outside on a mountain top.

57. scēptra: for the use of the poetic plural see the note on īrae (l. 11). animōs (ventōrum) et īrās (ventōrum).

58. nī (Aeolus id) faciat = nī molliat animōs (ventōrum) et temperet īrās (eōrum); faciat is subj. in a pres. condit. contrary to fact; App. 382.

59. (ventī) rapidī: the winds in their madness. sēcum = cum sē; App. 321, a. ferant, verrant (maria ac terrās caelumque profundum).

60. pater omnipotēns: Juppiter. (in) spēluncīs ātrīs = antrō (l. 52), abl. of place where; App. 319. abdidit (illōs ventōs).

61. hoc: obj. of metuēns. mōlem et montīs: alliteration; App. 411. montīs: acc. pl., an i-stem.

62. rēgem (Aeolum) dedit (ventīs). foedere certō: abl. of manner; App. 328.

63. premere: object of scīret, would know (how) to grasp tightly, so as to draw in the reins. For the figure of horsemanship see the note on frēnat (l. 54). scīret: rel. clause of purpose or characteristic; App. 388, 389. dare: also obj. of sciret. jussus (ā Jove): (when) ordered (by Jupiter).

64. hīs vōcibus: abl. with ūtor; App. 342.

65. Aeole: voc. dīv(ōr)um pater atque hominum rēx: Juppiter. tibī: for the length of the final i, see the note on mihi (l. 8).

66. mulcēre, tollere (flūctūs): objects of dedit, has granted. ventō: abl. of means; App. 331.

67. gēns inimīca mihī: Teucrī. Tyr-rhēnum aequor: that part of the Mediterranean west of Italy, east of Corsica and Sardinia, and north of Sicily.

68. Īlium . . . portāns victōsque penātīs: see note on īnferret deōs (l. 6.). They were bearing Ilium in their plan to found a new city which should continue the race and the customs of the Īlium (Troy) which had been destroyed. The origin of the worship of the penates, household gods at Rome, was lost in antiquity; and the Romans explained this and other old customs by referring their beginnings to Troy. victōs: defeated by the Greeks in the Trojan War.

69. incute: imp. vim ventīs: alliteration; App. 411. ventīs: dat. with a compound; App. 298. summersās obrue puppīs: overwhelm the sunken ships, i.e., sink and overwhelm the ships, a good example of the figure known as prolepsis, or anticipation; App. 440.

70. age: imp. dīversōs (Teucrōs): i.e., drive the Trojans in different directions and scatter their corpses over the sea; another example of prolepsis; App. 440. pontō: abl. of place where; App. 319.

71. mihi: dat. of possession; App. 299. bis septem: twice seven; more poetic than to say simply fourteen. praestantī corpore: abl. of quality; App. 330.

72. formā: abl. of respect; App. 325; dependent on pulcherrima. Dēiopēa: nom. by attraction into the case of the relative pronoun, quae; the accusative would be expected, as object of jungam; App. 242, a. quārum: use the English demonstrative in translation, and read as though you had: Dēiopēam, quae (est) eārum (nymphārum) pulcherrima formā, jungam (tibi) stabilī cōnūbiō et (eam) dicābō (tuam) propriam.

73. cōnūbiō: in wedlock, abl. of place where or means; App. 319, 331. cōnūbiō is trisyllabic by synizesis, and pronounced as though written cōnūbjō; App. 401. jungam (tibi). dicābō (eam) propriam: I shall dedicate her (Deiopea) to you (as) your very own. Juno was goddess of marriage. propriam: with the first syllable short; App. 17.

74. tēcum = cum tē; App. 321, a.

75. prōle: abl. of quality; App. 330, or means; App. 331. pulchrā prōle parentem: alliteration; App. 411. exigat, faciat: result or purpose; App. 364, 388. parentem = patrem

76. haec (dīxit). optēs: indir. quest.; App. 349. Tuus (est) labor: thine (is) the task. Aeolus thus absolves himself from responsibility, if his obedience to Juno gets him into trouble.

77. mihi: dat. of reference; App. 301. jussa (tua).

78. quodcumque hoc (est) rēgnī: whatever this is (in the way) of a kingdom, an expression of modesty. rēgnī: part. gen. with quodcumque; App. 286. scēptra: for the plural see the note on īrae (l. 11). Tū: always emphatic, and here strengthened by repetition (anaphora); App. 413.

79. epulīs: dat. with compound; App. 298. The ancient Romans regularly reclined at meals. dīv(ōr)um: App. 37, d. accumbere: object of dās, you grant (me) the privilege of reclining. As one of the lesser gods, Aeolus was dependent upon the favor of the more powerful divinities.

80. facis (mē) potentem nimbōrum tempestātumque.

81–123. Description of the storm which wrecks part of the Trojan ships and scatters the rest.

81. ubi haec dicta (sunt ab Aeolō). Observe the alliteration; App. 411.

82. impulit: Aeolus thus opens the barriers and lets out the winds. agmine factō: abl. abs.; App. 343; a figure of speech drawn from military life.

83. Observe the alliteration, every word but one in this line containing a t; App. 411. data (est). turbine: abl. of manner; App. 328.

84. Incubuēre = incubuērunt, from incumbō. The perfect, after a series of presents, denotes rapid or instantaneous action; they have fallen upon the sea. marī: dat. with compound; App. 298. tōtum (mare): obj. of ruunt, l. 85.

85. ruunt: overturn. Eurus, Notus, Āfricus: all the winds blow at once, and in their struggles produce a mighty storm. procellīs: abl. of respect or means with crēber; App. 325, 331. -que, -que, -que: polysyndeton; App. 439.

86. vastōs volvunt: alliteration, employed very effectively here, as often in the Aeneid.

87. vir(ōr)um: Aeneas and the other Trojans. -que, -que: polysyndeton; App. 439.

88. diem = lūcem diēī. -que, -que: polysyndeton; App. 439.

89. pontō: dat. with compound; App. 298.

90. Intonuēre = intonuērunt; App. 204, 4. ignibus (Jovis): lightning, abl. of means or manner; App. 328, 331.

91. virīs = Teucrīs; dat. of reference; App. 301. omnia: used substantively, all things, as subj. of intentant.

92. frīgore: chilly fear; the ancient heroes were not ashamed to display their emotions, and often gave way to terror or grief. They weep copiously on occasion, and are no more dainty about the shedding of tears than the shedding of blood.

93. duplicīs: acc. pl. of an i-stem; the first syllable is short; App. 17. In prayer the ancient Greeks and Romans extended their hands with the palms upward, ready to accept the blessing.

94. tālia (dicta). beātī (vōs): vocative.

95. quīs ante ōra patrum (vestrum) sub moenia Trojae contigit oppetere (mortem). quīs = quibus; App. 109, c; observe the quantity of the i; dat. with contigit; App. 298. ante ōra: where their kinsmen and friends might witness their glorious deeds and death and might bury their bodies, thus giving rest to their souls; for the souls of the unburied must wander restlessly after death.

96. oppetere (mortem): subject of contigit. Dana(ōr)um: App. 37, d.

97. mē: subj. of potuisse. mēne

potuisse: could I not, etc., inf. in an exclamatory question; App. 262. Tȳdīdē: vocative. Aeneas engaged in a disastrous duel at Troy with Diomedes and barely escaped with his life, being rescued by his mother, the goddess Venus. (in) campīs: abl. of place where; App. 319. occumbere (mortī): complementary infin. with potuisse, as is also effundere in l. 98.

98. hanc = meam. (tuā) dextrā (manū): abl. of means; App. 331.

99. tēlō (ictus): (slain) by the spear. Observe the emphasis obtained by anaphora of ubi; App. 413.

100. Sarpēdōn (jacet): an ally of the Trojans. Simoīs . . . volvit.

101. vir(ōr)um. correpta sub undīs: goes with scūta and galeās as well as with corpora and refers to the corpses and armor of slain warriors swept along by (under) the water.

102. (Aenēae) jactantī: dat. of reference; App. 301. Tālia (dicta): obj. of jactantī. Aquilōne: abl. of means; App. 331.

103. ferit: from feriō; not to be confused with the verb ferō. adversa (procella). ad sīdera: such exaggerated language is called hyperbole; App. 428.

104. rēmī: the ancient ship used both oars and sails. prōra (sē) āvertit et undīs dat latus (nāvis).

105. cumulō: abl. of manner; App. 328. mōns: more hyperbole; App. 428; note the smashing effect of the monosyllable at the end of the line.

106. Hī (virī). hīs (virīs): dative of reference; App. 301. hī . . . hīs: these . . . for those; some . . . for others, referring to the crews of different ships; anaphora; App. 413.

107. terram: the bottom (of the sea): the hyperbole is continued; App. 428. harēnīs: with the sands, abl. of means: App. 331.

108–109. Trīs (nāvīs): acc. pl. of an i-stem, object of torquet. saxa . . . saxa: anaphora; App. 413. mediīs in flūctibus: in the middle (of the) waves; App. 246. quae saxa Italī vocant Ārās: quae is a relative adjective agreeing with saxa; saxa is object of vocant, and Ārās is predicate accusative. Ārās: the Altars, the Roman name for a ledge of rocks off the African coast, just outside the harbor of ancient Carthage.

110. (in) marī summō: at the surface of the sea; abl. of place where; App. 319, 246. dorsum: apposition with saxa. trīs (nāvīs): object of urget.

111. miserābile vīsū: piteous to behold; miserābile is a neuter adjective modifying the idea expressed in the preceding sentence, while vīsū is the supine of videō and an abl. of respect; App. 325.

112. vadīs = in vada, dat. of direction, sometimes used instead of the acc. of place to which; App. 306.

113. Ūnam (nāvem). Orontēn: acc., a Greek form.

114. ipsius (Aenēae): of the master, a common use of ipse. Compare ipsa (l. 42) and ipsōs (l. 40). For the length of the second vowel, see the note on illius (l. 16). ā vertice: from high above. ferit: from feriō.

115. in: upon. excutitur (ē nāvī).

116. in caput: headlong. illam (nāvem): contrasted with the helmsman (magister).

117. (in) aequore: abl. of place where; App. 319.

118. nantēs: pres. part. of nō, modifying rārī (virī), arma, tabulae, and gaza, but agreeing with the nearest word, rārī (virī), men here and there; App. 238.

119. vir(ōr)um. arma: such as wooden shields and leather helmets made of light and buoyant material. gaza: the first syllable is long by position; App. 15.

JUNO BEGS THE HELP OF AEOLUS AGAINST THE SHIP OF AENEAS

Alinari, Rome · Lateran Museum

NEPTUNE

In his left hand the god holds a trident; in the right, a seashell. His right foot rests on the rostrum of a ship, and behind him is a dolphin, one of the creatures of his domain.

131. dehinc: one syllable by synizesis; App. 403. tālia (dicta).

132. generis fīdūcia vestrī: this verse is sarcastic; the winds were of divine origin, being descended from Aurora, goddess of the dawn, and from Astraeus, a Titan rival of the gods. caelum terramque: hyperbole; App. 428.

134. miscēre, tollere: depend on audētis, as complementary infinitives; App. 259.

135. Quōs = Vōs. Quōs ego —: a good example of aposiopesis; App. 416; i.e., instead of completing his sentence, the speaker breaks off abruptly and leaves to the imagination, as being beyond the power of adequate expression in words, just what sort of dire punishment he may inflict upon the guilty winds; Quōs is thus the object and ego the subject of the unexpressed verb.

136. nōn similī poenā: abl. of means; App. 331; by no similar punishment, i.e., by a much greater one; this figure of speech is called litotes; App. 431.

137. rēgī vestrō = Aeolō.

138. illī: dat. of indir. obj. in emphatic position contrasted with mihi in the same position in the following line. tridentem: the well-known symbol of Neptune as god of the sea. imperium, tridentem: subjects of datum (esse), an inf. in indir. disc., dependent on dīcite, in l. 137.

139. sorte: when Saturn was overthrown, the three gods, Jupiter, Neptune, and Pluto, divided his dominion among them by lot, Jupiter receiving the dominion of heaven, Neptune of the sea, and Pluto of the realm of the dead in the lower world.

140. vestrās: referring to all the winds, although Neptune is directly addressing Eurus only.

140–141. illā, clausō: emphatic by position. jactet, rēgnet: volitive subjunctives; App. 254. (in) clausō carcere: abl. of place where; App. 319.

142. ait: third sing. of ajō. dictō: abl. with compar.; App. 327.

144. Cȳmothoē: nom.; a Greek form.

145. ipse: the master (Neptune). See note on ipsōs (l. 40). (dē) scopulō: abl. of separation; App. 340. levat: with the trident as a lever. tridentī: abl. of an i-stem.

147. rotīs levibus: abl. of manner; App. 328.

148. velutī saepe cum: just as often (happens) when; this passage (ll. 148–156) is one of Vergil's most famous similes; App. 441.

149. animīs: abl. of place where or manner; App. 319, 328.

150. facēs: very dangerous in a city with so many wooden buildings as there were in ancient Rome. furor arma ministrat: in their fury any object serves as a missile.

151. quem: some, the indefinite pronoun. pietāte, meritīs: abl. of cause or respect with gravem; App. 325; 332.

152. arrēctīs auribus: abl. abs. of manner; App. 343, 328. arrēctīs auribus astant: alliteration; App. 411. cōnspexēre = cōnspexērunt; App. 204, 4. silent, astant: plurals, because of the collective idea in vulgus and populō; App. 236, a.

154–155. sīc: correlative with velutī in l. 148. postquam genitor . . . flectit et . . . dat. aequora: obj. of prōspiciēns.

155. (in) caelō apertō: abl. of place where; App. 319. genitor: Neptune. invectus (currū): riding in his car.

156. flectit . . . dat: historical presents; App. 351, 1, a. currū: dat. of indir. obj.; App. 295.

157–207. Aeneas, with seven out of twenty ships, lands on the coast of North Africa near Carthage. He kills seven fine stags, which he divides among his comrades, whom he tries to console and encourage.

157–158. Aeneadae lītora, quae (sunt) proxima, cursū petere contendunt.

159–160. īnsula efficit (hunc locum) portum. portum: predicate acc. in sēcessū longō: the inlet extends deep into the land.

160. quibus: abl. of means; App. 331.

160–161. omnis unda (veniēns) ab altō frangitur et sē in sinūs reductōs scindit. sēsē = sē. Observe the alliteration; App. 411.

162. Hinc atque hinc: on (from) this side and that, i.e., on both sides. rūpēs (sunt).

164. scaena: the place resembles a stage with its scenery. silvīs coruscīs: abl. of quality; App. 330.

165. horrentī umbrā: abl. of cause if taken with ātrum, or of manner if taken with imminet; App. 332, 328. horrentī: abl. of an i-stem; this word is probably used here to suggest the shade of bristling evergreens, such as cedars, firs, or pines.

166. scopulīs pendentibus: abl. of quality or material; App. 330, 324.

167. vīvō saxō: denotes natural, not artificial, seats.

168. domus: in apposition with antrum, the cave just described; nymphs were supposed to frequent remote spots with beautiful natural scenery. Hīc: adverb, here; observe that the ī is long in the adverb but short in the pronoun. fessās nāvīs: personification; App. 437; or possibly a transferred epithet; the Trojans were tired; App. 446.

169. ancora: anachronistic; hooked anchors were not used at that time. alligat (nāvīs). uncō morsū: abl. of means; App. 331.

170. collēctīs nāvibus: abl. abs.; App. 343. omnī ex numerō: we see from l. 393 that Aeneas had set out with twenty ships.

171. magnō amōre: abl. of manner; App. 328.

172. Trōēs: nom. pl., a Greek form. optātā harēnā: abl. with potior; App. 342.

173. sale: abl. of means with tābentīs.

174. silicī: dat. of separation; App. 305.

175. foliīs: abl. of means; App. 331. circum: adv. modifying dedit: he places fuel around; or else understand circum (ignem).

177. Cererem: the goddess of grain, by metonymy for grain; App. 433. Cereālia arma: the utensils of Ceres, i.e., utensils for grinding and for cooking grain.

gen. with the adj. fessī; App. 287, weary of their misfortunes. receptās (ex marī).

179. torrēre: to make it easier to grind. frangere: to make coarse meal. flammīs, saxō: ablatives of means; App. 331.

181. pelagō: dat. of direction = in pelagus; App. 306, or else = in pelagō, abl. of place where; App. 319. quem: indef. any, modifying Anthea, an acc., Greek form, if he can see any Antheus; in English we should say if he can see anything of Antheus.

182. videat: subj. in an indir. quest.; App. 349.

183. Capyn: acc., a Greek form. puppibus: poetic plural. arma: especially shields fastened on the ship and conspicuous at a great distance.

184. Nāvem (prōspicit). (in) lītore: abl. of place where; App. 319. Nāvem nūllam, trīs cervōs: chiasmus and asyndeton; App. 420, 418.

185. hōs (cervōs): the three stags are at the head of the feeding herd.

186. vallīs: plural, but probably referring to a single valley; see the note on īrae (l. 11), and cf. App. 243.

187. Cōnstitit (Aenēās). hīc: adverb, here; distinguish from the pronoun which has a short i.

188. tēla: attracted into the rel. clause refers back to arcum and sagittās, objects of corripuit.

189–191. ductōrēs: the three stags (l. 184). tum vulgus (sternit) et omnem turbam miscet, agēns (eōs = cervōs) tēlīs inter frondea nemora.

190. cornibus arboreīs: abl. of quality; App. 330. tum vulgus (sternit). vulgus: acc., the herd, as opposed to the leaders, ductōrēs.

191. nemora: poetic plural. turbam: the vulgus has now become a panic-stricken and tumultuous turba, a mob.

192. victor: (as) victor; apposition with Aenēās the subject understood.

193. humī: loc.; App. 37, c. numerum (cervōrum). cum nāvibus = cum numerō nāvium. aequet: i.e., one deer for each ship. fundat, aequet: temporal or anticipatory with priusquam; App. 376, a.

194. et partītur (cervōs) in (among) omnīs sociōs (suōs).

195–197. Deinde vīna, quae bonus Acestēs onerā(ve)rat (in) cadīs (in) Trīnacriō lītore et quae (ille) hērōs dederat (illīs = Teucrīs) abeuntibus, dīvidit (Aenēās). deinde: two syllables by synizesis; App. 403. onerā(ve)rat: App. 204. cadīs: dat. of direction; App. 306; or else = in cadīs, abl. of place where; App. 319. Vīna . . . dīvidit (Aenēās).

196. hērōs (Acestēs): nom. sing., Greek forms. Acestes had entertained Aeneas and his comrades during the preceding winter and had furnished them with supplies for the rest of their journey. abeuntibus (Teucrīs): indir. obj. of dederat.

197. pectora (suōrum sociōrum).

199. Ō (vōs) passī graviōra (mala). hīs (malīs): indir. obj. of dabit; App. 295.

201. acces(sis)tis: App. 204. vōs et: correlative with vōs et in l. 200; anaphora; App. 413. Cyclōpia: of the Cyclopes, huge one-eyed giants, one of whom, Polyphemus, had killed and eaten several of the comrades of Ulysses while they were shut up in his cave. Ulysses and his men finally succeeded in blinding Polyphemus and escaping. For the story, see Aeneid, III, ll. 613–638, and the ninth book of Homer's Odyssey.

205. tendimus (cursum) in Latium: the poet "nods" for a moment, as Aeneas is not yet supposed to know anything about Latium.

206. fās (est), etc.: it is the divine will for the Trojan realm there to rise again. rēgna: poetic plural; App. 243.

207. vōsmet: an emphatic form of vōs.

208–222. The Trojans first feast and then lament their lost comrades.

208. Tālia (dicta). vōce: contrasted with corde of l. 209. refert (Aenēās). cūrīs ingentibus: abl. of cause with aeger; App. 332. aeger: (although) sick at heart.

209. (in) vultū: abl. of place where or means, sharply contrasted with corde. corde: abl. of place where or means. spem: contrasted with dolōrem. altum corde: deep in his heart. spem simulat, premit dolōrem: this figure is known as chiasmus. The contrast is here emphasized by placing the two pairs of words in inverse (reverse) order; that is, spem begins the first clause and is contrasted with dolōrem, which ends the second, while simulat ends the first clause and is thus contrasted with premit, which begins the second; App. 420; see the note on l. 184.

210. Illī: Teucrī. praedae, dapibus: datives of purpose; App. 303; i.e., they prepare themselves for the venison and the banquet. dapibus: poetic plural.

211. costīs: abl. of separation; App. 320, 340.

212. pars (sociōrum) secant (vīscera) in frusta: the use of the plural verb with a singular (collective) subject is common in many languages, including English; App. 236, a. trementia (frusta): the flesh of the recently slain animals is still quivering. veribus: abl. of means, App. 331.

213. (in) lītore: abl. of place where; App. 319.

214. vīrīs: acc. pl. of vīs, an i-stem; observe the quantity, distinguishing it from virīs, dat. or abl. of vir, man.

215. implentur: a middle voice or reflexive use; they fill themselves; App. 115, 2, a; 309. Bacchī, ferīnae: gen. with special verb, impleō; App. 287. Bacchus: god of wine, by metonymy for wine.

216. exēmpta (est). mēnsae remōtae (sunt): in Vergil's day the tables were removed at the end of the banquet; so this phrase came to mean simply the end of the feasting. Vergil uses it here in that general sense, as Aeneas and his companions presumably had no tables.

218. inter spemque metumque dubiī: anastrophe; App. 414. seu (sociōs suōs) vīvere crēdant: deliberative indir. quest.; App. 348, 349; the clause is dependent on dubiī, which modifies Teucrī understood as subject of requīrunt.

219. extrēma = mortem: euphemism; App. 423. vocātōs (sociōs): refers to the Roman custom (conclāmātiō) of loudly calling the name of the dead three times, as a part of the funeral ceremony.

220. Praecipuē: modifying gemit, not pius. pius: not pious, but devoted, loyal, noble; see note on pietāte (l. 10). Aenēās ācris Orontī (cāsum gemit).

221. sēcum = cum sē; i.e., silently; for the thought compare II. 208–209.

222. fāta, Gyān, Cloanthum (gemit Aenēās). fortem, fortem: pathetic repetition. Gyān: acc., a Greek form.

223–296. Venus complains to Jupiter of the hard lot of the Trojans and of her son Aeneas. Jupiter consoles her with the promise of universal empire for the Trojans through their descendants, the Roman people.

223. fīnis (epulārum et dictōrum). There is a change of scene from earth to heaven. (dē) aethere summō: abl. of separation with dispiciēns; App. 340.

224. vēlivolum: a transferred epithet, as it refers to the ships on the sea, instead of the sea itself; App. 446.

225. (in) vertice: abl. of place where.

226. lūmina = oculōs. rēgnīs: dat. of direction or abl. of place where; App. 306, 319.

227–229. tālīs cūrās: such cares as were natural for the father of gods and king of men, with the government of the universe resting on his shoulders. (in) pectore: abl. of place where; App. 319. illum adloquitur Venus. trīstior (quam solita): sadder (than was her wont); Venus as goddess of love and beauty, was proverbially laughter-loving. lacrimīs: abl. of means; App. 331. nitentīs oculōs: acc. of respect with suffūsa, or else object of suffūsa used as a reflexive verb; App. 115, 2, a; 309.

229–230. Ō (tū) quī rēs regis et terrēs. regis: from regō not from rēx. -que . . . -que: both . . . and. de(ōr)um.

231. quid meus Aenēās tantum committere (potuit)? = What (so) great offense, etc. quid . . . quid: anaphora; App. 413.

232. potuēre = potuērunt (committere). quibus: dat. of reference or of interest; App. 301. fūnera: obj. of passīs which modifies quibus; the Trojans had suffered many disasters (fūnera) in the destruction of their city and during the seven years thereafter, while they wandered as homeless exiles.

233. cūnctus orbis terrārum: the whole world, an emotional exaggeration or hyperbole. ob Ītaliam: on account of Italy, which was destined to be the seat of a great new world-power hostile to Juno's cherished plans.

270. Lavīnī: appositional gen.; App. 281. Aeneas founded Lavinium, Ascanius founded Alba Longa.

271. Longam Albam = Alba Longa; according to tradition, Rome was founded from Alba Longa, a city situated on a long (Longa) white (Alba) ridge. multā vī mūniet: alliteration; App. 411.

272. Hīc: in Alba Longa. rēgnābitur: impersonal, royal power shall be exercised. annōs: acc. of duration of time; App. 314.

273–274. Hectoreā = Trojānā, since Hector was the crown prince and the greatest of the Trojans. rēgīna sacerdōs: a princess priestess (of Vesta); she was the daughter of King Numitor, and her name was Rhea Silvia. dōnec Īlia rēgīna sacerdōs gravis Mārte dabit prōlem geminam partū. Īlia (sacerdōs): another name for Rhea Silvia to indicate her connection with Īlus (l. 268) and with Īlium (Troy). Mārte gravis: pregnant by Mars, the god of war. geminam prōlem: Romulus and Remus. partū dabit: shall give by birth, shall bear.

275. Inde: temporal, then. lupae fulvō nūtrīcis tegmine: interlocked order; App. 442. lupae nūtrīcis: refers to the well known story that Romulus and Remus were suckled by a she-wolf. fulvō tegmine: abl. of cause with the adj. laetus; App. 332. As a mark of honor to his foster mother Romulus wore a wolfskin.

276. Māvortia: Romulus, the founder of Rome, was the son of Mars (Māvors), the patron deity of Rome.

277. dīcet (= vocābit) (gentem) Rōmānōs: the name Romans being thus fancifully derived from Romulus, in accordance with the well-established legend.

278. Hīs (Rōmānīs): dat. of reference; App. 301. tempora = mētās temporum. imperium sine fine (Rōmānīs) dedī: a magnificent climax; Aeneas is to rule three years after his victory over the Italian tribes (ll. 265–266), Ascanius for thirty years (l. 269), while Rome is to have dominion world without end. To preserve the symmetry, Vergil represents Alba Longa as ruling three hundred instead of four hundred years, according to the more generally accepted account.

279. Quīn: yes, even; introducing an almost unbelievable statement.

280. metū: abl. of means; App. 331; because of her fear for Carthage, as represented in ll. 19 ff.; cf. id metuēns in l. 23.

281. in melius: for the better.

282. rērum: of the world. -que: explicative, adding an explanatory statement. togātam: the toga was the characteristic Roman dress.

283. Sīc placitum (est): "It is thus decreed." lūstrīs lābentibus: abl. abs.; as the years go gliding by; note the alliteration; App. 411.

284. domus Assaracī: the house of Assaracus, a Trojan prince; i.e., the Romans, descendants of the Trojans, shall some day conquer and rule Greece. Greece was reduced to a Roman province in 146 B.C.

285. victīs Argīs: dat. with special verb or abl. of place where; App. 297, 319.

286. pulchrā Trojānus orīgine Caesar: interlocked order; App. 442. pulchrā orīgine: abl. of quality; App. 330. Trojānus Caesar: Augustus, who traced his ancestry back to Aeneas.

287. (quī) imperium Ōceanō (terminet). quī terminet: rel. clause of purpose; App. 388. Ōceanō: abl. of means. The ancients thought that Oceanus was a great river which flowed around the earth. Cf. Paradise Lost, 12, 369–371:

> "He shall ascend
> The throne hereditary, and bound his reign
> With earth's wide bounds, his glory with the heavens."

288. Jūlius: in apposition with Caesar (in l. 286), and referring to Augustus Caesar who as the adopted son of Julius Caesar took this name. The name Julius was fancifully derived from Iulus, and the latter from Ilus, thus connecting the word with Ilus, one of the early kings of Ilium (Troy). Cf. note on l. 267.

289: (in) caelō: refers to the deification of Augustus, who was worshipped as a god and as the son of a god, Julius Caesar, even during his lifetime. Hunc spoliīs Orientis onustum: refers to Augustus Caesar's conquests in the Orient, especially to his recovery from the Parthians of the Roman standards they had captured from Crassus in 53. B.C., and to his victory over Antony and Cleopatra at Actium in 31 B.C.

290. sēcūra: adjective modifying tū which is subject of accipiēs. hic (Caesar) quoque: he also, as well as Aeneas, will be worshipped (vocābitur) as a god; see ll. 259–260.

291. positīs bellīs: abl. abs.; App. 343. A prophecy of the golden age of peace, when all wars shall cease. Aspera positīs saecula bellīs: interlocked order; App. 442. This and the following lines (292–296) refer to the expected return of the Golden Age, which was ardently hoped for and often prophesied in antiquity, when all the world would be good and happy; faith and honor and peace and love would prevail: and sin and wickedness, suffering and sorrow, would be no more.

292. cāna Fidēs: one of the earliest shrines at Rome was dedicated to the goddess Fides. This line is usually interpreted symbolically: Fides and Vesta represent the honor and sanctity of the old Roman home, while the reconciliation of Romulus and Remus, once estranged, symbolizes the reconciliation of the two chief parties at Rome, long engaged in deadly civil war.

293. ferrō et compāgibus artīs: abl. of means with claudentur, l. 294.

294. claudentur Bellī portae: apparently referring to the temple of Janus, the doors of which were opened in time of war and closed in time of peace. Augustus closed the temple in 29 B.C., after it had remained continuously opened for more than two centuries. It had been closed only twice before since the foundation of Rome. impius: referring to the unholy spirit of civil war.

295. saeva sedēns super: alliteration; App. 411.

295–296. vīnctus post tergum: (his hands) bound behind his back. ōre: abl. of means or cause, with fremet; App.

331, 332. fremet: from rage at not being able to indulge in his favorite sport of encouraging fratricidal strife.

297–304. Mercury is sent to Dido, at Carthage, to prepare the way for Aeneas and the Trojans.

297. ait: third sing. of ajō. Majā: with the first syllable long by position; App. 6, b. Majā genitum: the son of Maja.

298–300. pateant, arcēret: purpose; App. 359; observe the difference in tense, made possible by the fact that the principal verb, dēmittit, as a historical present may be considered either primary or secondary; App. 353, a; 351, 1, a.

299. hospitiō Teucrīs: two datives; App. 301, 303; or hospitiō may be abl. of manner; App. 328. fātī nescia Dīdō: i.e., Dido might not know that the Trojans were fated to settle in Italy and might repel them from her land as possible invaders.

300. (ā) fīnibus. (Teucrōs) arcēret: negative purpose; App. 359. āera: acc. sing. from āēr, a Greek form; App. 68.

301. rēmigiō: abl. of means; App. 331; a metaphor from the sea; App. 432. astitit: perfect, to denote instantaneous action, after the historical present, volat. (in) ōrīs.

303. deō volente: abl. abs.; App. 343. in prīmīs: among the first, especially. rēgīna: Dido.

304. in: toward.

305–417. Aeneas sets out to explore the unknown region, and meets his mother Venus disguised as a huntress. The goddess tells him that he is near Carthage, relates the history of Dido, announces the safety of his remaining ships, resumes her form as a divinity, and disappears.

305. plūrima (mente) volvēns.

306–309. ut prīmum: when first, as soon as. exīre, explōrāre, quaerere, referre: depend on cōnstituit in l. 309. Aenēās cōnstituit exīre locōsque novōs explōrāre, quaerere quās ōrās accesserit ventō (et quaerere) quī teneant (illōs locōs) referreque exācta sociīs (suīs).

307. quās (ōrās) accesserit, quī (eās) teneant: indir. questions dependent on quaerere; App. 349. ventō: abl. of means or cause; App. 331, 332.

308. (ea esse) inculta: ea is neuter plural and refers to both locōs and ōrās, one a masc. and the other a fem. noun; for its gender see App. 239, b. videt: with the final syllable long under the metrical accent and before the pause; App. 394, a. hominēsne feraene (sint). -ne, -ne: whether, or.

309. sociīs: indirect object. exācta: substantively, the things determined, learned.

311. horrentibus umbrīs: a transferred epithet; horrentibus belongs logically to the trees (arboribus) but is transferred to their shadows (umbrīs); App. 446. Cf. horrentī umbrā (l. 165) and note. circum: adverb, round about.

312. ipse (Aenēās): the master; see note on ipsius (l. 114). ūnō = sōlō, a common meaning. ūnō Achātē: abl. of accompaniment without the preposition or ablative of means.

313. bīna: this distributive numeral is often used instead of the cardinal duo with objects that go in pairs. manū: abl. of place or means. lātō ferrō: with broad iron (point); abl. of quality; App. 330.

314. Cui: Aeneas, dat. with obvia which modifies māter. (in) mediā silvā.

316. vel (tālis virginis) quālis . . . fatīgat Harpalycē: or (of) such a girl as the Thracian Harpalyce (when she) tires the horses (by outstripping them in a race).

317. Harpalycē: nom., a Greek form. fugā: in her swift course. abl. of means; App. 331.

344. (Dīdōnī) miserae: dat. of agent; App. 302.

345. pater = Bēlus. (eam = Dīdōnem) intāctam. jugā(ve)rat. ōminibus: abl. of means; App. 331; by metonymy for marriage, since the omens were always consulted for weddings; App. 433.

347. scelere: abl. of respect with immānior; App. 325.

348–351. inter quōs = inter Pygmaliōnem et Sychaeum; anastrophe; App. 414. Ille (= Pygmaliōn) impius atque caecus amōre aurī, sēcūrus amōrum germānae (suae), clam ferrō superat Sychaeum incautum ante ārās. Observe how strongly the speaker portrays the wicked character of Pygmalion and his disregard for all human or divine considerations.

349. amōre: abl. of cause; App. 332.

350. amōrum: obj. gen. with adj. sēcūrus; App. 284; reckless of his sister's love (for her husband).

351. aegram: modifies amantem, which is used substantively, lover, loving wife.

352. multa simulāns: to account for the absence of Sychaeus. lūsit vānā spē (Dīdōnem) aegram amantem; sed ipsa imāgō inhumātī conjugis (Sychaeī) vēnit in somnīs (ad eam = Dīdōnem).

353. inhumātī: the ancients believed that unless the corpse were properly buried, the ghost of the dead would wander restlessly about.

354. modīs mīrīs: alliteration; abl. of manner, with pallida; App. 328.

355. ārās, pectora: poetic plural. ferrō: abl. of means.

356. domūs: gen.

357. suādet: the ghost urges Dido to flee. celerāre, excēdere: infinitives with suādet; ordinary prose would employ ut with the subjunctive.

358. auxilium viae: (as) an aid for her flight; auxilium is in apposition with thēsaurōs. veterēs: and so unknown to Pygmalion.

360. Hīs (dictīs Sychaeī).

361. (illī) conveniunt. tyrannī: of Pygmalion; obj. gen. with odium and metus; App. 284.

362. parātae (sunt).

364. pelagō: abl. of route; App. 338. opēs: the Roman historian Tacitus (Annals, 16, 1) says that the Emperor Nero sent a commission to Carthage to find the gold which Dido had brought and presumably buried there. fēmina (erat) dux factī: compare the inscription Dux fēmina factī which was stamped on the medals struck to commemorate the defeat of the Spanish Armada by the British in 1588, while Elizabeth was queen of England.

365. Dēvēnēre = dēvēnērunt; App 204, 4. (ad or in) locōs; acc. of place whither; App. 315.

367–368. mercātī (sunt). (tantum) solum (vocātum) Byrsam: (as much) ground or land (called) Byrsa. Byrsam: a Greek word meaning bull's hide, later confused with the Carthaginian (Punic) word bosra, meaning citadel; hence the story that the Libyan natives agreed to sell to the Phoenicians as much land as could be covered with a bull's hide and that the Carthaginians cut the hide into long strips, thus securing a considerable area.

369. Sed quī (estis) vōs? It is Aeneas's turn to speak.

370. (Venerī) quaerentī tālibus (vōcibus) ille (Aenēās dīxit).

372. Ō dea: Aeneas insists upon his contention that he is addressing a goddess, in spite of Venus's denial (ll. 335–337); or is it merely flattery paid to a beautiful young woman? Sī pergam (dīcere annālīs nostrōrum labōrum): a future less vivid condition; App. 381.

372–373. et (sī) vacet (tibi): and if you should have the leisure; vacet is used impersonally. audīre: inf. of purpose; App. 261.

374. ante: sooner, that is, than my story would be told. clausō Olympō: abl. abs.; when Phoebus, the sun god, returned to Olympus at the end of the day, the doors of heaven were closed for the night.

375–377. tempestās suā forte appulit nōs vectōs (ab) antīquā Trojā — sī forte nōmen Trojae iit per aurīs vestrās — per dīversa aequora Libycīs ōrīs(= ad Libycās ōrās). Nōs: acc., obj. of appulit, in l. 377. Trojā antīquā (vectōs): abl. of place whence without a preposition; App. 320, a.

377. forte suā: contrary to the plans and desires of Aeneas. ōrīs: dat. with a compound; App. 298.

378. pius: see the note on pietāte (l. 10) and on pius (l. 220).

379. classe: abl. of means. fāmā: abl. of cause or means; App. 331, 332. Naïve self-esteem, not conceit. aethera: acc., a Greek form; App. 68.

380. (quaerō) Ītaliam patriam et genus (patrium) ab Jove: refers to the legend that Dardanus, the son of Jupiter and Electra, and founder of the Trojan race, had formerly lived in Italy.

the two groups of the twelve ships under Ilioneus, which will reunite after a short separation. Thus sociōs reducēs of l. 390 corresponds to ut reducēs illī of l. 397. agmine: abl. of manner; App. 328; the swans had just been put to flight and scattered by the eagle.

394. quōs āles Jovis lāpsa aetheriā plagā turbābat (in) apertō caelō. Jovis āles: the eagle was the bird of Jove and bore his thunderbolt. (dē) aetheriā plagā: from the height of heaven.

395–396. terrās capere: to alight. caelō: abl. of place where or of route; App. 319, 338. nunc videntur: now, after the eagle has disappeared, the swans are seen in two groups. One group, in a long row, returns to its feeding place on the land; the other group flies above and gazes down at the places occupied (terrās captās) by their comrades.

396. captās (terrās) dēspectāre: to look down upon the places (terrās) already occupied.

397. illī = cycnī.

398. coetū: abl. of manner; App. 328. cīnxēre, dedēre = cīnxērunt, dedērunt; App. 204, 4. cantūs: acc. plural.

399. haud aliter: litotes; App. 431. The main point of the comparison is in the happy return to safety of both swans and Trojans after their disaster. -que . . . -que: polysyndeton; App. 439.

400. tenet, subit: the subjects are puppēs and pūbēs, but the verbs agree in number with pūbēs, the nearest; App. 236, b.

402. Dīxit (Venus) et (sē) āvertēns. cervīce: abl. of means.

403. (ā) vertice: dīvīnum odōrem: a special fragrance is often attributed to the gods.

404. spīrāvēre = spīrāvērunt. vestis dēfluxit: with the exception of Diana, all the goddesses wore flowing robes.

523. gentīs: the native Libyan tribes.

524. Trōes miserī: in apposition with nōs the understood subject of ōrāmus. ventīs vectī: alliteration, heightening the pathos. (per) maria omnia.

525. ā nāvibus (nostrīs).

526. parce piō: alliteration. piō generī: the Trojans; generī is dat. with special verb; App. 297.

527. Nōn: emphatic. populāre penātīs: alliteration.

527–528. populāre, vertere: inf. of purpose.

529. vīs (est). victīs: referring to the capture of Troy by the Greeks. animō, victīs: datives of possession. superbia (est).

530. Grajī dīcunt (= vocant) (illum locum) Hesperiam. Hesperia literally means "Land of the Evening" or "Western Land." Compare Hesperus, the evening star. This name for Italy came from the Greeks (Grajī dīcunt), as Vergil indicates. Grajī: pl. of Grajus and pronounced as though spelled Grajjī, making the first syllable long by position; App. 6, b.

531. armīs, ūbere: abl. of respect or cause with potēns; App. 325, 332.

532. Oenōtrī: evidently derived from a Greek word, Oenōtria, "Vineland," since grapes were much cultivated in Italy. coluēre = coluērunt. fāma (est) = dīcunt, and so followed by indir. disc.; App. 263. minōrēs: subject of dīxisse = vocāvisse.

533. ducis: Italus was a legendary king of one of the native Italian tribes (the Oenotrians). The word Italy is probably related to the word vitulus, bull, and therefore means "Land of Herds." gentem, Ītaliam: two accusatives; App. 316, a.

534. Hic cursus (nōbīs) fuit. There are more than fifty such incomplete lines in the Aeneid, one of the marks of the unfinished state of the poem at Vergil's death. See Introd. 5.

739. plēnō aurō: the full (cup of) gold.

740. post = posteā. procerēs (pateram hausērunt). Citharā: abl. of instrument or means; App. 331. crīnītus: long-haired, a style often affected by artists even today.

742. Hic: Iōpās. lūnam, labōrēs: cognate acc. with canit, stating themes of the song; cf. arma virumque canō (l. 1). sōlis labōrēs: eclipses, since the sun was thought of as struggling and suffering during an eclipse.

743. unde hominum genus (sit): the first of a series of indirect questions depending on canit. unde (sint) ignēs (Jovis): lightnings.

745. quid hībernī sōlēs properent tantum: why the winter days are so short and the nights so long. (in) Ōceanō.

746. properent, obstet: subjunctives in indir. questions; App. 349. tardīs noctibus (hībernīs): dat. with compound; App. 298.

748–756. Dido, smitten with love for Aeneas, begs him to tell all about himself and his adventures, beginning with the fall of Troy.

748. Nec nōn et: likewise, also.

1–12. Acceding to Dido's request Aeneas agrees to describe the fall of Troy, in spite of the sorrow renewed by such memories.

1. conticuēre (= conticuērunt), tenēbant: observe the difference in tenses, the perfect denoting instantaneous, completed result, they grew silent; the imperf. continued action, they continued to hold; App. 351, 2 and 4. ōra (in, ad Aenēān) tenēbant.

2. pater: simply a title of honor and veneration, because of its Roman associations, where it was regularly used of a member of the senatorial and ruling aristocracy. ab altō torō: on which he was reclining at the banquet. orsus (est): from ordior.

3. Īnfandum: emphatic by position. jubēs (mē) renovāre.

4. Trojānās: with the first syllable long by position; App. 6, b. (fandō) ut Danaī ēruerint Trojānās opēs et lāmentābile rēgnum (fandō)que (ea) miserrima quae (ego) ipse vīdī. fandō: by telling. ut: how.

5. ēruerint: subj. in an indir. quest.; App. 349. miserrima: substantively: the heart-breaking events.

6. tālia: substantively, obj. of fandō in l. 6. fandō: gerund of for; abl. of attendant circumstance; App. 329.

7. (quis) mīles. Myrmidonum Dolopumve: part. genitives, depending on quis; App. 286.

8. temperet: deliberative subj.; App. 348. (dē) caelō: the night is personified; App. 437; after passing the zenith at midnight in her chariot, she is now rushing down into the western wave; it is thus after midnight.

9. praecipitat (in mare).

10. sī amor (est tibi) cognōscere = sī vīs (from volō) cognōscere; App. 264.

11. Trojae: with the first syllable long by position; App. 6, b. suprēmum labōrem: the final agony.

12. lūctū: abl. of cause; App. 332.

13–20. After ten years of unsuccessful effort, the Greeks, worn out by the long siege and lacking confidence in their strength and courage, resort to strategy. They pretend to flee but hide in the neighboring island of Tenedos, leaving behind an enormous wooden horse, in which are concealed the bravest of the Greek leaders.

13. bellō, fātīs: ablatives of means; App. 331.

14. ductōrēs = ducēs. Dana(ōr)um: App. 37, d. lābentibus annīs: abl. abs., denoting cause; App. 343. The siege of Troy was now in its tenth and final year.

15. aedificant equum īnstar montis: "big as a mountain," hyperbole; App. 428. Palladis arte: as goddess of wisdom and the arts, Minerva had inspired the Greeks with the idea and with the skill necessary for its execution.

16. abiete: pronounce abjete here, making the first syllable long by position; App. 401.

17. (Danaī) simulant (equum esse) vōtum prō (suō) reditū: for their (safe) return (home).

18. dēlēcta vir(ōr)um corpora = virōs dēlēctōs. Hūc (= in hunc equum) caecō laterī fūrtim inclūdunt dēlēcta corpora vir(ōr)um, sortītī (ea).

19. caecō laterī = in caecum latus, dat. of direction or with compound; App. 306, 298.

21–30. After the departure of the Greeks, the Trojans rush out to see the deserted camp.

21. Est: there is. in cōnspectū (Trojae). fāmā: abl. of respect; App. 325.

22. opum: gen. of respect with the adj. dīves; App. 294. Priamī rēgna: poetic plural; App. 243.

23. nunc (īnsula est) tantum sinus. male fīda = īnfīda: unsafe, treacherous; litotes; App. 431. carīnīs = nāvibus: dat. with īnfīda; App. 304, 443.

24. hūc = ad hanc īnsulam. (Danaī) prōvectī (per pelagus).

25. Nōs: contrasted with the treacherous Greeks; App. 247. Nōs ratī (sumus Danaōs) abiisse. ventō: abl. of means; App. 331. Mycēnās = Graeciam, Greece; App. 443.

27. juvat (nōs) īre (ex urbe): impersonal, it pleases (us), we delight.

29–30. hīc manus (tendēbat). hīc . . . hīc . . . hīc: the Trojans point out these places to one another. The anaphora adds to the vividness; App. 413. hīc (erat) locus classibus (Danaōrum): refers to the place where the Greek vessels had been drawn up on shore. classibus = nāvibus: dat. of reference; App. 301. aciē: abl. of manner; App. 328. hīc (Danaī) aciē certāre solēbant.

31–56. The more prudent among them urge the Trojans to destroy the wooden horse. Laocoön takes the lead in this proposal and strikes the side of the horse with his spear.

31. stupet = mīrātur: its object is dōnum. exitiāle: fatal (for Troy), as will be seen in the sequel. Minervae: obj. gen.; App. 284.

leader of the Greeks in cunning, craft, and treachery.

45. (in) hōc lignō = in hōc equō, quī est dē lignō factus: metonymy; App. 433.

46. māchina (bellī).

47. īnspectūra, ventūra: the fut. participles denote purpose; App. 274. urbī: dat. of direction = in urbem; App. 306.

48. nē crēdite: nē with the imp. is a poetic use; App. 256, a. equō: dat. with crēdō; App. 297.

49. timeō Danaōs et (even) dōna ferentīs: a favorite quotation. The Greeks are so treacherous that they are not to be trusted even when making gifts (sacrificing, as in this case) to their gods.

50. validīs ingentem vīribus hastam: interlocked order; App. 442. vīribus: abl. of manner; App. 328; from vīs, not vir, as may be seen from the quantity of the i as well as from its case form.

51. ferī = equī. compāgibus: with curvam, abl. of manner or means; App. 328, 331.

52. illa = hasta. uterō recussō: abl. abs. with causal force; App. 343, a.

53. īnsonuēre, dedēre = īnsonuērunt, dedērunt: App. 204, 4. gemitum: merely the hollow sound.

54. sī, sī: rhetorical repetition, called anaphora; App. 413.

54–56. fuisset, stāret, manērēs: condition contrary to fact, with mixed apodosis (impulerat) for impulisset: App. 382, d., sī fāta de(ōr)um (nōn laeva fuissent). laeva: unfavorable, hostile.

55. (Lāocoōn nōs) impulerat.

56. Troja: pronounce Trojja; App. 6, b. manērēs: observe the change to the second person; personification and apostrophe add to the pathos; App. 417, 437.

57–198. Sinon, a lying Greek, is captured and brought to Priam. He says the horse is an offering to Minerva and will bring good fortune and victory to its possessors.

57–59. Ecce intereā Dardanidae pāstōrēs trahēbant juvenem revīnctum manūs post terga. Ecce: introducing a new element in the story. manūs: acc., obj. of the middle part. revīnctum, his hands bound behind his back, or acc. of respect; App. 309, a; 311.

58. rēgem (Priamum). magnō (cum) clāmōre: abl. of manner; App. 328.

59. (juvenem) quī ultrō obtulerat sē ignōtum (pāstōribus Dardanidīs = Teucrīs) venientibus: his name was Sinon.

60. hoc: pronounce hocc; App. 107, 3,c. hoc ipsum: this very thing, i.e., to be brought before the king and questioned. strueret, aperīret: purpose; App. 359.

61. animī: a loc., in his soul; App. 37, c.

62. mortī: dat. with compound; App. 298. versāre, occumbere: apposition with utrumque.

63. vīsendī: gen. of gerund, depending on studiō, abl. of cause; App. 332. Trojāna: pronounce Trojjāna; App. 6, b.

64. captō: dat. with compound; App. 298. ruit certantque: for use of singular and plural cf. stupet et mīrantur, ll. 31–32; App. 236, a.

65. Dana(ōr)um: App. 37, d.

66. omnīs (Danaōs): a general conclusion from a specific instance. For the incomplete line, see the note on I, 534.

67. ut: as, its usual meaning with the ind. turbātus: a pretense on the part of Sinon.

68. circumspexit: the spondaic close, with its slow movement, helps the reader to visualize the slow-turning glance of Sinon as he looks over the crowd.

69. Heu: Sinon artfully seeks to rouse the pity and then to win the confidence of the Trojans. He pretends to be in despair. To his former enemies the Trojans who are in possession of the land are now added the equally hostile Greeks who control the sea. He plays his part with consummate skill and ingenuity. quae tellūs (potest mē accipere).

71. cui locus (est): dat. of possession; App. 299. neque = nōn. et (ā quō). super: adv., besides.

72. poenās cum sanguine (meō) poscunt: they demand punishment with my blood, i.e., my life as penalty.

73. conversī (sunt) animī et compressus (est) impetus. (nostrī) animī: feelings.

74. Hortāmur (illum) fārī. quō sanguine: abl. of source; App. 323. crētus (sit): indir. quest.; App. 349.

75. quid (= quem nuntium) ferat: what he has to say; indir. quest.; App. 349. memoret: indir. command, representing an imp. in dir. disc., depending on hortāmur; App. 390. sit: subj. in an indir. quest.; App. 349. (eī) captō: dat. of possession; App. 299; i.e., what grounds of confidence had induced him to surrender voluntarily and on what did he base his hopes of mercy.

76. haec (dicta). dēpositā formīdine: abl. abs.; App. 343. The "fear" is pretended.

77. fuerit quodcumque: come what may, i.e., no matter what may happen to me.

78. mē (esse).

79. hoc prīmum (fatēbor, dīcam): by first making a true statement of an undoubted fact, but one which a desperate man might have denied, Sinon wins the confidence of the Trojans, who are now more likely to believe the rest of his story. Sinōnem = mē, used for the rhetorical effect. "Others may be liars, but not

80. vānum, mendācem: pred., as is miserum, l. 79. improba (fortūna) finget (mē).

81. Fandō (for): abl. of the gerund, by report; App. 269.

81–82. aliquod nōmen: any (mention of the) name.

81–83. pervēnit nōmen et glōria: the verb is sing. to agree with its nearest subj.; App. 236, b.

82. fāmā: abl. of respect with incluta; App. 325.

82–83. glōria incluta fāmā.

83. falsā sub prōditiōne: under a false (accusation of) treason.

84. īnfandō indiciō: abl. of means; App. 331. According to the story, Ulysses had hidden a sum of money and a forged letter of Priam in Palamedes's tent; then, on a suggestion of Ulysses, the Greeks searched the tent, found the money and letter, and condemned Palamedes to death. quia vetābat: indicative, since it gives the reasons of the speaker; App. 357. This statement of Sinon is calculated to win the sympathy of the Trojans by showing that he and his friend were at heart on the Trojan side and were opposed to the war.

85. dēmīsēre = dēmīsērunt: App. 204, 4. necī = ad necem: dat. of direction; App. 306. (illum) cassum lūmine (vītae). lūmine: abl. of separation; App. 340.

86. illī: emphatic by position; a dat. of reference; App. 301. comitem: (as) a comrade. cōnsanguinitāte: abl. of respect; App. 325.

87. pauper, prīmīs ab annīs, mīsit: clever suggestions of Sinon to arouse pity and to excuse his part in the war by saying that he had been sent when he was a mere child and that his father was forced to this action by his poverty. Going to war as a "soldier of fortune" was a common method among the ancients of gaining wealth. hūc = to Troy. prīmīs ab annīs: "from my earliest youth."

88. rēgnō: abl. of respect with incolumis, or abl. of place where; App. 325, 319.

88–89. (Palamēdēs) stābat rēgumque (Danaōrum) vigēbat (in) conciliīs. nōs: emphatic; App. 247.

90. Invidiā Ulixī: Ulysses is said to have borne a special grudge against Palamedes, because the latter detected his pretended madness when he was trying to avoid going to the Trojan War. Invidiā: abl. of means or cause; App. 331, 332.

91. (Palamēdēs) superīs concessit ab ōrīs = died, used euphemistically for was killed; App. 423.

represented by Vergil; here it is of maple; in l. 16 it was of pine; in the later passages it is of oak. Instead of using the general word wood, the poet strives to employ specific terms, at the expense of consistency.

113. stāret: subj. with descriptive cum; App. 378. tōtō aethere: abl. of place where; App. 319.

114. (nōs) suspēnsī. scītātum: supine after a verb of motion to express purpose; App. 270. ōrācula Phoebī: apparently at Delphi, where the most famous oracle of Apollo was located. The next most important oracle was at Delos, Apollo's birthplace.

115. (ex) adytīs (Phoebī).

116. plācā(vi)stis. virgine caesā: this refers to the sacrifice of Iphigenia, daughter of Agamemnon, at Aulis, where the Greek fleet was detained by adverse winds on the eve of sailing for Troy. After Iphigenia had been sacrificed to Diana in obedience to the divine command, the gods sent favorable winds which wafted the Greek fleet straight to Troy. For a modern treatment of this story read Tennyson's Dream of Fair Women.

118. sanguine: cf. sanguine in l. 116, and for the rhetorical repetition known as anaphora see App. 413. quaerendī (sunt nōbīs) reditūs, litandum (est nōbīs): passive periphrastics denoting necessity; App. 199, b. Observe the shift from the personal (quaerendī) to the impersonal (litandum) construction. reditūs: poetic plural; App. 243. animā: abl. of means. litandum (est): it must be sacrificed, sacrifice must be made.

119. quae vōx ut vēnit ad aurīs vulgī: as (when) this report had come to the ears of the rabble. Observe the Latin use of the relative pronoun where English prefers the demonstrative.

120. obstipuēre = obstipuērunt: App. 204, 4. per īma ossa: through the marrow; literally through the innermost (part of their) bones: App. 246.

121. cui fāta (tālem mortem) parent. parent, poscat: subjunctives in indir. questions; App. 349.

122. vātem magnō Calchanta (acc.) tumultū: interlocked order; App. 442.

123. prōtrahit: Sinon represents Calchas as pretending to be unwilling. in (nōs) mediōs: into our midst; App. 246. sint: indir. quest.; App. 349. dīv(ōr)um.

124. mihi: for me; App. 301. mihi jam multī: alliteration; App. 411.

125. artificis = Ulixis. tacitī: through fear of Ulysses. ventūra: substantively, "what was coming."

126. quīnōs: the distributive numeral for the cardinal, quīnque, as is usual with adverbs of multiplication, as bis. Cf. I, 381, note. ille = Calchās. tēctus: in his tent.

127. oppōnere (quemquam) mortī.

129. (ex, dē) compositō (cum Ulixe). ārae: dat. rumpit vōcem: cognate acc., he breaks (into) speech = he speaks; or the verb is used in a causative sense, he causes his voice to break (forth); App. 313, 307.

130. Adsēnsēre = adsēnsērunt.

130–131. et (fāta Danaī) tulēre (= tulērunt): the Greeks were content to let Sinon suffer.

131. ūnius in miserī exitium conversa: (when) turned to the destruction of one poor wretch.

132. parārī: hist. inf.; App. 257.

133. salsae frūgēs: salted meal, sprinkled on the victim's head, as a preparation for sacrifice. (mea) tempora. vittae: fillets, regularly bound on the heads of sacrificial victims.

134. Ēripuī mē lētō: dat. or abl. of separation; App. 305, 340. fateor: as a victim devoted to the gods, it was sacrilege for Sinon to escape and thus thwart the divine will.

136. dum (Danaī) vēla darent; (vēla) dedissent: subjunctives of anticipation; App. 374.

137. mihi: dat. of possession; App. 299. spēs ūlla (est). patriam: obj. of videndī, the gen. of the gerund.

138. nātōs: inconsistent with prīmīs ab annīs, l. 87; but great poets such as Vergil and big liars such as Sinon rarely worry over logical consistency.

139. quōs poenās: with reposcent, which takes two accusatives; App. 316. In English we should say demand punishment of them. illī (Danaī). fors et = forsitan, perhaps.

140. (meam) culpam. (illōrum) miserōrum.

141–143. tē (= Priamum) ōrō.

142–143. per (intemerātam fidem), sī est (ali)qua intemerāta fidēs quae restet. quae restet: rel. clause of characteristic; App. 389.

143–144. miserēre (meōrum) labōrum, miserēre (meī) animī: rhetorical repetition of the deponent imperative miserēre which governs the genitives, labōrum and animī; App. 289, 413.

144. digna: substantively, object of ferentis.

145. miserēscimus (Sinōnem).

146. virō: dat of reference; App. 301.

147. dictīs: abl. of manner; App. 328.

148. oblīvīscere: imp. Grajōs: pronounce Grajjōs; App. 6, b; 15; the acc. instead of the gen. commonly used with oblīvīscor; App. 288, a.

148–149. Quisquis es, noster eris: said to be the technical formula used by a Roman general when receiving a deserter from the enemy.

App. 331, 319. ex quō (tempore): correlative with ex illō (tempore) in l. 169.

165. templō: abl. of separation; App. 320, 340.

165–166. fātāle Palladium: the oracle had proclaimed that Troy was fated to be impregnable so long as the image of Pallas (the Palladium) remained in the citadel of Troy. Ulysses and Diomedes disguised themselves, entered the citadel, and succeeded in carrying off the image to the Greek camp.

166. caesīs custōdibus: abl. abs.; App. 343.

167. corripuēre = corripuērunt; App. 204, 4.

168. ausī (sunt). vittās: fillets were commonly worn by images of the gods, by their representatives (priests and priestesses), and by sacrificial victims, such as Sinon (l. 133). dīvae: Minerva's.

169. ex illō (tempore): correlative with ex quō (tempore), l. 163. fluere, referrī: historical infinitives, App. 257.

170. frāctae (sunt) vīrēs, āversa (est) deae mēns.

181. arma (nova). pelagō remēnsō: abl. abs.; App. 343. remēnsō: with passive force, although a deponent verb.

182. ita: refers to ll. 176–179, the following sentence being thrown in parenthetically by Sinon as representing his own view.

183. (Danaī) monitī: by the prodigies and their interpretation by Calchas, ll. 172–179.

184. statuēre = statuērunt. nefās: the theft of the Palladium by Ulysses and Diomedes, ll. 164–168. piāret: rel. clause of purpose; App. 388.

185. immēnsam: pred. acc.; the Greeks were to build the image so large that the Trojans would not be able to take it into the city and thus secure its protecting power for themselves.

186. rōboribus: abl. of material; App. 324. See the note on acernīs, l. 112. caelō: dat. of direction; App. 306.

250–267. That night, while the Trojans sleep, the Greeks return from Tenedos and enter the city through the breach made by the Trojans to introduce the horse. Sinon opens the fastenings of the horse, releasing the Greek warriors, who open the gates of Troy and join their forces with the troops from the ships and proceed to lay waste the city with fire and sword.

250. Vertitur caelum: The ancients believed that the earth remained stationary, while the heavens, including sun, moon, and stars, revolved around it. (ex) Ōceanō: night was conceived as "rising" from the ocean as the sun sank into it.

252. fūsī per moenia: thus scattered and disorganized the Trojans were later unable to oppose the attacking Greeks

253. conticuēre = conticuērunt.

CASSANDRA, THE PROPHETESS, ON THE WALLS OF TROY

This Trojan princess was granted the gift of prophecy by Apollo, who later as punishment decreed that no one should believe her. Behind her a warrior buckles on his greaves. Priam and Hecuba in the background.

349–350. pectora: apposition with juvenēs. sī vōbīs (est) certa cupīdō sequī (mē) audentem extrēma. vōbīs: dat. of possession; App. 299. cupīdō (est). sequī: depends on cupīdō; App. 264. quae fortūna sit: indir. quest.; App. 349. (nostrīs) rēbus: dat. of possession; App. 299.

351. adytīs ārīsque relictīs: abl. abs.; App. 343. excessēre dī: the ancient gods are regularly represented as deserting cities about to be captured.

352. quibus: by whose aid; abl. of means; App. 331. urbī: dat. with compound; App. 298.

353. moriāmur et ruāmus: volitives; App. 254. This is an example of hysteron proteron; App. 429; i.e., the act represented by ruāmus really comes before that of moriāmur, although moriāmur precedes in the sentence. This is a permissible device, as it indicates priority of interest, instead of the usual priority of time. See the note on 258–259.

496–498. Nōn sīc spūmeus amnis fertur = not so (furiously) does a foaming river rush onward; litotes and a simile; App. 431, 441. exiit: from its channel. fertur furēns, cumulō campōs: double alliteration; App. 411. cumulō: abl. of manner; App. 328; as in I, 105.

500. caede: abl. of manner with furentem; App. 328, a.

501. nurūs: daughters and daughters-in-law; Priam and Hecuba had fifty of each.

502. foedantem ignīs.

503. illī: those famous, as often. thalamī: of Priam's fifty sons and their wives.

504. aurō spoliīsque: abl. of means or cause limiting superbī; App. 331, 332. barbaricō: from a Roman or Greek point of view; foreign.

505. prōcubuēre = prōcubuērunt; App. 204, 4.

506–558. Hecuba and Priam take refuge at the altar in the court of the palace, but Priam is nevertheless ruthlessly slain by Pyrrhus.

506. quae fuerint Priamī fāta: indir. quest.; App. 349. requīrās: potential subjunctive; or it may be taken as a subjunctive in an indirect question introduced by an and dependent upon fors sit (in forsitan); sit would then be a potential subjunctive.

509–510. senior (Priamus) umerīs trementibus aevō arma diū dēsuēta nēquīquam circumdat. senior: with the intensive meaning of the comparative, though a very old man.

510. umerīs: dat. with compound; App. 298. ferrum: obj. of the middle verb cingitur, he girds on his sword; App. 309.

512. Aedibus in mediīs: in the inner court of the palace, open to the sky; App. 246. As usual in such descriptions, the details are those of a wealthy Roman house of Vergil's own time.

514. ārae: dat. with compound; App. 298.

515. altāria circum = circum altāria: App. 414.

516. ātrā tempestāte: abl. of means with the verbal idea implied in praecipitēs.

517. dīv(ōr)um.

518. sūmptīs armīs: abl. abs.; App. 343.

520. (tē) impulit. cingī: middle, to gird yourself; App. 309.

521. auxiliō, dēfēnsōribus: ablatives with eget; App. 340. The idea seems to be: "human strength is unavailing, and only the gods and their sacred altars can protect us now."

522. adforet = adesset: condition contrary to fact; App. 382.

541. After the death of Hector, Priam had ransomed his corpse from Achilles. Cf. I, 483–484. in hoste Priamō: in the case of, toward his enemy Priam; Priam's use of his own name adds a touch of pathos.

542. sepulcrō: dat. of purpose; App. 303.

543. Hectoreum = Hectoris: an adj. for a gen. is a common usage.

544. Sīc fātus (est) senior.

545. repulsum (est).

546. (dē) summō umbōne: App. 246; Priam's spear had stuck in the top of the boss of Pyrrhus's shield and now hung there harmless.

547. Pyrrhus (dīxit). Referēs et ībis: hysteron proteron; App. 429; the futures are here used with the force of imperatives, go and tell; App. 351, 3, a. nuntius: (as) a messenger.

550. morere: imp. altāria ad ipsa: an act of unspeakable impiety. trementem (Priamum): from old age and anger, not from fear.

551. lāpsantem sanguine nātī: a touch of pathos.

552–553. coruscum (ēnsem). laterī = in latus: dat. of direction; App. 306.

554. Haec (fuit) fīnis: Haec is attracted to the gender of the predicate, fīnis, which is here feminine, though ordinarily masculine. hic(c) exitus (vītae).

556. populīs terrīsque: ablatives of cause with superbum; App. 332.

557. Asiae: obj. gen. with rēgnātōrem; App. 284. (in) lītore: his headless corpse is thrown out on the beach for the dogs and birds to devour. It is said that Vergil here has in mind the fate of Pompey, once one of the world's most powerful men; he was defeated in battle, lost his power, and was finally beheaded in Egypt, where his body was cast out and allowed to lie on the beach.

559–566. The sight of Priam so brutally slain reminds Aeneas of the danger of his own aged father, Anchises, and of his wife and child.

560. subiit (meam mentem).

561. aequaevum: Anchises was of about the same age as Priam.

563. dīrepta: in my imagination. domus: nom. sing. with the final syllable long under the metrical accent and before the pause; App. 394, a.

564. Respiciō: Aeneas on the roof of the palace had been so fascinated in looking down on the murder of Priam that he had forgotten all else. He now looks around for his followers and finds them gone. quae cōpia (virōrum). sit: indir. quest.; App. 349. mē circum = circum mē: App. 414.

565. saltū: abl. of means or manner.

565–566. dēseruēre, mīsēre, dedēre = dēseruērunt, mīsērunt, dedērunt.

566. aegra (corpora): wearied and wounded (bodies).

567–633. Seeing that all is lost, Aeneas turns to go, when he catches sight of Helen, the cause of all the trouble, crouching just inside a temple of Vesta. He prepares to kill her but is restrained by his mother, Venus, who appears and urges him to hurry home to protect his family.

567–588. The best manuscripts of Vergil do not have these lines, and many scholars consider the passage spurious, as they are inconsistent with VI, 494–530. This inconsistency may be due to the unfinished condition of the poem or to the unaccountable caprice of the poet.

567. super: adv. to be taken with eram. ūnus supereram: I alone survived.

569. Tyndarida: acc., a Greek form; App. 68. clāra incendia lūcem dant: explains why Aeneas could see Helen.

victōria, ae f. victory, conquest, triumph†

576. sūmere: exact, inflict. scelerātās poenās = sceleris poenās: punishment of (for) her crime.

577. Scīlicet: forsooth; ironical; App. 430.

578. partō triumphō: abl. abs.; App. 343.

579. conjugium = conjugem.

580. turbā, ministrīs: ablatives of accompaniment with the participle comitāta, which here has a passive meaning; App. 321.

581 582. Occiderit, arserit, sūdā(ve)rit: fut. perfects; i.e., shall she return in triumph home when all Troy has perished?

583. Nōn ita (erit): it shall not be! See App. 351, 3, a.

584. fēmineā in poenā: the adj. is here equivalent to the obj. gen.; App. 284; punishment (exacted) of a woman. (fēminea) victōria: victory over a woman.

585 586. exstīnxisse nefās laudābor: I shall be praised for having destroyed that abomination; i.e., Helen. merentīs poenās = meritās poenās: deserved punishment.

586. (mē) juvābit: used impersonally, with explē(vi)sse et satiā(vi)sse as its subject; App. 258.

587. flammae: gen. with the special verb, explē(vi)sse, to have sated my soul with the vengeful flame; App. 287. meōrum: substantively, of my people.

588. Tālia (dicta).

589–591. cum (mea) alma parēns nōn ante tam clāra (meīs) oculīs obtulit sē mihi videndam. videndam: the gerundive expressing purpose, to be seen; App. 268. alma parēns Aenēae = Venus. cōnfessa (sē esse) deam.

591–593. caelicolīs: dat. with videri. quālis, quanta: the gods surpassed human beings in form and stature. dextrā mē prehēnsum continuit: grasped me by my right hand and held me back; Aeneas had already raised his sword to strike Helen.

593–594. haec (dicta). Nāte: voc. (tuās) īrās. quis: the regular form of the interrog. adj. is quī; App. 111, a.

595. nostrī: for me (and mine); obj. gen.; App. 284, 247, a. Venus thus identifies herself with the family of Aeneas. tibi: ethical dat. or dat. of reference; App. 300, 301.

596–597. Nōn = nōnne. ubi: in what condition. ubi . . . līqueris, conjūnxne superet: índir. questions; App. 349.

598. Quōs omnīs circum = circum quōs omnīs; App. 414.

599–600. nī resistat, (eōs) tulerint, (eōs) hauserit: condit. and conclusion contrary to fact; App. 382, c.

601. tibi: ethical dat. or dat. of reference. nōn Tyndaridis faciēs (hās opēs ēvertit).

602. dīv(ōr)um, dīv(ōr)um: rhetorical repetition; App. 413; emphasizing that it is the vengeance of the gods, not Helen's beauty, which is responsible for the destruction of Troy. Juno and Minerva were vengeful toward Troy because of the adverse Judgment of Paris, while Neptune was angry at being cheated by Laomedon; see note on l. 610.

604. Aspice: imp.

604–606. namque ēripiam omnem nūbem, quae nunc obducta hebetat mortālīs vīsūs tibi tuentī, et (ēripiam omnem nūbem quae) ūmida circum (tē). tibi is dat. of reference with hebetat vīsūs; App. 301. (quae) ūmida circum (tē) cālīgat: which spreads a dark veil of mist around (you).

606. parentis: use of the noun, instead of the personal pronoun, meī, for rhetorical effect.

606–607. tū: nē timē, neu recūsā: the pres. imp. with nē is chiefly poetical; App. 256, a. praeceptīs: dat. with special verb; App. 297.

609. mixtō pulvere: abl. abs.

610. Neptūnus: Neptune and Apollo had built the walls of Troy for Laomedon, father of Priam. When the work was finished, Laomedon not only refused to pay the gods the price agreed upon, but expelled them from his kingdom. Neptune is now getting his revenge by destroying the walls he had built.

summīs montibus certātim antīquam ornum ēruere īnstant: a simile; App. 441. illa (ornus) minātur: it threatens (to fall).

629. comam: acc. of respect with tremefacta; App. 311. vertice: abl. of means; the tree nods (with) its head.

630. suprēmum: substantively; has groaned its last.

631. trāxit ruīnam: falls with a crash, dragging down other objects with it. (ā) jugīs (montis) āvulsa.

632. Dēscendō (ex arce). dūcente deō (Venere): abl. abs.; App. 343. deō: feminine here, referring to Venus. inter flammam et hostis.

633. expedior: middle = mē expediō; App. 309. dant (mihi) locum: give way before me.

634–704. Anchises at first refuses to survive the destruction of the city, but is finally induced by a double portent of the gods to flee with Aeneas.

634. perventum (est mihi) = pervēnī: with the emphasis upon the action rather than the actor.

635. tollere: Anchises had been lamed by lightning and could not walk; see note on ll. 648–649.

635–636. altōs montīs.

636. prīmum, prīmum: rhetorical repetition; App. 413.

superō (1) surmount, survive (dat.)*
vertō, ere, ī, rsus (over)turn, change*

ūna superque: enough and more (than enough) have I seen one destruction and have survived one capture of the city. Anchises refers to a previous capture of Troy by Hercules, who had been promised the hand of the Princess Hesione in marriage. When her father, King Laomedon, broke the promise, Hercules captured and sacked the city.

643. urbī: dat. with compound (superāvimus = superfuimus); App. 298.

644. adfātī (meum) corpus: refers to the custom of calling "valē" thrice to the dead before the body was buried or burned. positum: laid out, pōnere being the technical expression for laying out a corpse. Anchises thus bids them to treat him as already dead. Probably he stretches himself out on a couch as though dead to add vividness to his appeal.

645. manū mortem inveniam: alliteration; App 411. manū: I shall die fighting (manū), i.e., by provoking the enemy to kill me; or manū may hint at suicide. Cf. l. 434, ut caderem meruisse manū. miserēbitur hostis: or an enemy through pity (said ironically) will be willing to kill me.

646. Facilis (est) jactūra sepulcrī: said with the greatest bitterness and the resignation of despair, since the loss of ceremonial burial was counted one of the most grievous of calamities; see notes on I, 95, 353.

647–648. Jam prīdem dēmoror annōs: too long have I delayed the years (which wish to bear me to death); App. 351, 1, b. ex (eō tempore) quō: since the time when. dīv(ōr)um pater atque hominum rēx = Juppiter. Anchises had foolishly boasted of the love of Venus and had been lamed by a stroke of lightning for his impiety.

649. adflāvit (mihi). ventīs, ignī: ablatives of means; some ancient philosophers thought that lightning was driven by swift gusts of wind.

650. Tālia (dicta).

651. Nōs: emphatic contrast; App. 247. effūsī (sumus) lacrimīs: we were dissolved in tears. lacrimīs is abl. of manner or means.

651–653. -que . . . -que . . . -que: both . . . and . . . and.

652–653. nē . . . vellet: subst. clause developed from the vol., dependent on the idea of entreaty implied in effūsī

654. (in eōdem) inceptō et sēdibus haeret in īsdem: he remains fixed in his purpose and his place. One word thus governing two or more others in a different sense is an example of what is called zeugma. Compare Dickens, who says of a lady that she departed "in a flood of tears and a sedan chair," and see App. 447.

657–658. spērā(vi)stīne, genitor, mē posse efferre pedem. tē relictō: abl. abs.

respexī animumve reflexī: nor did I look back for her lost as she was or cast a thought behind. In the excitement and confusion, Aeneas forgets to look back for his wife or even to think of her. Thus he loses her. It may be noted here that it is essential to the plot that Aeneas should be without a wife both at Carthage and when he finally arrives in Latium.

743. collēctīs omnibus: abl. abs.

745. Quem hominumque deōrumque: partitive genitives; App. 286. deōrumque: the final e is elided before the initial diphthong of the next verse, making l. 745 hypermetric; App. 402.

746–794. Aeneas returns to search for Creüsa, but is met by her ghost, who informs him of her death and urges him to hasten his flight from Troy.

748. (in) curvā valle.

749. urbem repetō et cingor armīs: for the hysteron proteron, see the note on l. 353; App. 429. cingor: middle = mē cingō; App. 309.

1–12. The Trojan survivors build a fleet near Antandros at the foot of Mt. Ida and set sail in search of new homes.

1. rēs, gentem: objects of ēvertere. ēvertere: subj. of vīsum (est), it seemed (best); App. 258.

2. immeritam: emphatic by position. superīs (deīs).

3. (ab) humō: abl. of separation; App. 340. Neptūnia Troja: see II, 610, 625, and note.

4. dēsertās: the small band of Trojans were too weak to seize any lands already occupied.

5. auguriīs dīv(ōr)um.

7. incertī: an inconsistency with the prediction of Creūsa, II, 781; due either to the caprice of the poet, to the unfinished condition of the poem, or to the fact that Aeneas did not trust the prophecies of his wife. (nōs) ferant, dētur: indirect questions, depending on incertī; App. 349. dētur (nōbīs): it is granted; the subject is sistere; App. 258.

8. prīma aestās: the first (of) summer; App. 246; the Trojan fugitives had spent the winter near Antandros.

9. pater Anchīsēs: in ancient Roman times the father (pater familiās) was the recognized head of the house. dare fātīs vēla: modeled on the expression dare ventīs vēla, but indicating the spirit of the Trojans as they set out trusting to the gods and "with a heart for any fate."

11. Troja fuit: cf. II, 325, fuimus Trōes, fuit Īlium, and the note.

12. cum sociīs nātōque, penātibus et magnīs dīs: indicating the various factors of most importance for the future. The penātēs, household gods, are here distinguished from the major divinities (magnī dī), such as Jupiter, Juno, Neptune, Minerva, Vesta, etc. Observe the spondaic verse giving a solemn and majestic close; App. 395.

13–18. Founding of Aenos, or Aenea, in Thrace.

13. procul (ā Trojā): at a (little) distance, only across the Hellespont, a narrow strait. campīs: abl. of quality or of place where; App. 330, 319. terra Māvortia: the chief god of the fierce Thracians was Mars, the brutal god of war.

14. Thrācēs: nom. pl., a Greek form; App. 65, a. (illam terram) Thrāces arant. ācrī Lycūrgō: dat. of agent; App. 302. He had attacked the women attendants of Bacchus with an ox goad. For this he was first blinded and then destroyed by Jupiter.

15. hospitium antīquum Trojae (fuit) et penātēs (fuērunt) sociī (cum penātibus Trojae).

consults the Trojan chiefs in turn, as though they were Roman senators; and Anchises, as princeps, first in rank and age, speaks first.

59. de(ōr)um. referō: according to the Roman custom of consulting the senate when important prodigies occurred, referō being the technical word for laying a matter before that body. quae sententia sit: indir. quest.; App. 349.

60–61. Omnibus (est): dat. of possession; App. 299. (nōs) excēdere, (nōs) linquī, (nōs) dare: in apposition with animus. dare classibus Austrōs (ventōs): a poetical variation of the more usual expression dare ventīs classēs (vēla). Cf. III, 9, dare fātīs vēla, and see App. 426.

62. īnstaurāmus: it was important that all funerals should be properly performed, with all due ceremonies, as otherwise the soul of the dead would not be able to rest in peace. Polymnestor had not given Polydorus a proper burial, and so this ceremony is duly performed by Aeneas. The description of the funeral is adapted to Roman custom.

63. mānibus (Polydōrī): to the soul (of Polydorus), dat. of reference; App. 301.

65. Īliades (stant). crīnem solūtae: a conventional sign of grief; crīnem is obj. of the middle part. solūtae; App. 309, a.

66. tepidō lacte: freshly milked; abl. of material; App. 324. Other common offerings to the dead were wine, honey, and oil.

67–68. sanguinis sacrī: the blood of victims sacrificed to the gods. animam condimus: we "lay the ghost," by giving the body a proper burial, and thus enabling the soul to cross the river Styx and to rest in peace in Hades. The souls of the unburied must wander in misery for a hundred years. suprēmum: adverbial; for the last (time); see note on I, 219, and on II, 644. The poet is describing the usual Roman rite.

75. pius Arquitenēns: (Apollo) in (filial) devotion. According to the story, the goddess Latona was an outcast and could find no land willing to receive her till she came to Delos, at that time a floating island. The island allowed her to remain, where she gave birth to the twins, Apollo and Diana. In gratitude for this hospitality, Apollo bound Delos fast to the neighboring islands and so made it a firm and habitable land. errantem circum ōrās et lītora: App. 414.

335. omnem: for omne, attracted to the gender of the predicate noun Chāoniam, called the plains Chaonian and the whole land Chaonia, from Chaon, a brother of Helenus, who had been accidentally killed by him. dīxit = vocāvit.

337. venti (dedērunt). dedēre = dedērunt (cursum tibi).

338. (tē) ignārum: unaware (that we lived here). ōrīs: dat. with compound; App. 298.

339. Quid (agit) Ascanius: how fares Ascanius? the usual Roman formula for inquiring of one's health. aurā: abl. with vēscor; App. 342.

340. An incomplete verse and sentence, broken off for the pathetic effect. See the note on I, 534.

341. āmissae parentis: Creüsa; Andromache assumes that Creüsa has been killed or captured; parentis is obj. gen.; App. 284.

343. avunculus Hector: Creüsa was a sister of Hector. excitat: does the glory of their achievements rouse him to emulate them?

344–440. Helenus, who is both prophet and king, receives the Trojans hospitably and warns them of their coming dangers on land and sea.

344. Tālia (dicta).

347. suōs: his fellow countrymen = nōs. dūcit (nōs).

348. multum lacrimās fūndit: weeps copious tears (of joy). multum: adverb.

349–350. magnīs (Pergamīs): dat. with simulāta. parvam, ārentem: in this reproduction of their old Trojan home, everything is on a much smaller scale than the original; the city itself is parva and the river ārēns in marked contrast with the lofty Troy and the "deep-eddying" Xanthus in Asia Minor. Xanthī: appositive gen. with cognōmine. cognōmine: abl. of quality; App. 330.

351. amplector līmina: in joy at the revival of old memories, Aeneas embraces the gateway copied after the great Scaean gate at Troy. Embracing the gate or doorpost was an ancient custom of those who had been away from home a long time.

352. Nec nōn et: likewise also. urbe: abl. with fruor; App. 342.

353. rēx: Helenus. accipiēbat: imperf. of repeated action; App. 351, 2; day after day the king entertained them, l. 356.

354. aulāī = aulae: an archaic form; App. 34, b. Observe that it has three syllables (au-lā-ī) whereas aulae has only two (au-lae). (in) mediō. Bacchī: by metonymy for vīnī, wine; App. 433. lībābant: a ceremony regularly performed at each banquet; App. 351, 2.

428. caudās: obj. of commissa used as a middle; App. 309, a. The tails of dolphins are joined to the bodies of wolves. Cf. Paradise Lost, 2, 650–655.

"The one seemed woman to the waist, and fair,
But ended foul in many a scaly fold
Voluminous and vast, a serpent armed
With mortal sting; about her middle round
A cry of hell-hounds never ceasing barked
With wide Cerberean mouths full loud."

429. mētās: used figuratively to indicate that they should sail around Pachynus as around a turning post in a race course. (tē) lūstrāre: subj. of praestat; App. 258.

430. cessantem (tē): subj. of lūstrāre.

432. canibus = the dogs or wolves of l. 428; a touch of the poetic caprice which scorns an unimaginative consistency.

672. quō: abl. of cause.

673. contremuēre = contremuērunt. exterrita (est).

675–676. genus ruit et complent: observe the singular verb followed by the plural, since genus is collective and may take either; App. 236, a.

677. lūmine torvō: with glaring eye; effective use of the singular to emphasize the fact that each Cyclops had but one eye. nēquīquam: because unable to do us harm.

678. caelō: dat. of direction; App. 306. Aetnaeōs frātrēs: the Cyclopes who lived around Mt. Etna.

679. (in) vertice (montis).

681. cōnstitērunt: with the penult irregularly short. silva Jovis = quercūs; lūcus Diānae = cyparissī; since the oak was sacred to Jove and the cypress to Hecate, the Diana of Hades.

682. metus ācer agit (nōs) praecipitīs.

683. ventīs secundīs: abl. of means; apparently a south wind. In their anxiety to escape the Cyclopes the Trojans flee with the wind, in spite of the warning of Helenus, but suddenly recalling the dangers of Scylla and Charybdis, they turn back, and with the aid of the wind, which has veered to the north, they sail safely past the land of the Cyclopes.

696. ōre, Arethūsa, tuō: at your fountain (ōre), Arethusa. According to the story, the river Alpheüs of Elis in Greece fell in love with the nymph of the fountain Arethusa and pursued her under the sea to Syracuse, where she emerged. Cf. Shelley's Arethusa.

697. Jussī: presumably by Helenus.

700. fātīs: abl. of accordance; App. 326.

701. Camerīna: contrary to the commands of an oracle, the people of Camerina drained a neighboring marsh of the same name, and through this space their enemies advanced and captured the city.

702. Gelā: nom. sing. with long final vowel, a Greek form. fluviī: there is only one other example in Vergil (IX, 151) of the double i in the gen. ending of nouns in ius, ium. dicta = vocāta.

704. magnanim(ōr)um: spirited. quondam: from the point of view of Vergil, not Aeneas.

705. datīs ventīs: the gods are with them and have again changed the winds for them, as they have now rounded the southern point of Sicily and are veering toward the north.

706. saxīs: abl. of cause with dūra, dangerous.

707. inlaetābilis: because Anchises died there.

709. cūrae cāsūsque: objective genitives; App. 284.

710–711. pater: voc., modified by optime and ērepte. nēquīquam: since he did not live to reach the Promised Land. perīc(u)līs: dat. of separation; the longer form (⏑ – ⏑ –) could not be used in hexameter.

712. monēret: cum concessive; App. 379.

713. Celaenō nōn (hōs mihi praedīxit lūctūs).

714. Hic (fuit), haec (fuit): the pronouns agree with their predicate nouns, labor and mēta; App. 240, a.

715–718. Setting sail from Drepanum for Italy, the goal of their wanderings, the Trojans are overtaken by a violent storm and driven to the northern coast of Africa, as described in the first book of the Aeneid. Aeneas thus completes the story of his adventures. During the whole recital Dido's interest has been growing, and she has fallen deeply in love with Aeneas as the hero of these marvelous adventures.

715. Hinc: the story thus connects with I, 34 (vix ē cōnspectū Siculae tellūris, etc.).

716. intentīs omnibus: just as in II, 1, at the beginning of Aeneas's speech.

717. renārrābat: recounted, related (not retold, but went through them again by thus recalling them). dīv(ōr)um.

718. factō fīne: abl. abs. and alliteration; App. 343, 411.

1–30. Dido, madly in love with Aeneas, discloses her feelings to her sister Anna.

The Dido episode is one of the most famous in all literature, and its effect on later writers has been marked. One of the best known of the English versions is found in Chaucer's Legend of Good Women.

1. At: denotes the return of the poet to his own narrative and contrasts the restlessness of Dido with the calm (quiēvit) indicated by the last line of III. rēgīna: Dido. gravī cūrā: passionate love.

2. vēnīs, ignī: ablatives of means.

3. Multa, multus: the repetition intentionally strengthens and makes more vivid the idea of frequency and repetition; App. 413. virī = Aenēae. animō = ad animum: dat. of direction.

4. gentis honōs: his noble birth, being a member of the royal family and descended from Jupiter and Venus. (in) pectore.

5. verba: the four causes mentioned as arousing the love of the queen for Aeneas are: his courage (virtūs), his noble birth (gentis honōs), his handsome appearance (vultūs), and his fine words (verba).

7. IV, 7 = III, 589.

8. male sāna = nōn sāna = īnsāna: cf. male fīda = īnfīda, II, 23; litotes; App. 431.

10. Quis (est) hic novus hospes, (quī) nostrīs sēdibus successit: what a marvelous stranger this is, who has come to our house!

12. (illum) esse genus deōrum. nec (mea) fidēs (est) vāna.

13. Dēgenerēs: therefore Aeneas's soul is not dēgener, as he has always been so fearless.

14. jactātus (est).

15. (in) animō. Sī . . . nōn . . . sedēret: condition contrary to fact; App. 382.

16. nē vellem: not to be willing, substantive clause, subject of sedēret; App. 360. cui: indefinite, any one. vinc(u)lō jugālī: in bonds of wedlock.

17. (mē) dēceptam fefellit = mē dēcēpit et fefellit.

18. sī nōn (mē) pertaesum fuisset. thalamī, taedae: genitives with the impersonal pertaedet; App. 290. taedae: the (marriage) torch, by metonymy for marriage; App. 433. Torches were carried by attendants in the wedding procession. Cf. Milton, Paradise Lost, XI, 590–591:

"They light the nuptial torch and bid Invoke Hymen."

19. potuī: the ind. instead of the more usual subj. expresses the conclusion in a more positive way, as though it were practically realized; App. 382, d. huic ūnī culpae: dat. with compound; Dido refers to the sin (culpa) of loving Aeneas after having sworn eternal fidelity to her former husband, Sychaeus.

21. frāternā: equivalent to a subj. gen. with caede; the murder of Sychaeus by my brother. Cf. I, 343–356.

22–23. sōlus hic (Aenēās). hic: with a short syllable here instead of the more usual long: App. 107, 3, c. (meum)

animum labantem impulit = meum animum sīc impulit ut labāret; App. 440.

24–25. tellūs īma: the lowest (deeps of) the earth; App. 246. prius: with quam, l. 27, but repeated as ante in l. 27 because of the intervening clauses. optem: potential subj.; App. 252. (ut) dehīscat, (ut) abigat: substantive clauses developed from the optative; App. 360. pater omnipotēns = Juppiter. ad umbrās = ad mortem, defined by the next verse.

27. ante: repeating prius of l. 24. pudor: the Romans considered it quite discreditable for a widow to marry.

28. Ille: Sychaeus.

29. habeat (meōs amōrēs) servetque (eōs in) sepulcrō: volitive (jussive) subjunctives; App. 254.

30. lacrimīs: an indication of the strength of the feeling she is trying to suppress.

31–53. Anna encourages Dido to look forward to marriage with Aeneas.

31. magis dīlēcta: more beloved = dearer. lūce (= vītā): abl. with comparative; App. 327. sorōrī = mihi: dat. of agent; App. 302.

32. juventā: abl. of time; practically equivalent to an acc. of duration; App. 322, 314. carpēre = carpēris; App. 204, 4.

33. Veneris praemia: the joys of love. nō(ve)ris: fut. perf.; with force of a fut.

34. Id: whether you remarry or not. cinerem aut mānīs (Sychaeī). subjects of cūrāre. Anna's answer to Dido's statement in ll. 28–29 is that her actions

35. Estō: imp. 3d sing. of sum; (so) be it, granted that. (tē) aegram: while you mourned for your husband (during the time immediately following his death).

36. Libyae: loc.; App. 345. (in) Tyrō: loc. abl. dēspectus (est tibi).

37–38. Āfrica terra triumphīs dīves: Vergil is thinking of the many triumphs later celebrated by Roman generals for their victories in Africa, triumphīs being abl. of respect with dīves; App. 325. placitō: with active force, agreeable, pleasing (to you). pugnābis = resistēs. amōrī: dat. with special verb; App. 297.

39. Nec venit in (tuam) mentem: does it not occur to you? quōrum consēderis (in) arvīs: indir. quest.; App. 349; subject of venit; what sort of people (i.e., how fierce and hostile) they are in whose territory you have settled.

40–42. Hinc . . . hinc: from this side . . . from that side. īnfrēnī: unbridled; possibly a play on words, denoting that the Libyans rode their horses without bridles and that they were a wild, fierce, unrestrained (unbridled) tribe. cingunt (tē). sitī: abl. of cause with dēserta.

44. germānī: Pygmalion. See I, 346–364, 563–564.

59. Jūnōnī: as presiding over marriage. ante omnīs (aliōs deōs). cui vinc(u)la (sunt) cūrae: cui and cūrae are double datives; App. 303, a.

61. fundit (vīnum, wine): it was customary to pour an offering of wine between the horns of the victim as part of the sacrificial ceremony.

62. ante ōra de(ōr)um: i.e., before their images. pinguīs: modifying ārās; observe the long vowel of the ending. The altars were fat (rich) with offerings.

63. dōnīs: gifts (to the gods), sacrifices.

64. pectoribus: with the final syllable irregularly long under the metrical accent; App. 394, a.

65. vātum: the seers who interpret the omens apparently encourage Dido in her hopeless love, not realizing (mentēs ignārae) that she is past praying for. quid vōta (juvant) furentem (amōre): *how can sacrifices help one crazed (with love)?

66. Ēst: from edō; observe the long vowel.

69 71. (in) urbe. furēns (amōre). quālis cerva (vagātur), sagittā conjectā (abl. abs.), quam incautam inter Crēsia nemora pāstor agēns tēlīs procul fixit. The chance shot of a shepherd has taken effect without his knowing it. quam: refers to the deer (cerva).

72. nescius: i.e., of the success of his shot. fugā: abl. of manner.

75–76. Sīdoniās: Dido came from Tyre not from Sidon. Vergil's knowledge of geography is hazy, and he often confuses Tyre and Sidon, the two great cities of Phoenicia. Cf. I, 338. opēs urbemque: subtle temptations to the needy Aeneas and his followers (omnium egēnōs, I, 599), who were so eager to found a city where they might end their wanderings. mediā: App. 246.

77. lābente diē: as the day wanes, the usual time for the chief meal.

78. dēmēns: Aeneas's presence would serve to aggravate her unhappy passion.

79. pendet ab ōre (Aenēae) nārrantis: hangs on his words.

80. Post: adv. ubi (omnēs) dīgressī (sunt). lūmen (suum).

81. premit = reprimit.

82. strātīs relictīs (ab Aenēā): in the banqueting hall, after the guests have departed, she throws herself on the couch which Aeneas had occupied, to appease her sense of desolation felt in the absence of one secretly loved.

83. absēns absentem: bringing the same or similar words together is a favorite type of play on words among many classical authors.

84. Ascanium: he has now been brought back from Idalium, and Cupid is no longer substituting for him. Vergil, however, tells us nothing of this second exchange. genitōris imāgine: i.e., his resemblance to his father.

85. sī possit: implied indir. quest.; App. 349.

101. ārdet amāns Dīdō — ārdet amāre Dīdō.

102 103. paribus auspiciīs: with equal authority, since only the highest Roman magistrates had the right to take the auspices. Juno proposes that she and Venus shall preside over the united peoples (Trojans and Carthaginians) with equal authority.

103. liceat (Dīdōnī): vol. (jussive) subj.; App. 284. marītō = Aeneae: dat. with special verb, servīre; App. 297.

104. dōtālis: predicatively, as a dowry.

105. Ollī (Jūnōnī): an archaic form of illī; it depends on ingressa est (dicere) in l. 107. sēnsit (Jūnōnem) locūtam (esse).

106. rēgnum Ītaliae: the (destined) kingdom of Italy. quō (= ut) āverteret: purpose; App. 388. (ad) ōrās.

107. Quis dēmēns abnuat: deliberative subj.; App. 348.

109. Sī modo (= utinam) factum fortūna sequātur: may fortune attend the deed (of uniting the two peoples); opt. subj.; App. 253. Venus implies, but does not definitely promise, that she would consent under certain vaguely suggested conditions.

110 111. sī . . . velit: indir. quest., App. 349. (illīs) Trojā profectīs: dat. of possession; equivalent to Teucrīs.

113. Tū (es) conjūnx (Jovis), tibi (est).

Perge, sequar." Tum sīc excēpit rēgia Jūnō:

154. (sē) trānsmittunt cursū campōs: campōs is object of the preposition trāns in composition, while cursū is abl. of manner; App. 308, 328.

157. equō: abl. of cause.

158. pecora inertia: as ferae caprae and cervī, which Ascanius disdainfully calls tame herds. vōtīs: (in answer) to his prayers; indir. obj. with darī.

160–172. While all are intent on the chase, Juno sends a sudden tempest, scattering the party and driving Aeneas and Dido to the same lonely cave, where they go through a form of marriage under unlucky omens.

163. nepōs Veneris = Ascanius.

166–168. Vergil here indicates the various features in a Roman wedding and represents Nature herself as performing these ceremonies. Earth and Heaven, as universal parents, take the part of human parents in bringing the couple together; the lightnings (ignēs) are the wedding torches (taedae); Juno performs the duty of the matron of honor (prōnuba), and the cries of the mountain nymphs

193. (Dīdōnem et Aenēān) inter sē fovēre hiemem quam longa (ea hiems sit). inter sē fovēre: were caressing one another the whole long winter; inter sē is commonly thus employed to denote reciprocal action. quam longa (sit): however long it may be.

194. rēgnōrum: Carthage and Italy.

195. vīr(ōr)um.

198–218. Iarbas prays to his father, Jupiter Ammon, for help, reproaching him that he had allowed Aeneas, a mere adventurer, to be preferred to himself.

198. Hic: pronounce hicc.

199–200. templa centum (posuit), centum ārās posuit: Latin commonly expresses the verb with only the second of two such clauses, English with the first. Compare the note on ll. 170–171.

201. excubiās: apposition with ignem; the never-dying fire stands sentry in honor of the gods, like the sacred fire of Vesta at Rome.

202. pingue: from the blood and the fat of the many sacrifices.

203. Is: Iarbas. animī: gen. with āmēns; or loc.; App. 287, 37, c.

206–207. Maurūsia gēns: the people of Iarbas.

208–210. "Are all your thunders and lightnings but empty threats? You do not really reward the good and punish the wicked."

211–212. Fēmina: Dido; emphatic by position. pretiō: abl. of price; App. 336. She had not taken the place by force, but had been compelled to buy it, a confession of weakness.

212–213. See the note on ll. 199–200.

214. dominum: said with bitter disdain.

215. Paris: Aeneas is another Paris in stealing the woman Iarbas was planning to marry. sēmivirō: the hardy African chieftain despises the more cultured Trojans as being effeminate Orientals.

216–217. mentum, crīnem: objects of the middle participle subnexus; App. 309, a. madentem: dripping (with perfume), another mark of effeminacy. raptō: abl. with potior; App. 342. potītur: with ī irregularly short.

218. quippe: ironical. fāmam fovēmus inānem: we keep alive a baseless belief in your power and justice.

219–237. Moved by the prayer of Iarbas, Jupiter sends Mercury to Aeneas to remind him of his high destiny and of his duty to his son Ascanius.

235. spē inimīcā: hiatus; App. 399. inimīcā gente: Vergil is thinking of later times when Rome and Carthage were such bitter foes.

237. Nāviget: vol. subj.; App. 254. hic nostrī nuntius estō: this be our (my) message. nostrī: gen. pl. of ego. estō: imp.

238–258. Mercury hastens from Olympus to Carthage.

240. ālīs: attached to the tālāria. (illum) sublīmem. aequora suprā = suprā aequora: anastrophe; App. 414.

242. virgam: the cādūceus or magic winged wand entwined with serpents. hāc (virgā): as escort of the souls of the dead, Mercury conducted them in both directions; to Hades after death, and back to the upper world as ghosts.

245. Compare the flight of Raphael in Paradise Lost, V, 255 ff. Illā (virgā): abl. of means with frētus. agit ventōs: outstrips the winds.

247. Atlantis: in the following description, Vergil skillfully mingles the conception of Atlas as a god and as a mountain.

Atlantis, cīnctum adsiduē cui nūbibus ātrīs pīniferum caput et ventō pulsātur et imbrī,

293–294. quae tempora (sint), quis modus (sit): indir. questions, objects of temptātūrum (esse); App. 349.

296–330. Dido, learning that the fleet was being equipped and suspecting the truth, bitterly reproaches Aeneas and with tears and prayers attempts to prevail on him to remain.

296. possit: deliberative subj.; App. 348.

298. tūta: (no matter how) safe, with omnia. furentī (Didōnī).

300. animī: gen. with adj. inops; App. 287.

302–303. Thyias: yi form a diphthong pronounced we. The Bacchic revels celebrated every third year on Mt. Cithaeron, near Thebes, were famous. When the sacra were brought out of the temple and shaken, the Thyiads or Bacchantes ran wild, dressed themselves in fawn skins, and joined the Bacchic orgies, where they brandished the thyrsī (wands), and danced to the accompaniment of clashing cymbals. Cf. Wordsworth, Duddon Sonnets, 20:

"Dance like a Bacchanal from rock to rock, Tossing her frantic thyrsus wide and high."

audītō Bacchō: abl. abs.; as the cry 'Bacchus' is heard. The worshippers

365. tibi (est).

366–367. dūrīs cautibus: abl. of cause with horrēns or of place where. These are stock comparisons for hard-heartedness in love. admō(vē)runt ūbera (tibi): suckled you.

368. majōra (mala): greater wrongs.

369. flētū: abl. of cause. ingemuit: the third person, since she contemptuously talks about rather than to him. lūmina = oculōs.

370. miseror: with the acc., while misereor takes the gen. (mē) amantem.

371. Quae quibus anteferam: what shall I say (do) first?

372. Sāturnius pater = Juppiter.

373. (in) lītore. (eum or tē) egentem: Aeneas had said of himself and his followers that they were omnium egēnōs, I, 599.

376–377. nunc, nunc, nunc: a scornful rejoinder to the nunc, nunc of Aeneas ll. 345, 356: App. 413.

378–380. Scornfully sarcastic. is: subj., attracted into the gender of the predicate, App. 240, a. (superōs) quiētōs.

381. ī, sequere: imperatives. sequere Ītaliam: a contemptuous rejoinder to the Ītaliam sequor of l. 361.

382–384. mediīs (in) scopulīs: Dido hopes that the ships of Aeneas may be wrecked on reefs in the midst of the sea; App. 246. quid: indef., anything. (tē) hausūrum (esse). Dīdō: acc., a Greek form; obj. of vocātūrum. ātrīs ignibus: the remorseful thoughts about Dido will pursue Aeneas like furies with their smoking torches. The idea is that, although far away (absēns), she will pursue him with the pangs of a guilty conscience, and after death her ghost will haunt him wherever he may be. Cf. Tasso, Jerusalem Delivered, 16, 59–60:

"Go, cruel man, and take with thee that peace
Thou leav'st with me; I do not bid thee stay.
But I will follow — hope for no release —
My angry shade shall haunt thee on thy way;
Like a new Fury I will dog thy path,
With torch and serpents armed, to wreak my wrath."

385. animā: the ancients often thought of death as the separation of the body from the soul.

386. umbra: (as) a ghost. Dabis poenās: you shall pay the penalty, suffer punishment.

388–389. aurās (= lūcem) fugit: she rushes indoors.

390. metū: abl. of cause; for fear (of making matters worse).

391–392. Suscipiunt: catch her (as she faints and falls). thalamō: dat. of direction; equivalent to in thalamum. (in) strātīs.

413. temptāre (Aenēān).

415. nĕ quid (indef.) inexpertum relinquat (et sīc moriātur) frūstrā: there would be no object in her dying so long as there was any possibility of winning back Aeneas.

416. properārī: used impersonally.

418. corōnās: as a sign of joy at the prospect of immediate departure. On entering or leaving port, sailors often decked their ships with garlands.

420. perferre poterō: Dido is deceiving Anna if she has already determined on suicide in case she loses Aeneas.

422. colere, crēdere: historical infinitives; App. 257.

473. in līmine: to prevent the escape of their victim.

474–503. Concealing her plans from her sister, Dido builds a great funeral pyre in the palace court, pretending that she is preparing a magic rite which will bring back Aeneas or else free her of her love for him.

478. sorōrī: dat. with grātāre, which is imp.; App. 297.

479. quae reddat, (quae) solvat: subjunctives of characteristic; App. 389.
eum, eō: Dido consciously avoids mentioning the name of Aeneas and refers to him in the vaguest way possible by using the colorless pronoun is rather than one more definite, such as ille.

483. hinc = ex hōc locō. mōnstrāta (est).

485. et (sīc) servābat: by means of the dragon, the priestess guards the magic tree with its golden apples.

486. sopōriferum: used here as a purely ornamental general epithet, as a sleep-producing food would be the last thing in the world for the keeper to give to a dragon which was playing the part of a watchdog.

487–488. Haec (sacerdōs). mentēs (ā cūrīs) solvere, aliīs (mentibus) cūrās immittere.

489. sistere, vertere: some of the stock claims of witches and magicians. fluviīs: dat. of reference.

490–491. nocturnōs mānīs: ghosts ordinarily appear only at night. terram mūgīre, dēscendere ornōs: through the magic power of the priestess.

492–493. The better classes of Vergil's time condemned the use of witchcraft and magic as being unsportsmanlike. (mē) invītam accingier = accingī: an old form of the passive inf., used as a middle, with artīs as its obj.; App. 309.

494. (in) tēctō interiōre sub aurās: in the courtyard.

495. virī: Dido continues to avoid mentioning the name of Aeneas; virī here possibly means conjugis, as often.

495–496. thalamō, lectum jugālem: Dido persists in her contention that Aeneas was actually her husband. See ll. 172 and 324.

497. superimpōnās: vol., equivalent to an imp.; App. 254.

613. īnfandum caput = Aeneas.

615–620. It was customary even up to recent times to open at random some revered book such as the Bible or the Aeneid, and take the first passage meeting the eye as a prophecy of the future. It is said that Charles I of England once tried this and opened the Aeneid at this tateful passage; Introd. 9.

615. audācis populī: this people proved to be the Rutulians.

616. fīnibus: abl. of separation.

617–620. implōret, videat, fruātur, cadat: volitives or optatives; App. 254, 253. lūce (vītae). (sit) inhumātus.

621 ff. Dido's second prophecy and prayer are also framed in such a way as to find fulfillment in the Second Punic War, when in the "eternal enmity" between Rome and Carthage, Hannibal arose as Dido's avenger (ultor) and brought the Roman Republic to the verge of ruin.

624. populīs: Rome and Carthage; dat. of possession.

625. Exoriāre (= exoriāris): vol.; App. 254; rise some avenger!

626. quī sequāre (= sequāris): rel. clause of purpose or of characteristic; App. 388, 389.

627. dabunt sē = dabuntur.

THE DEATH OF DIDO

Until comparatively recently artists painted classical or biblical characters in contemporary costume. Dido is here garbed like a seventeenth-century Italian lady.

1–41. On sailing from Carthage for Italy, Aeneas is driven by a tempest to Drepanum in Sicily, where Anchises had died the previous year. King Acestes again hospitably receives the Trojans.

The fifth book of the Aeneid forms a restful episode in the midst of the stirring action of the poem. This episode, with its somewhat tedious account of the games, does not serve any useful purpose in advancing the plot of the poem and may be omitted with less loss than any other of the six books. The fifth book, however, gives the poet a fine opportunity to develop the character of his hero as pius Aenēās, as here displayed in his deep devotion to the memory of his dead father. This is the best justification for the episode. It also furnishes an interesting picture of an ancient athletic contest.

1. Intereā: while Dido carries out her plan to commit suicide.

2. Aquilōne: with ātrōs: specific (north wind) for the general (wind), and really inapplicable here since the Trojans were sailing north. As often, the poet sacrifices logical consistency for the sake of vividness or metrical convenience.

4–5. Quae causa accenderit: indir. quest.; App. 349.

5–7. dūrī magnō sed amōre, etc.: but the harsh sufferings when a great love is profaned and the knowledge (of) what a love-crazed woman may do lead the hearts of the Trojans through gloomy forebodings. amōre pollūtō: from Dido's point of view; abl. abs. quid possit: indir.

fact; App. 382. suīs: irregularly referring to altāria instead of to the subject; App. 248, a.

56. haud sine mente (dīvōrum): i.e., by the will of the gods.

57. adsumus et intrāmus: hysteron proteron; App. 429. intrāmus: historical present; App. 351, 1, a.

59–60. poscāmus ventōs: vol.; App. 254; they are to pray to the manes of Anchises for favorable winds when they get ready to leave. atque (ut pater Anchīsēs) velit, urbe positā, mē ferre quotannīs haec sacra templīs dicātīs sibi: the reference is to the parentālia, an annual Roman festival in honor of the dead. The ut-clause is object of poscāmus; App. 360.

61. Trojā: abl. of origin with generātus; App. 323.

62–63. numerō: abl. of respect with bīna; App. 325. adhibēte epulīs et patriōs penātīs et (penātīs) quōs Acestēs colit.

64–65. nōna Aurōra: referring to the Roman ceremonies of the novemdiāle, a festival celebrated in honor of the deceased nine days after the funeral.

66. prīma: first of all.

67. quī: their antecedents are indicated in cūnctī of l. 70.

68. incēdit: more picturesque than est.

69. caestū: the ancient boxing gloves, made of untanned (crūdō) hide and often weighted with lead and iron, were quite brutal and sometimes deadly. Boxers were often disfigured and sometimes killed in such contests.

71. Ōre favēte: favor with your speech, i.e., avoid all words of bad omen. The surest way to do this is to refrain from speaking; hence ōre (or linguīs) favēre, preserve a holy silence, is a common formula used by priests at the beginning of religious rites.

72–103. The propitiatory sacrifice to the manes of Anchises.

73. Hoc, hoc: pronounce hocc, making a long syllable; App. 107, 3, c. aevī: gen. of respect with mātūrus; App. 294.

75. Ille: Aenēās.

76. tumulum (Anchīsae).

82. licuit (mihi quaerere tēcum) fīnīs Italōs.

83. quīcumque est: whatever the Tiber may be; intentional insistence of the poet that his hero does not know the land to which he is going but is obediently following the will of the gods. There is perhaps also an additional touch of Roman pride in the implied contrast of the present fame of the Tiber and of Rome.

84. adytīs: the tomb served as a shrine. anguis: the protecting genius, or guardian spirit (divinity) of a place or of a dead person, was often represented as a serpent, and the worship of serpents was very common in antiquity.

85. septem septēna: seven, like three, was a sacred, mystical number, supposed to be of great potency in bringing good fortune.

87–88. cui terga caeruleae notae (incendēbant) et (cui) squāmam fulgor maculōsus aurō incendēbat: whose back blue spots brightened, etc., cuí being dat. of reference. nūbibus: abl. of place where; App. 319, b.

90. Ille: the serpent; the pronoun being used, as often, to indicate a change of subject.

94. īnstaurat: because interrupted by the appearance of the serpent. hōc: all the more; abl. of degree of difference;

483. meliōrem: as a more acceptable offering to the god than would be the life of a man.

485–544. Eurytion is first in archery, but the first prize is awarded to Acestes, on account of his age and dignity and because his arrow shot at random into the sky miraculously took fire and left behind a trail of light.

486. invītat (eōs) quī velint: implied indir. disc.; App. 357.

488. trājectō: thrown over (the mast).

489. quō tendant ferrum (= sagittam): rel. clause of purpose; App. 388.

490. sortem: the lots were placed in a helmet which was then shaken. The order in which the lots fell out of the helmet determined the order in which the contestants were to try their skill.

491–492. prīmus exit locus: Hippocoön's lot was the first to fall out.

493. victor: he had won second place.

omens (interpretation) late; i.e., after the event had taken place. It is uncertain to what event the poet here refers.

527. (dē) caelō.

530–531. nec ōmen abnuit: the Romans immediately accepted omens which they thought were good, by saying, "Ōmen accipiō." They refused to accept those which they considered of evil portent. By this method they hoped to secure the advantages and avoid the disadvantages of the various prodigies sent as signs by the gods. laetum: apparently Acestes also considers it a good omen.

534. exsortem: a term applied to a part of the booty excepted from the general distribution by lot (sors) and bestowed upon some warrior who had especially distinguished himself.

538. ferre: inf. of purpose; App. 261. suī: obj. gen. with monimentum; App. 284.

12. Dēlius vātēs: Apollo, born at Delos, and giver of oracles.

13. subeunt (Aenēās et sociī). Triviae lūcōs: the grove was sacred to Hecate (Trivia), since it stood near the entrance to the lower world.

14. Daedalus: the most famous artisan of antiquity. With his son, Icarus, he had emigrated to Crete, where Pasiphaë, queen of Minos, had fallen in love with a beautiful bull. He assisted her to gratify her unholy passion, and from this love was born the Minotaur, a savage monster, half-man and half-bull. Daedalus was then compelled by Minos to build the Labyrinth within whose winding passages the Minotaur might be confined. Finally Daedalus contrived wings for himself and his son Icarus and thus escaped from Crete. During their flight, Icarus flew too close to the sun, which melted the waxen fastenings of his wings and allowed him to fall into the sea and drown. After the death of Icarus, Daedalus continued his flight to Cumae, where he erected a temple to Apollo, to whom he dedicated his wings, and where he made some beautiful carved doors for the temple. On these doors he engraved the scenes described in ll. 20–30.

15. pennīs: abl. of means.

16. īnsuētum iter: the air.

20–30. A description of the scenes engraved by Daedalus on the temple doors at Cumae, which are: (1) death of Androgeos; (2) drawing of lots to see who shall be sent as victims of the Minotaur; (3) Pasiphaë and the Minotaur; (4) the Labyrinth with Ariadne and Theseus. lētum (est). been compelled by Minos to send annually seven youths and seven maidens as tribute to Crete, where they were thrown into the Labyrinth to be eaten by the Minotaur. The Minotaur was finally killed by Theseus, an Athenian prince, who had been sent as one of the seven annual victims. He was assisted by Ariadne, daughter of Minos, who had fallen in love with him and had given him a clew of thread with which to guide his steps and thus find his way out of the Labyrinth with its countless winding passages.

21. Cecropidae (sunt). miserum: acc. of exclamation; App. 318.

22. ductīs sortibus: abl. abs. stat urna: represents the scene where the lots had just been drawn from the urn at Athens, to see who should be sent as victims of the Minotaur.

23. Contrā: on the opposite door. marī: abl. of separation.

24. hīc: on the door just mentioned. amor taurī: the love (of Pasiphaë) for the bull; taurī is obj. gen.; App. 284.

26. Veneris = amōris.

27. labor ille domūs: that famous house, so laboriously built, i.e., the Labyrinth; domūs is gen. of apposition.

the Lūdī Apollinārēs, a great Roman festival in honor of Apollo.

71. Tē: addressed to the Sibyl; refers to the keeping of the famous Sibylline books in the Capitol at Rome.

73. lēctōs virōs: at first two, then ten, and finally fifteen men (the quīndecemvirī) were intrusted with the care of the Sibylline books, which were supposed to contain prophecies dealing with the fate of Rome and which were consulted in times of great crisis.

74. nē mandā: cf. III, 444, 456, 457, and notes. nē with the imp. is chiefly poetic; App. 256, a.

75. ventīs: dat. of reference.

76. (ut tū) ipsa canās: obj. of ōrō.

77–97. The Sibyl announces to Aeneas his future wars and urges him to be steadfast and endure to the end.

77. nōndum Phoebī patiēns: not yet submissive to Phoebus, i.e., she still struggles against the inspiration of the god.

78. sī possit: a conditional clause, used virtually as an indir. quest.

80. fingit (eam): a picture from breaking a spirited horse, as is the figure of the preceding verse.

83. Ō (tū) dēfūncte: voc. perīc(u)līs: abl. with dēfungor; App. 342.

236–263. Before the entrance to the lower world Aeneas and the Sibyl sacrifice by night to the gods of the lower world, and in answer to their prayers Hecate comes and opens the entrance shortly before daybreak.

236. (Aenēās) exsequitur.

237. Spēlunca: not the one mentioned in l. 42.

242. dīxērunt nōmine = vocāvērunt. Aornon: a Greek word meaning birdless. Avernus is thus fancifully derived from Aornos for the reasons given in ll. 239–241. This line is not found in the best manuscripts and may be a later addition to the poem.

243. nigrantīs: see the notes on V, 97.

244. frontī: dat. with compound.

247. (in) caelōque Erebōque potentem: she was Diana in Heaven and Hecate in Hades.

248. Suppōnunt: place beneath (the throats of the victims).

249. ātrī velleris: see the notes on V, 97.

268–294. Accompanied by the Sibyl Aeneas sets out on his journey. Near the entrance they find the death-bringing powers, and a little farther the horrible monsters of Hades.

268. Ībant (Aenēās et Sibylla).

272. rēbus: dat. of separation.

274–281. Observe the personification of abstract ideas.

277–278. Lētum; tum cōnsanguineus Lētī Sopor: "Sleep and his brother Death." Cf. Shelley, Queen Mab:

"Death and his brother Sleep,
One pale as yonder waning moon
With lips of lurid blue,
The other rosy as the morn."

and Tennyson, In Memoriam, 67:

"When in the down I sink my head,
Sleep, Death's twin-brother, times my breath;
Sleep, Death's twin-brother, knows not Death,
Nor can I think of thee as dead.'

a signal to the Greek fleet to start back to Troy. Cf. II, 254 ff.

523. Ēgregia: ironically of Helen. This passage contradicts the account of II, 567–588, but it is useless to expect strict consistency of a great poetic genius. conjūnx: after the death of Paris, Helen had married Deïphobus.

526. amantī: Menelaüs, her lawful husband.

529. Aeolidēs: contemptuously of Ulysses, in accordance with the scandal which claimed that he was not the son of Laërtes at all but of Sisyphus, a notorious robber and trickster, son of Aeolus.

532. Pelagīne errōribus: a Homeric conception, according to which Hades lay beyond the western ocean and could be reached only by ship. This idea is at variance with the rest of this book.

535–547. Aeneas parts with Deïphobus.

724. campōs liquentīs = mare.

724–751. This whole passage has many difficulties and much of it is far from clear, possibly due at least partially to the unfinished condition of the poem; Introd. 5.

725–727. Tītānia astra = the sun (god), a descendant of a Titan. artūs: the universe is here conceived as an organism, filled with a vital force (anima mundī), the source of all life, thought, and motion. tōtam mōlem, magnō corpore: refer to the whole universe.

728. volant(i)um.

731. sēminibus: germs, i.e., souls; dat. of possession. quantum: so far as harmful mortal bodies do not hinder (these souls). Cf. Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice, V, 1, 64–65:

"But whilst this muddy vesture of decay Doth grossly close it in."

733. Hinc: from the debasing influence of the body. (animae) metuunt. aurās = caelum.

893–901. Aeneas and the Sibyl depart through the ivory exit of Hades to the upper world. Aeneas hastens to his fleet, sets sail once more and soon lands at Cajeta in Latium, the final goal of his journey and the destined end of his wanderings.

GRAMMATICAL APPENDIX

GRAMMATICAL APPENDIX

ALPHABET; PRONUNCIATION; QUANTITY; ACCENT

1. With the exception that it has no w the Latin alphabet is the same as the English, which has been borrowed from it.

2. The vowels, as in English, are a, e, i, o, u, and sometimes y. The other letters are consonants.

SOUNDS OF THE LETTERS

3. Vowels. All Latin vowels are either long or short. All long vowels are indicated in this text by having the mark (–) placed over them, as nōn, not. All unmarked vowels in this book are to be considered short.

4. Latin vowels have the following sounds:

Long	Short
ā as in *f*a*ther*: āra, altar	a as in *a*sk: anima, soul
ē as in *th*e*y*: mēns, mind	e as in r*e*d: bellum, war
ī as in mach*i*ne: dīvus, divine	i as in h*i*t: mittō, send
ō as in b*o*ne: mōns, mountain	o as in *o*bey: aequor, sea
ū as in pr*u*ne: lūx, light	u as in f*u*ll: fuga, flight

5. Diphthongs. A diphthong is the union of two vowels in a single syllable. The sounds of the Latin diphthongs are:

ae as ai in *ai*sle: caelum, heaven
au as ou in h*ou*se: aurum, gold ei as ei in fr*ei*ght: ei, alas!
oe as oi in b*oi*l: poena, punishment eu as eh-oo (oo as in sp*oo*n, but fused with the eh sound into a single syllable): heu, alas!
ui somewhat as we, but with a more vocalic sound of the u: cui, to whom

6. Consonants. In general the consonants have the same sounds as in English, but there are the following exceptions:

c as k, always hard, as in c*o*me: faciō, do, make g always hard, as in *g*et: fugiō, flee
j (consonantal i) as y in *y*et: jubeō, order s as in *s*it, never as in ri*s*e: cāsus, chance t as in *t*ie, never as in na*t*ion: tālis, such v (consonantal u) as w in *w*ill: videō, see x as in e*x*tra, always hard: rēx, king bs, bt, as ps, pt: urbs, city; obtineō, gain, obtain ch as k in *k*ite: pulcher, beautiful gu (usually), qu, and sometimes su before a vowel, as gw, kw, and sw, respectively: sanguis, blood; quī, who; suādeō, persuade ph as p-h (as p-h in sa*p*head, but without the break): philosophia, philosophy
th as t-h (as t-h in fa*t*head, but without the break): Corinthus, Corinth

a. Modern printed texts often use the same character (i) for both vocalic and consonantal i (i, j), as well as only one character for vocalic and consonantal u (u, v). The Romans did not employ separate characters to distinguish between the vocalic and consonantal uses of these letters.

b. When coming between vowels within a word, j is regularly doubled in pronunciation, although written but once, as major, greater; pejor, worse: ejus, of him; hujus, of this; cujus, of whom; ajō, say. These are to be pronounced as though spelled majjor, pejjor, ejjus, hujjus, cujjus, ajjō. This rule does not apply to j, which was originally initial, but which comes between vowels as a result of composition, as praejūdicō, prejudge; bijugī, chariot.

c. When followed by the letter i, as in compounds of jaciō, throw, j, although pronounced, is not ordinarily written in the classical period, as coniciō, throw together; dēiciō, cast down; ēiciō, throw out; reiciō, throw back. These are to be pronounced as though spelled conjiciō, dējiciō, ējiciō, rejiciō, and in this text they are so written.

7. Doubled Consonants. All doubled consonants are to be sounded separately, not as one consonant as is customary in English. Thus puella, girl, must be pronounced pu-el-la, and not pu-ell-a as in English; so also er-rō, wander, stray; oc-cu-pō, occupy.

8. Double Consonants. The double consonants are x and z; x is equivalent to ks or cs; z a Greek letter, originally zd, may be pronounced as z in lazy.

SYLLABLES

9. A Latin word has as many syllables as it has vowels and diphthongs; as so-ci-us, comrade; vo-cā-re, to call; moe-ni-a, walls; ac-ci-pi-ō, receive.

10. In dividing a Latin word into syllables, a single consonant is pronounced with the following vowel, as ca-put, head.

11. A consonant followed by l or r (except ll or rr) is usually pronounced with the l or r, as pa-trēs, fathers; pū-bli-cus, public.

12. In all other combinations of two or more consonants between vowels, the first consonant is pronounced with the preceding vowel, and the others with the vowel following, as her-ba, herb; mōn-strō, show; ar-ma, arms.

13. Exceptions. Compound words are divided in accordance with their original elements, as ab-est, he is absent; trāns-eō, I pass across.

QUANTITY

14. The quantity of a syllable is the term used to denote the relative amount of time employed in pronouncing it. About twice as much time should be used in pronouncing a long syllable as a short one.

15. A syllable is said to be long by nature, when it contains a long vowel or a diphthong. It is said to be long by position when its vowel is followed by two or more consonants which are separated in pronunciation (10–12), or by either of the double consonants x or z (8), or by j, which was regularly doubled in pronunciation (6 b). H never helps to make a syllable long, and qu counts as a single consonant. Thus the first syllable of adhūc, thus far, and of aqua, water, is short.

16. Except under the metrical accent (394), a final syllable ending in a short vowel regularly remains short before a word beginning with two consonants or a double consonant.

17. If a consonant followed by l or r comes after a short vowel, the syllable containing the short vowel is said to be common, i.e., it may be either long or short, according to the pleasure of the one using it.

18. Note: This is due to the fact that the l and r blend so easily with the preceding consonant that the combination takes scarcely more time than a single consonant. When the l or r is separated in pronunciation from the preceding consonant, as may be done in all cases, more time is required in pronunciation and the preceding syllable is treated as long.

19. Observe that the vowel in a long syllable may be either long or short, and is to be pronounced accordingly. Thus in errō, wander; captō, seize; vertō, turn; nox, night; the first vowel in each case is short, and must be so pronounced, according to 4, but the syllable is long, and must occupy more time in pronunciation, according to 14, 15.

20. A vowel is regularly short before another vowel, or h, as aes-tu-ō, boil; de-us, god; tra-hō, draw.

a. This rule does not apply to Greek words in Latin, such as ā-ēr, air; I-xī-ōn, Ixion (a proper name).

21. A vowel is regularly short before nt or nd. Observe that the syllable in this case is long.

22. A vowel is regularly short before any final consonant except s.

a. Some monosyllables ending in l, r, n, and c, have a long vowel as sōl, sun; pār, equal; nōn, not; sīc, so.

23. A vowel is regularly long before ns, nf, nx, and nct.

24. Diphthongs and vowels derived from diphthongs or contracted from other vowels are regularly long.

ACCENT

25. Words of two syllables have the accent or stress on the first (penult), as a′-mō, love.

a. The last syllable of a word is called the ultima (ultimus, last); the next to the last syllable is called the penult (paene, almost; ultimus, last); and the syllable before the penult is called the antepenult (ante, before; paene, almost; ultimus, last).

26. Words of more than two syllables (polysyllabic words) have the accent on the penult when the penult is long, on the antepenult when the penult is short or common (17), as aes-tu-ā′-re, boil; a′-ni-mus, mind.

27. Enclitics. Certain words are not ordinarily written separately but are regularly appended to the word they introduce. The most common of these are -que, and; -ve, or; and -ne (sign of a question). They are called enclitics and, when appended to words accented on the antepenult, add an accent to the ultima, as fo′ribus′que, and from the doorway. When an enclitic is appended to a word of two syllables having a long ultima, the accent is shifted to the ultima; as amō′que, and I love; but be′llaque, and wars; i′taque, and so.

PRONUNCIATION OF LATIN WORDS IN ENGLISH

28. Latin words and phrases commonly used in English are to be pronounced according to the ordinary English system of pronunciation; for example, in alumnī, the final ī is to be pronounced as i in five, and the u as u in bum; and in the phrase via Chicago, v is to be pronounced as in vine, and i as in vine; in the phrase vōx populī, the voice of the people, v as in voice, ō as in ox, u as in due, ī as in die.

NUMBER

29. In Latin there are two numbers: the singular, denoting one; the plural, denoting more than one. For the poetic plural see 243.

CASES

30. In Latin there are seven cases:

1. The nominative is the case of the subject.
2. The genitive is usually equivalent to the English possessive or to the objective with the preposition of.
3. The dative is the case of the indirect object or of personal interest.
4. The accusative is usually the case of the direct object.
5. The vocative is the case of direct address.
6. The ablative is the case of adverbial relation.
7. The locative is the case of the place where.

DECLENSIONS

31. There are five declensions in Latin, which are characterized by the final letter of their respective stems (stem characteristic). For practical purposes and regularly in lexicons they are also distinguished by the ending of the genitive singular.

Declension	Stem Characteristic	Genitive Singular
I.	ā (a)	ae
II.	o	ī
III.	a consonant or i	is
IV.	u	ūs
V.	ē	eī

a. The first, second, and fifth declensions are called vowel declensions; the third and fourth, which really form but one, the consonant declension, i and u being considered semiconsonants.

32. The case endings in combination with the stem characteristics give rise to the following systems of terminations for the five declensions:

SINGULAR

	I.	II.	III.	IV.	V.
Nom.	a	us; wanting; um	s; wanting	us; ū	ēs
Gen.	ae	ī	is	ūs	eī, ē
Dat.	ae	ō	ī	uī; ū	eī, ē
Acc.	am	um	em, im	um, ū	em
Voc.	a	e; wanting; um	s; wanting	us, ū	ēs
Abl.	ā	ō	e, ī	ū	ē

PLURAL

	I.	II.	III.	IV.	V.
Nom. Voc.	ae	ī, a	ēs; a, ia	ūs, ua	ēs
Gen.	ārum	ōrum	um, ium	uum	ērum
Dat. Abl.	īs	īs	ibus	ubus, ibus	ēbus
Acc.	ās	ōs, a	ēs, īs; a, ia	ūs, ua	ēs

33. General Rules of Declension. a. The vocative is like the nominative, except in the singular of the second declension, when the nominative ends in us.

b. In the third, fourth, and fifth declensions the nominative, accusative, and vocative cases are alike in the plural.

c. Neuter substantives have the nominative, accusative, and vocative alike; in the plural these cases always end in a.

d. The dative and ablative plural are alike in all declensions.

First Declension

34. The stem ends in ā. The nominative-vocative singular is the simple stem with shortened stem vowel and no case ending.

Sg.	Nom.	terra, f., (a, the) land	Pl.	terrae,	(the) lands
	Gen.	terrae, of (a, the) land, (a, the) land's		terrārum,	of (the) lands, (the) lands'
	Dat.	terrae, to, for (a, the) land		terrīs,	to, for (the) lands
	Acc.	terram, (a, the) land		terrās,	(the) lands
	Voc.	terra, O land! land!		terrae,	O lands! lands!
	Abl.	terrā, from, with, by, in, on, at (a, the) land		terrīs,	from, with, by, in, on, at (the) lands

a. The locative singular of the first declension is like the genitive: Rōmae, at Rome; mīlitiae, abroad (i. e., engaged in warfare).

b. The genitive singular sometimes ends in āī in poetry; the genitive plural sometimes takes the form um instead of ārum.

c. The ending ābus is found (along with the regular ending) in the dative and ablative plural of dea, goddess, and fīlia, daughter.

35. Rule of Gender. Nouns of the first declension are feminine, except when they refer to males.

Second Declension

36. The stem ends in o, which in the classical period usually becomes u. In combination with the case endings it frequently disappears altogether. In the vocative singular (except in neuters) it becomes e.

a. The nominative ends in s (m., f.) and m (n.). But many masculine stems in which the original final vowel, o, was preceded by r have dropped the us of the nominative and the e of the vocative, and inserted e before the r, if it was preceded by a consonant; thus original pueros became puer, boy, and libros became liber, book.

b. The final o was often retained after u or v until the first century A.D.; as servos, slave.

37. Animus, spirit; puer, boy; vir, man; bellum, war, are declined as follows:

Sg.	Nom.	animus, m.	puer, m.	vir, m.	bellum, n.
	Gen.	animī	puerī	virī	bellī
	Dat.	animō	puerō	virō	bellō
	Acc.	animum	puerum	virum	bellum
	Voc.	anime	puer	vir	bellum
	Abl.	animō	puerō	virō	bellō
Pl.	Nom.	animī	puerī	virī	bella
	Gen.	animōrum	puerōrum	virōrum	bellōrum
	Dat.	animīs	puerīs	virīs	bellīs
	Acc.	animōs	puerōs	virōs	bella
	Voc.	animī	puerī	virī	bella
	Abl.	animīs	puerīs	virīs	bellīs

a. Words in ius (ium) have the genitive singular for the most part in ī until the first century A.D., without change of accent: ingenī (nom., ingenium), of genius; Vergi'lī, of Vergil.

b. Proper names in ius have the vocative in ī, without change of accent: Antō'nī, Tu'llī, Gā'ī, Vergi'lī. Fīlius, son, and genius, genius, form their vocative in like manner: fīlī, genī. In solemn discourse us of the nominative is employed also for the vocative. So regularly deus, O god!

c. The locative singular ends in ī like the genitive, as Rhodī, at Rhodes; Tarentī, at Tarentum.

d. In the genitive plural um instead of ōrum is often found.

e. The locative plural is identical with the ablative: Delphīs, at Delphi.

f. The declension of deus, m., god, is irregular:

Sg. Nom.	deus	Pl. dī, deī, diī
Gen.	deī	deōrum, deum
Dat.	deō	dīs, deīs, diīs
Acc.	deum	deōs
Voc.	deus	dī, deī, diī
Abl.	deō	dīs, deīs, diīs

38. Rule of Gender. Nouns of the second declension ending in us or r are masculine; in um neuter.

a. Exceptions. Feminine are: (1) cities and islands, as Corinthus, Samus; (2) most trees, as fāgus, beech; pirus, pear tree; (3) alvus, belly; colus, distaff; humus, ground; vannus, wheat fan; (4) many Greek nouns, as atomus, atom.

Neuters are: pelagus, sea; vīrus, venom; vulgus, the rabble.

Third Declension

39. The stem ends in a consonant or in the close vowels (or semivowels) i and ū. The stems are divided according to their last letter, called the stem characteristic:

I. Consonant Stems

1. Liquid stems, ending in l, m, n, r.
2. Sibilant stems, ending in s.
3. Mute stems { a. Ending in b, p. b. Ending in g, c. c. Ending in d, t.

II. i-Stems

40. 1. The nominative singular, masculine and feminine, case ending is s, which, however, is dropped after l, n, r, s, and combines with c or g to form x. In the other cases, the endings are added to the unchanged stem. The vocative of the third declension is always like the nominative.

2. Neuters always form the nominative without the addition of a case ending and the accusative and vocative cases in both numbers are like the nominative. The nominative plural ends in a.

I. Consonant Stems

41. 1. Liquid Stems in l

Form the nominative without the case ending s. These comprise:

a. Those in which the stem characteristic is preceded by a vowel; thus:

Sg.	Nom.	cōnsul, m., consul	Pl. cōnsulēs, consuls
	Gen.	cōnsulis	cōnsulum
	Dat.	cōnsulī	cōnsulibus
	Acc.	cōnsulem	cōnsulēs
	Voc.	cōnsul	cōnsulēs
	Abl.	cōnsule	cōnsulibus

b. Two neuter substantives with stems in ll, one of which is lost in the nominative: mel, mellis, honey; fel, fellis, gall.

42. Rules of Gender. Third declension nouns having their stems in l are regularly masculine; those having stems in ll are neuter.

43. 2. Liquid Stems in n

Most masculine and feminine stems form the nominative singular by dropping the stem characteristic and changing a preceding vowel to o. Some masculine and most neuter stems retain the stem characteristic in the nominative and change a preceding i to e.

		Masculine		Neuter
Sg.	Nom.	sermō, m., conversation	homō, m., man	nōmen, n., name
	Gen.	sermōnis	hominis	nōminis
	Dat.	sermōnī	hominī	nōminī
	Acc.	sermōnem	hominem	nōmen
	Voc.	sermō	homō	nōmen
	Abl.	sermōne	homine	nōmine
Pl.	Nom.	sermōnēs	hominēs	nōmina
	Gen.	sermōnum	hominum	nōminum
	Dat.	sermōnibus	hominibus	nōminibus
	Acc.	sermōnēs	hominēs	nōmina
	Voc.	sermōnēs	hominēs	nōmina
	Abl.	sermōnibus	hominibus	nōminibus

44. Rules of Gender. 1. Third declension nouns ending in ō are masculine, except those ending in dō, gō, and iō, which are mostly feminine.

2. Third declension nouns in en (men) are regularly neuter.

45. 3. Liquid Stems in r

Form nominative without s.

Sg.	Nom.	soror, f., sister	pater, m., father
	Gen.	sorōris	patris
	Dat.	sorōrī	patrī
	Acc.	sorōrem	patrem
	Voc.	soror	pater
	Abl.	sorōre	patre
Pl.	Nom.	sorōrēs	patrēs
	Gen.	sorōrum	patrum
	Dat.	sorōribus	patribus
	Acc.	sorōrēs	patrēs
	Voc.	sorōrēs	patrēs
	Abl.	sorōribus	patribus

a. Imber, shower; linter, skiff; ūter, bag; venter, belly, have the genitive plural in ium. Imber has also sometimes the ablative singular in ī.

46. Rules of Gender. 1. Third declension nouns in er and or are usually masculine. 2. Third declension nouns in ar and ur are neuter.

47. 4. Sibilant Stems

The nominative has no additional s, and in masculines changes e to i, and in neuters e or o to u before s.

In the oblique cases, the s of the stem usually passes over, between two vowels, into r.

Sg.	Nom. Acc. Voc.	genus, n., kind	corpus, n., body
	Gen.	generis	corporis
	Dat.	generī	corporī
	Abl.	genere	corpore
Pl.	Nom. Acc. Voc.	genera	corpora
	Gen.	generum	corporum
	Dat. Abl.	generibus	corporibus

48. Rules of Gender. 1. Masculine are third declension nouns in is (eris), and ōs (ōris).

2. Neuter are third declension nouns in us (eris, oris) and in ūs (ūris).

49. 5. Mute Stems

All masculines and feminines of mute stems have s in the nominative. Before s a p or b is retained, a c or g combines with it to form x, a t or d is dropped.

a. Most polysyllabic mute stems change their stem vowel i to e in the nominative.

50. Stems in p or b

Sg.	Nom.	princeps, m., leader	Pl. principēs
	Gen.	principis	principum
	Dat.	principī	principibus
	Acc.	principem	principēs

	Voc.	caput	capita
	Abl.	capite	capitibus

a. The following mute stems have certain irregular forms: cor (gen. cordis), heart; nox (gen. noctis), night; lac (gen. lactis), milk.

53. Monosyllabic mute stems, with the characteristic preceded by a consonant, have the genitive plural in ium: urbium, of cities; arcium, of citadels; montium, of mountains; noctium, of nights.

a. Monosyllabic mute stems, with characteristic preceded by a long vowel or diphthong, vary: dōtium, of dowries; lītium, of lawsuits; faucium, of throats; fraudum (ium), of frauds; laudum (ium), of praises; but vōcum, of voices.

b. Most monosyllabic stems, with characteristic preceded by a short vowel, have um: opum, of resources; but fac-ium, of torches; nuc-um (ium), of nuts; niv-ium (um), of snows.

c. Polysyllabic stems in nt and rt have more frequently ium, as clientium (um), of clients; cohortium (um), of companies.

d. Polysyllabic feminine stems in āt have either um or ium, as aetātum or aetātium, of ages; cīvitātum or cīvitātium, of states; the rest have usually um. Palūs, marsh, has usually palūdium.

54. Rule of Gender. Mute stems, with nominative in s, are usually feminine.

II. i-Stems

55. Masculines and feminines form their nominative in s.

a. Some feminines change the stem vowel i to ē in the nominative.

b. Neuters change the stem vowel i to e in the nominative. This e is generally dropped after l and r in polysyllabic neuters.

c. Stems in i have genitive plural in ium.

d. Neuter stems in i have the ablative singular in ī and nominative plural in ia.

a. The accusative singular ending im is found always in sitis, thirst; tussis, cough; vīs, strength; and in names of towns and rivers in is, as Neāpolis, Naples; Tiberis, Tiber; usually in febris, fever; puppis, stern of ship; restis, cable; secūris, ax; turris, tower; occasionally in clāvis, key; crātis, hurdle; cutis, skin; messis, harvest; nāvis, ship.

b. The ablative in ī is found in i-stem nouns that regularly have im in the accusative (except perhaps restis, rope, cable); also not infrequently in amnis, river; avis, bird; canālis, canal; cīvis, citizen; classis, fleet; fīnis, end; fūstis, club; ignis, fire; orbis, circle; unguis, claw; occasionally in anguis, snake; bīlis, bile; clāvis, key; collis, hill; corbis, basket; messis, harvest; regularly in neuters in e, al, and ar, except in rēte, net; and in the proper nouns Caere, Praeneste.

c. In the genitive plural instead of the ending ium, um is found always in canis, dog; juvenis, young man; pānis, bread; senex, old man; struēs, heap; volucris, bird; usually in apis, bee; sēdēs, seat; vātēs, bard; frequently in mēnsis, month.

d. The accusative plural ending īs is found frequently in the classical period along with ēs.

57. Rule of Gender. a. i-stems, with nominative in ēs, are feminine, unless they refer to males; those with nominative in is are partly masculine, partly feminine.

b. i-stems, with nominative in e, al, ar, are neuter.

c. The rest are feminine.

Fourth Declension

58. The fourth declension embraces only dissyllabic and polysyllabic stems in u.

a. The endings are the same as those of i-stems of the third declension.

b. In the genitive and ablative singular, and in the nominative, accusative, and vocative plural (sometimes, too, in the dative singular), the u of the stem absorbs the vowel of the ending, and becomes long.

c. In the dative and ablative plural u generally becomes i before the ending bus.

60. Domus, f., house, is declined: sg. gen. domūs; dat. domuī; acc. domum; voc. domus; abl. domō; loc. domī (domuī); pl. nom. domūs; gen. domōrum; dat.–abl. domibus; acc. domōs, domūs.

61. Rule of Gender. Fourth declension nouns in us are generally masculine; those in ū are neuter.

a. But feminine are acus, needle; domus, house; īdūs (pl.), the ides; manus, hand; penus, victuals; porticus, piazza; tribus, tribe.

Fifth Declension

62. The stem ends in ē; the nominative in ēs.

a In the genitive and dative singular the stem vowel e is shortened after a consonant.

b. The accusative singular always ends in em; 22.

c. The ending in the genitive singular is that of the second declension, ī; the other endings are those of the third declension.

63.

	Voc.	diēs	rēs
	Abl.	diēbus	rēbus

a. The genitive, dative, and ablative plural are rarely found except in diēs and rēs.

b. Many words of the fifth declension have a parallel form, which follows the first declension, as mollitiēs or mollitia, softness. Where this is the case, forms of the fifth declension are usually found only in the nominative, accusative, and ablative singular.

64. Rule of Gender. Fifth declension nouns are feminine except diēs which in the singular is either masculine or feminine, and in the plural masculine, and merīdiēs, midday, which is always masculine.

Declension of Greek Nouns

65. Greek nouns, especially proper names, are commonly Latinized and declined regularly according to their stem characteristic. Some Greek nouns, however, either retain their Greek form exclusively or have the Greek and Latin forms side by side. These variations occur principally in the singular.

a. In the plural the declension is usually regular, but the third declension often shows ĕs in the nominative and ăs in the accusative. In the genitive plural the endings ōn and eōn are found in the titles of books, as Georgicōn, of the Georgics; Metamorphōseōn, of the Metamorphoses.

ADJECTIVES

70. The Adjective adds a quality to its noun or pronoun. Adjectives have the same declension as nouns, and according to the stem characteristic are of the first and second or third declension.

Adjectives of the First and Second Declension

71. Stems end in o for masculine and neuter, ā for feminine; nominative in us (er), a, um. The same variations in termination occur as in nouns, except that adjectives in ius form the genitive and vocative singular regularly. See 37, a.

a. All participles ending in us, a, um, are inflected like bonus.

72. In poetry we find um alongside of ōrum and ārum in the genitive plural.

a. In the dative and ablative plural iīs from adjectives in ius is often contracted to īs especially in names of months and in adjectives formed from proper names.

73. The so-called Pronominal Adjectives show certain peculiarities in the genitive and dative singular. These adjectives are: alter, one of the two; alteruter (a combination of alter and uter), either of the two; alius, other; neuter, neither; nūllus, none; sōlus, sole; tōtus, whole; ūllus, any; ūnus, one; uter, which of the two.

Like uter is declined neuter; like ūllus are declined nūllus, sōlus, tōtus, ūnus. The plural is regular.

a. The genitive alīus is very rare, and its place is usually taken by alterīus or aliēnus.

b. The i of the ending īus (except in alīus) is often shortened in poetry. This is usually the case with alter, and regularly in the compounds of uter; as utriusque.

c. In the compound alteruter we usually find both parts declined; sometimes the second only.

d. Alius has its nominative and accusative singular neuter irregularly aliud.

Adjectives of the Third Declension

75. The declension of the adjectives of the third declension follows the rules given for nouns. Most adjectives of the third declension are vowel stems in i, with two (rarely three) endings in the nominative. The remaining adjectives of the third declension are consonant stems and have one ending only in the nominative.

Adjectives of Two or Three Endings

76. These have (except stems in ri) one ending in the nominative for masculine and feminine, one for neuter. Most stems in i form the masculine and feminine alike, with nominative in s; but the nominative neuter weakens the characteristic i into e. Compare mare, sea.

a. Several stems in i, preceded by r (cr, tr, br), form the nominative masculine, not by affixing s, but by dropping the i and inserting short e before the r, as, stem, ācri, sharp; nom., ācer (m.), ācris (f.), ācre (n.).

Adjectives of One Ending

78. Adjective stems of one ending (consonant stems) end with l, r, s; p, b; t, d; c, g.

79. Present active participles are also consonant stems and follow the same declension.

80. The consonant stem adjectives have the same forms in all the genders, except that in the accusative singular and in the nominative, accusative, and vocative plural, the neuter is distinguished from the masculine and feminine.

81. Consonant stem adjectives follow in part the declension of i-stem nouns; thus:

1. In the ablative singular they have ī or e; when used as nouns, commonly e.

a. The participles, as such, have e; but used as nouns or adjectives, either e or ī, with a tendency to ī.

2. In the neuter plural they have ia; except all comparatives (91), vetus, old, and ūber, fertile, which have vetera and ūbera. Many have no neuter.

3. In the genitive plural they have ium, when the stem characteristic is preceded by a long vowel or a consonant; um, when the characteristic is preceded by a short vowel. The participles regularly have ium.

a. In the poets, e is often found for ī in the ablative singular. Also in classical prose we find regularly paupere, poor; vetere, old; and frequently dīvite, rich; sapiente, wise.

b. In the nominative and accusative plural īs for ēs belongs to early Latin and the poets, but a few cases of this accusative are found in Cicero. In the case of participles īs is very common, and is the rule in Vergil and Horace.

c. In the genitive plural cicur, tame; vetus, old; dīves, rich, have um instead of ium; so also many compound adjectives.

d. In the poets and in later writers, um is not infrequently found where classical prose uses ium.

Comparison of Adjectives

83. The Degrees of Comparison are: positive, comparative, and superlative.

84. The Comparative is formed by adding to the consonant stems the endings ior for the masculine and feminine, and ius for the neuter.

85. The Superlative is formed by adding to the consonant stems the endings issimus, a, um (earlier issumus).

86. Vowel stems, before forming the comparative and superlative, drop their characteristic vowel.

87. Positive	Comparative	Superlative
altus, a, um, high	altior, ius, higher	altissimus, a, um, highest fortis, e, brave	fortior, ius, braver	fortissimus, bravest
fēlīx, happy	fēlīcior, ius, happier	fēlīcissimus, happiest recēns, recent	recentior, ius, more recent	recentissimus, most recent

88. Peculiarities of Comparison. Adjectives in er add the superlative ending rimus directly to the nominative masculine. The comparative has the regular formation. See 84.

89. Positive	Comparative	Superlative
miser, era, erum, wretched	miserior, miserius	miserrimus
celer, eris, ere, swift	celerior, celerius	celerrimus
ācer, ācris, ācre, sharp	ācrior, ācrius	ācerrimus

a. Six adjectives in ilis add limus (earlier lumus) to the stem, after dropping i, to form the superlative: facilis, easy; difficilis, hard; similis, like; dissimilis, unlike; gracilis, slender; and humilis, low.

Pos. facilis Comp. facilior, ius Sup. facillimus, a, um

90. Participles used as adjectives are subject also to the same laws of comparison: as amāns, loving; amantior, more loving; amantissimus, most loving; apertus, open; apertior, apertissimus.

91. The superlative follows the declension of adjectives of three endings of the first and second declensions; 71. The comparative is declined according to the third declension, thus:

		M., F.	N.		M., F.	N.
Sg.	Nom.	altior, higher	altius	Pl.	altiōrēs	altiōra
	Gen.	altiōris	altiōris		altiōrum	altiōrum
	Dat.	altiōrī	altiōrī		altiōribus	altiōribus
	Acc.	altiōrem	altius		altiōrēs (īs)	altiōra
	Voc.	altior	altius		altiōrēs	altiōra
	Abl.	altiōre (ī)	altiōre (ī)		altiōribus	altiōribus

92. Irregular Comparison. Certain adjectives are irregular in their comparison

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
bonus, good	melior, melius	optimus
malus, bad	pejor, pejus	pessimus
magnus, great	major, majus	maximus
parvus, small	minor, minus	minimus
multus, much	Sg. plūs (no dat. nor abl.)	plūrimus
	Pl. plūrēs, plūra complūrēs, complūra (ia) nequam, worthless	nequior, nequius	nequissimus
frūgī (indecl.), frugal	frūgālior	frūgālissimus

a. For the pronunciation of major and pejor = majjor, pejjor, see 6, b.

b. The older form of the superlative ended in umus.

ADVERBS

93. Most adverbs are either oblique cases or mutilated forms of oblique cases of adjectival, nominal or pronominal stems.

94. The cases from which they are derived are principally the accusative and the ablative.

Adverbs Formed from Adjectives

95. Many adverbs are formed from the ablative case of adjectives in us: tūtō, safely; prīmō, at first.

a. Many adverbs are formed from an old ablative form (ē) of adjectives in us and er: altē, loftily; pulchrē, beautifully.

b. Many adverbs are formed from accusative singular neuter adjectival and pronominal stems: multum, much; facile, easily. This is true of all comparatives: facilius, more easily. To the comparatives belong also magis, more; nimis, too.

c. Adverbs are regularly formed from adjectives and participles of the third declension by the addition of ter (iter) to the stem; stems in nt dropping the t, and stems in c or g inserting the connecting vowel i before the ending: fortiter, bravely; ferōciter, wildly; prūdenter, prudently.

Comparison of Adverbs

96. The comparative of the adverb is the accusative neuter of the comparative of the adjective. See 95, b. The superlative ends in issimē, errimē, illimē (earlier issumē, errumē, illumē), or irregularly, according to the superlative of the adjective. See 87, 88, 89, 92.

97.

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
altē, loftily	altius	altissimē
pulchrē, beautifully	pulchrius	pulcherrimē
miserē, poorly	miserius	miserrimē
fortiter, bravely	fortius	fortissimē
audācter, boldly	audācius	audācissimē
tūtō, safely	tūtius	tūtissimē

multum, much	plūs, more	plūrimum
citō, quickly	citius	citissimē
diū, long	diūtius	diūtissimē
saepe, often	saepius	saepissimē
nūper, recently	——	nūperrimē
satis, enough	satius, better

NUMERALS

Numeral Adjectives

98. The Cardinal Numerals, as ūnus, one; duo, two; decem, ten, answer the question quot, how many? and are the numbers used in counting.

a. The Ordinal Numerals, as prīmus (ūnus), first; secundus (alter), second; decimus, tenth, answer the question quotus, which one in the series?

99. The cardinal numerals are indeclinable, except: ūnus, one; duo, two; trēs, three; the hundreds beginning with ducentī, two hundred; and the plural mīlia, thousands, which forms mīlium and mīlibus.

	M.	F.	N.	M., F.	N.
Nom.	duo, two	duae	duo	trēs, three	tria

Abl.	duōbus	duābus	duōbus	tribus	tribus

a. For the declension of ūnus see 73–74.

100. The Distributive Numerals, as singulī, one each; bīnī, two each, dēnī, ten each, answer the question quotēnī, how many each?

101. Numeral Adverbs, as semel, once; bis, twice; ter, thrice, answer the question quotiēns, how often?

PRONOUNS

102. A Pronoun is a word that may be substituted for a noun. Latin pronouns may be divided into six classes: personal (including reflexive), demonstrative, intensive, relative, interrogative, and indefinite.

a. All but the personal pronouns may be used as pronominal adjectives.

b. The possessive adjectives are often classified as possessive pronouns.

A. Personal Pronouns

103. The Personal Pronoun of the First Person.

Sg.	Nom.	ego, I	Pl. nōs, we
	Gen.	meī, of me	nostrī, nostrum, of us
	Dat.	mihĭ (mī), to, for me	nōbīs, to, for us
	Acc.	mē, me	nōs, us
	Abl.	mē, from, with, by me	nōbīs, from, with, by us

a. Compare the corresponding possessive adjectives:

Sg. meus, a, um, (voc. m., mī), mine, my own — Pl. noster, nostra, nostrum, our(s), our own

b. The oblique cases of ego may also be used with reflexive force: meī, of myself, etc.

104. The Personal Pronoun of the Second Person.

Sg.	Nom. Voc.	tū, you	Pl. vōs, you
	Gen.	tuī, of you	vestrī, vestrum, of you
	Dat.	tibĭ, to, for you	vōbīs, to, for you
	Acc.	tē, you	vōs, you
	Abl.	tē, from, with, by you	vōbīs, from, with, by you

a. Compare the corresponding possessive adjectives:

Sg. tuus, a, um, your(s), your own — Pl. vester, vestra, vestrum, your(s), your own

b. The oblique cases of tū may also be used with reflexive force: tuī, of yourself, etc.

105. The Personal Pronouns of the Third Person.

a. Is, ea, id, he, she, it, 107, used also as a demonstrative, this, that, is the ordinary form of the third personal pronoun. It lacks the possessive adjective.

b. The original personal pronoun of the third person, together with its possessive, is used only as a reflexive in Latin, and therefore lacks a nominative. See 106.

106. The Personal (Reflexive) Pronoun of the Third Person.

Sg.	NOM.	——	Pl. ——
	GEN.	suī, of him(self), her(self), it(self)	suī, of them(selves)
	DAT.	sibĭ, to, for, him(self), her(self), it(self)	sibĭ, to, for them(selves)
	ACC.	sē, sēsē, him(self), her(self), it(self)	sē, sēsē, them(selves)
	ABL.	sē, sēsē, from, with, by him(self), her(self), it(self)	sē, sēsē, from, with, by them(selves)

a. Compare the corresponding possessive adjective, suus, a, um, his (own), her (own), its (own); their (own), theirs.

b. The enclitic –met is sometimes added to certain forms of the personal pronouns; as egomet, I myself.

c. The enclitic –pte is sometimes added to the ablative singular of the possessive adjective; as suōpte ingeniō, by his own genius.

107. B. DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS

1. is, this, that; he, she, it

		M.	F.	N.
Sg.	NOM.	is	ea	id
	GEN.	ejus	ejus	ejus
	DAT.	eī	eī	eī
	ACC.	eum	eam	id
	ABL.	eō	eā	eō
Pl.	NOM.	iī, eī, ī	eae	ea

	ACC.	eōs	eās	ea
	ABL.	iīs, eīs, īs	iīs, eīs, īs	iīs, eīs, īs

a. For the pronunciation of ejus (= ejjus) see 6, b.

b. This pronoun is often used as a third personal pronoun, he, she, it: 105, a.

2. īdem, (is + dem), the same

Sg.	M.	F.	N.
NOM.	īdem	eadem	idem
GEN.	ejusdem	ejusdem	ejusdem
DAT.	eīdem	eīdem	eīdem
ACC.	eundem	eandem	idem
ABL.	eōdem	eādem	eōdem
Pl.
NOM.	īdem, eīdem, iīdem	eaedem	eadem
GEN.	eōrundem	eārundem	eōrundem
DAT.	īsdem, eīsdem, iīsdem	īsdem, eīsdem, iīsdem	īsdem, eīsdem, iīsdem
ACC.	eōsdem	eāsdem	eadem
ABL.	īsdem, eīsdem, iīsdem	īsdem, eīsdem, iīsdem	īsdem, eīsdem, iīsdem

a. For the pronunciation of ejusdem = ejjusdem, see 6, b.

3. hic, this

		M.	F.	N.
Sg.	Nom.	hic	haec	hoc
	Gen.	hujus	hujus	hujus
	Dat.	huic	huic	huic
	Acc.	hunc	hanc	hoc
	Abl.	hōc	hāc	hōc
Pl.	Nom.	hī	hae	haec
	Gen.	hōrum	hārum	hōrum
	Dat.	hīs	hīs	hīs
	Acc.	hōs	hās	haec
	Abl.	hīs	hīs	hīs

a. For the pronunciation of hujus = hujjus, see 6, b.

b. The full forms with –ce are rare in classical Latin, except in the phrase hujusce modī, of this kind.

c. When followed by a word which begins with a vowel or h, the nominative singular of the masculine, hic, and the nominative and accusative singular of the neuter, hoc, are usually pronounced as though spelled hicc, hocc, making these syllables long by position; 15.

4. iste, that (of yours)

		M.	F.	N.
Sg.	Nom.	iste	ista	istud
	Gen.	istĭus	istĭus	istĭus
	Dat.	istī	istī	istī

109. D. THE RELATIVE PRONOUN

quī, who

		M.	F.	N.
Sg.	NOM.	quī	quae	quod
	GEN.	cujus	cujus	cujus
	DAT.	cui	cui	cui
	ACC.	quem	quam	quod
	ABL.	quō	quā	quō
Pl.	NOM.	quī	quae	quae
	GEN.	quōrum	quārum	quōrum
	DAT.	quibus	quibus	quibus
	ACC.	quōs	quās	quae
	ABL.	quibus	quibus	quibus

a. For the pronunciation of cujus = cujjus, see 6, b.

b. Quī may also be used as a relative adjective.

c. The dative-ablative plural quīs is common in the poets at all periods and occurs also occasionally in prose writers.

d. The ablative singular quī for all genders is the prevalent form in early times; and in combination with cum, as quīcum, with whom, is preferred to quō, quā, by Cicero.

110. General Relatives are:

PRONOUN	quisquis, whoever	quidquid, quicquid, whatever
ADJECTIVE	quiquī, quaequae, quodquod, whatsoever quīcumque, quaecumque, quodcumque, whichever

111. E. THE INTERROGATIVE PRONOUN

PRONOUN	quis? who?		quid? what?
ADJECTIVE	quī?	quae?	quod? which?

	Dat.	cui?	cui?
	Acc.	quem?	quid?
	Abl.	quō?	quō?

a. The plural of the interrogative pronoun and both numbers of the interrogative adjective coincide with the forms of the relative quī, quae, quod.

112. F. Strengthened Interrogatives

Pronoun	quisnam? who, pray?		quidnam? what, pray?
	ecquis? (is there) any one?		ecquid? (is there) anything?
Adjective	quīnam?	quaenam?	quodnam? which, pray?
	ecquī?	ecqua? (ecquae?)	ecquod? is there any?

113. G. The Indefinite Pronoun

aliquis	aliqua (rare)	aliquid, somebody, someone or other, anybody
quis	qua	quid, someone, anyone

a. The adjective forms are aliquī, aliqua, aliquod, some, any; quī, quae (qua), quod, some, any.

114. The declension of the pronominal adjectives has been given, 73–74. They are: ūllus, a, um, any; nūllus, a, um, no one, not one; alius, a, ud, another; alter, era, erum, the other, one (of two); neuter, tra, trum, neither of two; ambō, ae, ō, both. The corresponding substantives for nūllus and nūllum are nēmō and nihil, the latter of which forms only nihilī (gen.) and nihilō (abl.) and those only in certain combinations.

a. Some of the more important compounds of these adjectives are:

nōnnūllus, a, um, some, many a, declined like nūllus.
alteruter, alterutra, alterutrum, the one or the other of the two uterque, utraque, utrumque, each of two, either utervīs, utravīs, utrumvīs whichever you please of the two uterlibet, utralibet, utrumlibet, whichever you please of the two

THE VERB

115. The inflection given to the verbal stem is called conjugation and expresses:

1. Person: First, Second, Third.
2. Voice: Active, Passive, Middle.

a. The active voice denotes that the action proceeds from the subject: parō, I prepare. The passive voice denotes that the subject receives the action of the verb: paror, I am prepared. The middle voice has passive form and denotes the subject as acting either for itself or upon itself (reflexive) as: paror, I prepare (for) myself. This is chiefly a poetic usage.

3. Tense: Present, Imperfect, Future, Perfect, Pluperfect, Future Perfect.

4. Mood: Indicative, Subjunctive, Imperative.

a. The indicative is the mood of the fact: parō, I prepare. The subjunctive is the mood of the wish, command, or qualified statement: parem, may I prepare, I may prepare; paret, may he prepare, let him prepare; sī paret, if he should prepare. The imperative is the mood of command: parā, prepare!

CONJUGATION

116. The stem of a verb is variously modified, either by change of vowel or by addition of suffixes, and appears in the following forms:

1. The Present Stem: being the stem of the present, imperfect, and future tenses. These forms are called the present system.

2. The Perfect Stem: being the stem of the perfect, pluperfect, and future perfect tenses of the active. These forms are called the perfect system.

3. The Perfect Passive Participial Stem: which is used to form the perfect, pluperfect and future perfect tenses of the passive and also the future active and perfect passive participles, infinitives, and the supine. These forms are called the participial system.

117. 1. The perfect, pluperfect, and future perfect tenses in the passive voice are formed by the combination of the perfect passive participle with forms of the verb sum, be, exist.

2. The future passive infinitive is formed by the combination of the supine with the present passive infinitive of eō, go.

3. The infinite parts of the verb are formed by the addition of the following endings to the present, perfect, or participial stem:

		ACTIVE	PASSIVE
INFINITIVE	Pres.	re	rī, ī
	Perf.	isse	us (a, um) esse
	Fut.	ūrus (a, um) esse	um īrī

121. INFINITIVE

PRES. esse, to be PERF. fuisse, to have been
FUT. futūrus (a, um) esse, fore, to be about to be

122. PARTICIPLES

PRES. only in the compounds absēns, absent, praesēns, present (79)
FUT. futūrus, a, um, about to be (71, a)

123. COMPOUNDS OF sum

absum, be away, absent. PERF. (abfuī) āfuī, PRES. PART. absēns, absent.
adsum, be present. PERF. affuī (adfuī) dēsum, be wanting praesum, be over, superintend. PRES. PART. praesēns, present prōsum, be for, profit subsum, be under. No PERF.

supersum, be or remain, over.

These are all inflected like sum, but prōsum and possum require special treatment by reason of their composition.

124. Prōsum, profit

In the forms of prōsum, prōd- is used before vowels, thus:

	INDICATIVE	SUBJUNCTIVE

125. Possum, be able, can

Possum is compounded of pot (potis, pote) and sum; t becomes s before s. The perfect forms and the present participle are from an old form poteō, potēre.

REGULAR VERBS

Systems of Conjugation

126. 1. There are two systems of conjugation, the vowel and the consonant. The consonant system is confined to a small class. The vowel system comprises four conjugations, distinguished by the vowel characteristics of the present stem, ā, ē, e, ī, which may be found by dropping re from the present infinitive active. The consonant preceding the short vowel stem characteristic is called the consonant stem characteristic.

2. From the present stem, as seen in the present indicative and present infinitive active; from the perfect stem, as seen in the perfect indicative active; and from the perfect passive participial stem, can be derived all forms of the verb. These forms are accordingly called the principal parts; and in the regular verbs appear in the four conjugations as follows:

	Pres. Ind.	Pres. Inf.	Perf. Ind.	Perf. Part.
I.	parō	parāre	parāvī	parātus, prepare
II.	habeō	habēre	habuī	habitus, have
III.	dīcō	dīcere	dīxī	dictus, say
	capiō	capere	cēpī	captus, take
IV.	audiō	audīre	audīvī	audītus, hear

Formation of the Tenses

127. The tenses are formed by the addition of the personal endings to the various stems, either directly or by means of certain tense signs, as shown in the paradigms.

128. While no practical rules for the formation of the tenses can be given, it is well to observe that:

1. The second person singular imperative active is the same as the present stem.

2. The imperfect subjunctive may be formed from the present infinitive active by adding m, etc. for active and r, etc. for passive.

3. The second person singular imperative passive and second person singular present passive in re are the same as the present infinitive active. Hence ris is preferred in the present indicative passive in order to avoid confusion.

4. The present subjunctive active and future indicative active in the third and fourth conjugations are alike in the first person singular.

5. The future perfect indicative active and the perfect subjunctive active differ only in the first person singular, except for the quantity of the i.

6. Euphonic changes sometimes occur in the consonant stem characteristic in the perfect and participial stem. Characteristic b before s and t becomes p; g and qu before t become c; c, g, qu, with s, become x; t and d before s are assimilated, and then sometimes dropped; thus: scrībō, scrīpsī (scrībsī), scrīptus; legō, lēctus (lēgtus); coquō, coctus (coqtus); dīcō, dīxī (dīcsī); jungō, jūnxī (jūngsī); coquō, coxī (coqsī); edō, ēsus (edsus); cēdō, cessī (cedsī); mittō, mīsī (mitsī), missus (mitsus).

DEPONENT VERBS

182. Deponent verbs have the passive form, but are active in meaning. They have also the present and future active participles, and the future active infinitive. Thus a deponent verb alone can have a present, future, and perfect participle, all with active meaning. The gerundive, however, is passive in meaning as well as in form.

The conjugation differs in no particular from that of the regular conjugation.

Periphrastic Conjugation

199. The periphrastic conjugation arises from the combination of the future participle active and passive (the gerundive) with forms of the verb sum.

a. The active periphrastic denotes something about to take place.

b. The passive periphrastic denotes necessity or duty.

200. ACTIVE

	INDICATIVE	SUBJUNCTIVE
Pres.	parātūrus (a, um) sum, am about to prepare	parātūrus (a, um) sim

INFINITIVE

Pres. parandus (a, um) esse, to have to be prepared
Perf. parandus fuisse, to have had to be prepared

202. Irregular Imperatives: Four verbs, dīcō, say, dūcō, lead, faciō, do, make, ferō, bear, form the present imperative active dīc, dūc, fac, fer. But in early Latin dīce, dūce, face are common. The compounds follow the usage of the simple verbs, except prepositional compounds of faciō. Sciō, know, lacks the present imperative scī.

203. Gerunds and Gerundives. The older ending of the gerund and gerundive in the third and fourth conjugations was undus; and endus was found only after u. In classical times undus is frequent, especially in verbs of the third and fourth conjugations; later, endus is the regular form.

204. 1. Syncopated and Shorter Forms. The perfects in āvī, ēvī, īvī often drop the v before s or r and contract the vowels throughout, except those in īvī, which admit the contraction only before s. These forms are called syncopated. They are found in all periods, and in the poets are used to suit the meter.

2. In the first and third persons singular and in the first person plural of the perfect, syncope occurs regularly only in perfects in īvī, and there is no contraction. It is most common in the perfects of eō, go, and petō, seek. The unsyncopated forms are always common except those of eō, which are very rare in good prose, but occur more often in the poets for metrical reasons.

3. nōvī, I know, and mōvī, I have moved, are also contracted, especially in their compounds.

Sg. 2. nōstī. Pl. 2. nōstis. 3. nōrunt. Subj. nōrim, etc. Pluperf. nōram, etc. Subj. nōssem, etc. Inf. nōsse.

But the future perfect nōrō is found only in compounds.

a. Similar contractions are seen in mōvī, but not so often.

4. The shorter form of the ending of the perfect active indicative third plural, ēre instead of ērunt, and of the second singular, re instead of ris, is often found. Thus amāvēre = amāvērunt, they have loved, and amābāre = amābāris, you were loved.

Semideponents

205. 1. A few verbs form the perfect forms only as deponents:

audeō, audēre, ausus sum, dare fīdō, fīdere, fīsus sum, trust gaudeō, gaudēre, gāvīsus sum, rejoice soleō, solēre, solitus sum, be accustomed

IRREGULAR VERBS

206. Irregular in the conjugation of the present stem are:

1. orior, orīrī, ortus, arise

The present indicative is usually formed according to the third conjugation; the imperfect subjunctive is always orerer; but the future participle is oritūrus. The compounds follow the same usage except adorīrī, rise up at, attack, which follows the fourth conjugation.

2. eō, go.

The stem is ī, which, before a, o, u, becomes e.

Principal Parts: eō, īre, īvī (iī), itus

eundī, etc.	itum, to go

a. Like the simple verb are inflected most of the compounds, exce in the perfect system, where ii is the regular form. Vēneō, be for sale, a pereō, perish, serve as passives to vendō, sell, and perdō, destroy. Ambi solicit, follows the fourth conjugation throughout.

b. The passive of the simple verb eō is found only in the imperson forms ītur, ībātur, itum est, īrī (in combination with the supine). B compounds with transitive force are conjugated regularly: so, praetere forms praetereor, īris, ītur, īmur, īminī, euntur, ībar, etc.; itus sum, eran erō, euntor, ītor, īrī, eundus.

3. ferō, bear.

The endings beginning with t, s, and r are added directly to the roo fer.

a. Some forms of ferō are lacking and are supplied by tul and (t)lā.

4. fīō, become

227. Fīō is conjugated in the present, imperfect, and future, according to the fourth conjugation, but in the subjunctive imperfect and in the infinitive the stem is increased by e; thus, fierem, fierī, to become. In these forms the i is short, but elsewhere it is long except before final t.

The infinitive ends in rī, and the whole verb in the present system is treated as the passive of faciō, do, make (161–171). The rest of the verb is formed as a regular passive of faciō.

229. When compounded with prepositions, faciō changes the a of the stem into i, and forms the passive in classical Latin regularly from the same stem: perficiō, achieve; passive, perficior; interficiō, destroy; passive, interficior. When compounded with words other than prepositions, faciō retains its a, and uses fīō as its passive: patefaciō, lay open; passive, patefīō; calefaciō, warm; passive, calefīō.

PRINCIPAL RULES OF SYNTAX

AGREEMENT

236: A verb agrees with its subject in number and person, as ego vocō, I call; tū vocās, you call.

a. A collective noun may take its predicate in the plural, as pars veniunt, part come.

b. The nearer subject is preferred to the more remote, as mīlitēs et dux vēnit, the leader and his troops came.

c. The copula may agree in number with the predicate noun, as amantium īrae amōris integrātiō est, lovers' quarrels are love's renewal. Compare "the wages of sin is death."

237. The adjective agrees with its noun in gender, number, and case, as tālis vir, such a man; tālēs virī, such men; tālia dōna, such gifts.

238. The common attribute of two or more substantives generally agrees with the nearest, rather than with the most important, as cūncta maria terraeque patēbant, all seas and lands lay open.

239. The common predicate attribute of two or more subjects is usually in the plural, as pater et māter mortuī sunt, father and mother are dead; but may agree with the nearest or most important, as Caesar mortuus est et Jūlia, Caesar is dead, and Julia also.

a. When the persons of the subjects are different, the predicate takes the first in preference to the second; the second in preference to the third.

b. When the genders of the subjects are different, the predicate attribute takes the nearest gender or the strongest (the masculine being the strongest of things with life, the neuter of those without), as pater et māter mortuī sunt, father and mother are dead; mūrus et porta dē caelō tācta erant, wall and gate had been struck by lightning.

240. The predicate substantive agrees with its subject in case, as ille vir erat dux, that man was leader.

a. The pronoun used as subject is commonly attracted into the gender of the predicate as negat Epicūrus; hoc enim vestrum lūmen est, Epicurus says No; for he is your great light!

241. The appositive agrees with its subject in case; if possible, also in number and person, as Aenēās, pius dux, Aeneas, the devoted leader; Aenēās et Dīdō, superbī ducēs, Aeneas and Dido, proud leaders.

242. The relative pronoun agrees with its antecedent in gender, number, and person, as vir quī adest, the man who is present; dōna quae adsunt, the gifts which are here; ego quī hoc dīcō, I who say this.

a. Occasionally the antecedent is attracted into the case of the relative, as urbem quam statuō vestra est, the city which I am founding is yours.

243. Poetic Plural. The plural is often used instead of the singular, especially in poetry, to generalize a statement, for metrical reasons, or for rhetorical effect, as īrae, wrath, wrathful passions; fortitūdinēs, gallant actions; ōra, face, features; scēptra, scepter; silentia, silence.

a. Plural of Modesty. The plural of the first person is sometimes used instead of the singular, as dīximus multa, we (I) have spoken much. Similarly nōs in all its cases for ego, etc., and noster in all its forms for meus, etc. This usage in English is sometimes called the "editorial we."

244. Disproportion is indicated by the comparative with quam prō, than for; quam ut, than that; quam quī, than who; as minor caedēs quam prō tantā victōriā fuit, the loss was (too) small for so great a victory; major sum quam cui fortūna nocēre possit, I am too great for fortune possibly to hurt me.

245. In comparing two qualities, use either magis quam with the positive, as dīsertus magis est quam sapiēns, he is eloquent rather than wise (more eloquent than wise); or a double comparative, acūtiōrem sē quam ornātiōrem vult, he wishes to be acute rather than ornate.

246. Superlatives denoting order and sequence are often used partitively and then usually precede their substantives, as summa aqua, the surface (of the) water; summus mōns, the top (of the) mountain; prīmō vēre, in the beginning (of) spring. Similarly in mediā urbe, in the midst of the city; reliqua, cētera Graecia, the rest of Greece, and the like.

PRONOUNS

247. Since the form of the verb indicates its person, the nominative of the personal pronouns is used only for emphasis or contrast, as ego rēgēs ējēcī, vōs tyrannōs intrōdūxistis, I drove out kings; you bring in tyrants.

a. The forms meī, tuī, nostrī, vestrī are used as objective genitives; nostrum and vestrum as partitive genitives (284, 286).

248. The reflexive is used regularly when reference is made to the grammatical subject, as ipse sē quisque dīligit, quod sibi quisque cārus est, every one loves himself, because every one is dear to himself.

a. The reflexive is sometimes used when reference is made to the logical subject, as ferunt sua flāmina classem, their own (favorable) breezes waft the fleet.

b. The reflexive is used of the principal subject when reference is made to the thought or will of that subject, especially in indirect discourse or in substantive volitive clauses (clauses of desire), as sentit animus sē vī suā movērī, the mind feels that it moves by its own force; ā mē petīvit ut sēcum essem, he asked me to be with him; librōs quōs frāter suus relīquisset mihi dōnāvit, he gave me the books (as he said) that his brother had left.

249. The possessive adjective is used instead of the genitive of the first and second person pronouns, as socius meus, a comrade of mine; tēlum tuum, a weapon of yours; amor meus, my love (which I feel); spēs tua, your hope (which you have).

a. The appositive to a possessive adjective is in the genitive, as urbs meā ūnīus operā fuit salva, the city was saved by my exertions alone.

ADJECTIVES FOR ADVERBS

250. With words of inclination and disinclination, knowledge and ignorance, order and position, time and season, the adjective is commonly employed for the adverb, as id faciō volēns, I do this willing(ly).

SPECIAL USE OF MOODS

251. The Indicative, not the subjunctive, is commonly used to express possibility, power, obligation, and necessity, as possum persequī permulta oblēctāmenta rērum rūsticārum, I might rehearse very many delights of country life; ad mortem tē dūcī oportēbat, you ought to have been led to execution.

252. The Potential Subjunctive. The present or perfect subjunctive may be used to express possibility in the present or future, as tē superesse velim, I should like for you to survive; Platōnem nōn nimis valdē laudāverīs, you can't praise Plato too much; the imperfect subjunctive to express possibility in the past, crēderēs victōs, you would (might) have thought them beaten.

253. The Optative Subjunctive. The subjunctive, sometimes with utinam, would that, is often used in expressions of wishing. The negative is nē. Valeās, farewell! nē veniant, may they not come! utinam nē nātus essem, would that I had not been born! utinam vīveret frāter, would that my brother were alive!

254. The Volitive Subjunctive. The subjunctive may be used in expressions of will, asseveration, command, or concession, as stet haec urbs, may this city continue to stand; moriar sī magis gaudērem, may I die if I could be more glad; amēmus patriam, let us love our country; sit deus, granted that he is a god. This subjunctive is often called jussive, hortatory, or concessive, according as it expresses a command, an exhortation, or a concession, respectively.

255. The present imperative looks forward to immediate, the future imperative to contingent, fulfilment, as haec dīcite vestrō rēgī, tell this to your king; cōnsulēs nēminī pārentō, the consuls shall obey no one.

256. The negative of the imperative is regularly nōlī with the infinitive; as nōlī fugere, don't flee! sometimes nē or cavē (nē) with the present or perfect subjunctive is also used, as cavē (nē) faciās, don't do it! nē mortem timeās (or timuerītis), don't fear death!

a. In poetry nē is often found with the imperative, as nē timē, fear not! nē fuge, don't run!

INFINITIVES

257. The Historical Infinitive. The present infinitive, with the subject in the nominative, is sometimes used to give a rapid sequence of events, as hinc Ulixēs terrēre, henceforth Ulysses began to frighten (me). This is called the historical infinitive.

258. The Infinitive as Neuter Subject. The infinitive with or without a subject may be treated as a neuter subject, object, or predicate, as dulce et decōrum est prō patriā morī, it is sweet and glorious to die for one's fatherland; turpe est vincī, it is shameful to be conquered; scit vincere, he knows (how) to conquer; vīvere est cōgitāre, to live is to think, living is thinking.

259. The Complementary Infinitive. The infinitive is used with verbs of will, desire, power, duty, habit, inclination, resolve, continuance, purpose, etc., as cupit morī, he wishes to die; dēbet haec vulnera patī, he ought to suffer these wounds. This is called the complementary infinitive.

260. The Infinitive as Object. The accusative with infinitive is used as the object of verbs of emotion, will, and desire; as tē vēnisse gaudeō, I rejoice that you have come; mē dīcere vult, he wishes me to speak.

261. The Infinitive of Purpose. In poetry the infinitive is often used to express purpose, as nōn populāre vēnimus, we have not come to pillage.

262. The Infinitive of Exclamation. The infinitive with accusative subject is used in exclamation or exclamatory questions, as mē dēsistere, what! I desist?

263. The Infinitive of Indirect Statement (Indirect Discourse). The infinitive is used after verbs of saying, showing, believing, and perceiving, to express an indirect statement; the present infinitive expresses action contemporary with that of the governing verb, the perfect infinitive action prior to it, the future infinitive action future to it, as dīcit tē errāre, he says that you are wrong; dīcēbat tē errāre, he was saying that you were wrong: dīcēbat tē errāsse, he was saying that you had been wrong.

a. The future infinitive of sum followed by ut and the subjunctive is used in indirect statement of future action when the verb has no future participle, as dīcit fore (futūrum esse) ut metuās, he says that you will fear.

264. The Infinitive with Nouns. The poets and later prose writers use the infinitive with nouns denoting attention or opportunity, as amor cāsūs cognōscere nostrōs, desire to know our misfortunes; adfectāre potestās, opportunity to seize.

265. The Infinitive with Adjectives. The infinitive is used with many adjectives and with participles of adjectival force, as nescia vincī pectora, hearts not knowing (how) to yield; certa morī, determined to die.

GERUNDS AND GERUNDIVES

266. The genitive of the gerund or gerundive is used chiefly after substantives and adjectives that require a complement, as sapientia ars vīvendī putanda est, philosophy is to be considered the art of living; nūlla spēs plācandī deī, no hope of appeasing god; cupidus maledīcendī, eager to abuse.

267. The dative of the gerund or gerundive is used mainly in post-classical Latin after words of fitness and function; also after words of capacity and adaptation, and to express purpose, as tēla apta mittendō, weapons suitable for hurling; comitia cōnsulibus creandīs, elections for nominating consuls.

268. The accusative of the gerund or gerundive is used with ad to express purpose, as ad bellandum venimus, we come to make war.

a. The accusative of the gerundive is used in agreement with the direct object of verbs of giving, sending, and leaving, etc., to indicate purpose, as id mihi servandum dedit, he gave it to me to keep; Conōn mūrōs reficiendōs cūrat, Conon has the walls rebuilt; patriam dīripiendam relīquimus, we have left our country to be plundered.

269. The ablative of the gerund or gerundive is used to denote means and cause, rarely manner, as ūnus homō nōbīs cūnctandō restituit rem, one man by delaying raised our cause again.

SUPINES

270. The supine in um (accusative) is used chiefly after verbs of motion to express purpose, as veniunt spectātum, they come to see.

271. The supine in ū (ablative) is used chiefly with adjectives to indicate respect, as mīrābile dictū, wonderful to relate (in the relating); mīrābile vīsū, wonderful to see (in the seeing).

PARTICIPLES

272. The Present Participle denotes continuance; the perfect participle denotes completion at the time of the principal verb.

273. The participle is used after verbs of perception and representation to express the actual condition of the object at the time, as Catōnem vīdī in bibliothēcā sedentem multīs circumfūsum librīs, I saw Cato sitting in the library with an ocean of books about him; illam audīvī fūrtīvā vōce loquentem, I heard her talking in a stealthy tone.

274. The Future Participle is used in poetry and occasionally in prose to express desire or purpose, as fabricāta est māchina īnspectūra domōs ventūraque dēsuper urbī, it has been built as an engine of war, to spy into our homes and come down upon the city from above.

275. The Perfect Participle passive is used after verbs of causation and desire, to denote that entire fulfilment is demanded or desired, as sī quī voluptātibus dūcuntur, missōs faciant honōrēs, if any are led captive by sensual pleasures, let them give up honors (at once and forever).

CASES

Nominative

276. The subject of a finite verb is in the nominative, as urbs stat, the city is standing.

277. The subject of a historical infinitive is in the nominative, as Ulixēs terrēre, Ulysses began to terrorize (me).

278. The predicate of a finite form of the verb to be, sum, or of a verb of seeming or becoming, or of the passive of a verb of making, choosing, showing, thinking, or calling, is in the nominative, as pater est rēx, his father is king; pater fit rēx, his father becomes king; pater vocātur rēx, his father is called king.

279. When an active verb of saying, showing, believing, or perceiving, is changed to the passive, the accusative subject of the infinitive may become the nominative subject of the leading verb, as urbs dīcitur magna fuisse, the city is said to have been great. Compare dīcunt urbem fuisse magnam, they say that the city was great.

Genitive

280. Genitive of Material. The genitive may be used to denote the material or substance of which a thing consists, as flūmina lactis, rivers of milk. See 324 for the ablative of material.

281. The Appositional Genitive is used with vōx, nōmen, verbum, rēs, urbs, etc., as nōmen amīcitiae, the name of friendship; urbem Patavī, the city of Patavium.

282. The Epexegetical Genitive (or genitive of explanation) is used after genus, vitium, culpa, etc., as virtūtēs continentiae, gravitātis, jūstitiae, fideī, the virtues of self-control, earnestness, justice, honor.

283. The Possessive Genitive is used to denote possession, as domus rēgis, the palace of the king, the king's palace.

284. The Subjective Genitive is used of the subject of the action indicated by the substantive; the Objective Genitive, of the object of that action, as metus hostium, the fear of the enemy, which may mean: (1) the fear which the enemy feel (subjective genitive) or (2) the fear felt toward the enemy (objective genitive). The objective genitive is used with nouns, adjectives, and participles used as adjectives, as cupīdō glōriae, desire for glory; tempestātum potentem, ruling the storms; memorem vestrī, oblītum suī, mindful of you, forgetful of himself.

285. Genitive of Quality. The genitive with an adjective may be used to describe a person or thing, as homō maximī corporis, a man of gigantic size. This is called the genitive of quality (characteristic, description). Compare the ablative of quality or characteristic (330).

a. The genitive of quality (or description) or the possessive genitive may be used as a predicate, as id virtūtis est, that is a mark of virtue; hujus erō vīvus, mortuus hujus erō, hers I shall be living; dead, hers shall I be; haec domus est patris meī, this house is my father's.

286. The Partitive Genitive stands for the whole to which a part belongs, as pars hominum, part of the men; maximus omnium, greatest of all. This is sometimes called the genitive of the whole.

287. Genitive with Special Adjectives and Verbs. Adjectives and verbs of fullness and want, of knowledge and ignorance, of desire and disgust, of participation and power, may take the genitive. Also some present participles used as adjectives, and in later Latin some verbals in āx, as plēnus labōris, full of toil; egēnus omnium, in need of everything; cōnscius rēctī, conscious of right; ignārus malī, ignorant of misfortune; cupidus aurī, desirous of gold; dīligēns vērī, careful (a lover of) the truth; capāx imperī, capable of empire; implentur veteris Bacchī, they fill themselves with old wine.

288. Genitive with Verbs. Verbs of reminding, remembering, and forgetting usually take the genitive, as meminit malōrum, oblītus est bonōrum, he remembers the evil, forgets the good.

a. Sometimes these verbs take the accusative, especially of things, as haec ōlim meminisse juvābit, to remember these things will one day be a pleasure.

289. Verbs of Emotion take the genitive, as miserēre animī nōn digna ferentis, pity a soul enduring what it does not deserve.

290. Impersonal verbs of emotion take the accusative of the person who feels, and the genitive of the exciting cause, as tuī mē miseret, meī piget, I pity you, I loathe myself.

291. Verbs of accusing, convicting, condemning, and acquitting take the genitive of the charge, as accūsātus est prōditiōnis, he was accused of treason; damnātus est caedis, he was convicted of murder; absolūtus est crīminis, he was acquitted of the charge.

292. Genitive of Value. Verbs of rating and buying take the genitive of the general value, as parvī exīstimāre, to consider of small account; ēmit equōs tantī quantī Caesar voluit, he bought the horses at the price Caesar wanted.

293. Interest and rēfert take the genitive of the person, rarely of the thing concerned, as interest omnium rēctē facere, it is to the interest of all to do right; rēfert omnium, it concerns everybody.

a. Sometimes the ablative singular feminine of the possessive adjective is used, as meā interest, meā rēfert, I am concerned.

294. Genitive of Respect. The genitive is used with various adjectives to denote the respect to which a thing is true, as aeger animī, sick at heart. This is sometimes called the genitive of specification.

Dative

295. The Indirect Object is put in the dative, as aurum hominī dat, he gives gold to the man.

296. Some verbs of giving take either the dative and the accusative, or the accusative and the ablative, as hominī aurum dōnat, he presents the gold to the man; hominem aurō dōnat, he presents the man with gold.

297. Dative with Special Verbs. Many verbs meaning favor, help, trust, bid and forbid, believe, persuade, obey, serve, threaten, pardon, spare, join, and contend, take the dative, as invideō nēminī, I envy no one; cēdit fortūnae, he yields to fortune; id mihi placet, that pleases me; pārēmus ducī, we obey our leader; crēdit hominī, he trusts the man.

298. Dative with Compounds. Many intransitive verbs compounded with ad, ante, con, in, inter, ob, post, prae, sub, and super, may take a dative, as accēdō equō, I approach the horse; antecellit omnibus, he excels all; nox incubat marī, night broods over the sea; piger ipse sibi obstat, the lazy man stands in his own way.

a. Transitive verbs so compounded also take an accusative, as mē vestrīs ōrīs deus appulit, god drove me to your shores.

299. Dative of Possession. The dative is used with esse to denote possession, as est ager nōbīs, we have a field.

300. The Ethical Dative is used of the personal pronouns only, as ecce tibi homō, here's your man! tibi bellum geret, he shall wage war (for you, let me tell you).

301. The Dative of Reference is used of the person interested or concerned in the action or of the person to whom a statement is referred, as deō altāria fūmant, the altars smoke in honor of the god; pulchra est multīs, she is beautiful to many (in the eyes of many); est urbe ēgressīs tumulus, as you go out of town (to those who have gone out of town) there is a mound. This is also called the dative of interest, and at times is called the dative of advantage and of disadvantage.

302. The Dative of Agent is used with a passive verb, especially with the gerundive, as id faciendum mihi, this must be done by me, I must do this; vetor fātīs, I am forbidden by the fates; urbs capta est mihi, the city was captured by me.

303. Dative of Purpose. The dative may denote the object for which (purpose), as pars optāre locum tēctō, part were choosing a site for a home.

a. The Dative of Purpose is often used in combination with the dative of reference (301), as auxiliō iīs fuit, he was a help to them; id erit cūrae mihi, that shall be my care.

304. Dative with Adjectives. Adjectives of friendliness, fullness, likeness, nearness, with their opposites, take the dative, as similis est hominī, he is like a man; homō amīcus est mihi, the man is friendly to me; id erit ūtile omnibus, this will be useful to all; proximus sum egomet mihi, myself am nearest to me.

305. Dative of Separation. Many verbs of warding off, robbing, and ridding, depriving, and separation take a dative, especially in poetry, as ēripiēs mihi hunc errōrem, you will rid me of this mistake; silicī scintillam excūdit, he strikes a spark from the flint. This is called the dative of separation.

306. Dative of Direction. In poetry the place to which, or limit of motion, is often expressed by the dative, as it clāmor caelō, a shout goes to heaven; multōs dēmittimus Orcō, we send many to Hades.

Accusative

307. The Direct Object of active transitive verbs is in the accusative case and may denote either the object effected or the object affected, as bellum gerunt, they wage war (object effected or result produced); condidit urbem, he founds the city (object effected); capit urbem, he captures the city (object affected); rēx dūcit hominēs, the king leads the men (object affected).

308. Accusative with Compounds. Many intransitive verbs, mostly those of motion, compounded with ad, ante, circum, con, in, inter, ob, per, praeter, sub, subter, super, and trāns, take the accusative, as adit urbem, he approaches the city; poenam subit, he submits to punishment.

a. Transitive verbs thus compounded may have two accusatives, as exercitum flūmen trājēcit, he threw his army across the river.

309. In poetry the passive is often used in a reflexive or middle sense, as fertur in hostīs, he charges upon the enemy.

a. When thus used the verb may take an accusative as a direct object, as ferrum cingitur, he girds on (girds himself with) the steel; sinūs collēcta, having gathered her robes; tūnsae pectora, beating their breasts; īnsternor umerōs, I spread over my shoulders.

310. The accusative and ablative of certain adjectives are used adverbially, as multum jactātus, much tossed; prīmō, at first. See 93–94.

311. Accusative of Respect. In poetry the accusative is often used with an adjective or verb to denote the part concerned, as nūda genū, with knee bare (bare as to her knee); ōs umerōsque deō similis, like a god in (as to) face and shoulders. This is called the accusative of respect or specification.

312. Accusative with Prepositions. The accusative is used with many prepositions, the most important being ante, apud, ad, adversum circum, cis, ob, trāns, secundum penes, pōne, prope, per, post, and all in –ā, and –ter.[1]

313. Cognate Accusative. Intransitive verbs may take an accusative of similar form or meaning, as dum vītam vīvās, as long as you live; somnium somniāvī, I dreamed a dream. This is called a cognate accusative.

314. Accusative of Extent. The accusative may express extent in space, time, or degree, as tumulum centum pedēs altum, a mound one hundred feet high; fuit rēx decem annōs, he was king ten years; sī mē amās tantum quantum tē amō, if you love me as I love you. This is called the accusative of extent. With expressions of time this is often called the accusative of duration of time.

315. Place Whither (place to which) is regularly denoted by the accusative with the preposition ad or in, as vēnit ad Italiam, he came to Italy. This is sometimes called the accusative of limit of motion.

a. The names of towns, small islands, domus, and rūs, do not ordinarily take the preposition, as vēnit Rōmam, he came to Rome; pater, venī domum, father, come home! fugiunt rūs, they flee to the country.

b. In poetry also the preposition is often omitted, as Ītaliam Lāvīnaque vēnit lītora, he came to Italy and the Lavinian shores.

316. Two Accusatives. Verbs meaning to inquire, require, teach, and conceal take two accusatives, one of the person, one of the thing, as quis tē illud docuit, who taught you that? Mīlēsiōs nāvem poposcit, he demanded a ship of the Milesians; quid mē istud rogās, why do you ask me that?

a. Verbs of naming, making, taking, choosing, and showing, take two accusatives of the same person or thing, as vocant urbem Rōmam, they call the city Rome; illum rēgem faciunt, they make him king.

317. The Subject of the Infinitive is regularly in the accusative, as vult mē dīcere, he wishes me to speak.

a. A predicate noun in such an infinitive phrase agrees with the subject, as volunt eum rēgem esse, they wish him to be king.

318. Accusative of Exclamation. The accusative may be used in exclamations, as mē miserum, poor me! prō deum fidem, for heaven's sake!

Ablative

319. Place Where is denoted by the ablative, usually with in, as in altō et in terrīs, on sea and on land.

a. With names of towns and small islands the locative is used to express place where, as Rōmae, at Rome. See 345.

b. In poetry the preposition is often omitted, as terrā marīque, on land and sea; Ītaliā, in Italy; lītore, on the shore; pectore, in his heart.

320. Place Whence is denoted by the ablative, usually with ex, dē, or ab, as ex marī, out of the sea.

a. With names of towns, small islands, domō, from home, and with rūre, from the country, the preposition is regularly omitted, as Karthāgine, from Carthage.

b. In poetry the preposition is often omitted, as venit (ex) Ītaliā, he comes from Italy.

321. Ablative of Accompaniment. Accompaniment (attendance) is denoted by the ablative with cum, as venit cum sociīs, he comes with his comrades.

a. With mē, tē, sē, nōbīs, vōbīs, quō, quā, quibus, the preposition cum is regularly appended, as mēcum, with me; tēcum, with you; sēcum, with him(self), with them(selves).

322. Time When or Within Which is denoted by the ablative, as urbem cēpit nocte, he captured the city at night; nocte pluit tōtā, it rains all night.

323. Origin (source or descent) is denoted by the ablative with or without ex or dē, as nātus deā, born of a goddess (goddess-born); ex mē atque ex hōc nātus es, you are his son and mine.

324. Ablative of Material. Material is denoted by the ablative, usually with ex, as domus facta ex saxō, ex ferrō, a house made of stone, of iron; aere clipeus, a shield of bronze. See 280 for the genitive of material.

325. Ablative of Respect. The respect in which a verb, adjective, or noun is to be taken is denoted by the ablative, as sunt quīdam hominēs nōn rē sed nōmine, some people are human beings not in fact (reality), but in name (only). This is sometimes called the ablative of specification.

326. Ablative of Accordance. The ablative, usually with dē or ex, is used to express that in accordance with which a thing is done or judged, as ex senātūs cōnsultō, in accordance with the decree of the senate.

a. With certain words accordance is usually expressed by the ablative without a preposition, as cōnsuētūdine suā, according to his custom; tuō cōnsiliō, in accordance with your plan; meā sententiā, in my opinion.

327. Ablative with Comparatives. Comparatives without quam are followed by the ablative, as exēgī monumentum aere perennius, I have erected a monument more enduring than bronze; Ō mātre pulchrā fīlia pulchrior, O daughter fairer than a mother fair!

328. Ablative of Manner. Manner is denoted by the ablative regularly with an adjective or with cum, as cum virtūte vīvere, to live virtuously; id fēcit magnā cum cūrā, he did it very carefully.

a. The simple ablative of certain nouns may be used to denote manner, as cāsū, by chance; vī, by force.

329. Ablative of Attendant Circumstance. Attendant circumstance, situation, or result may be expressed by the ablative, usually with a modifier, and without a preposition, but sometimes with cum, as magnō intervallō, at a great distance; frequentissimō senātū, at a crowded meeting of the senate; imperiō suō, under his full power; clāmōre, with shouting; cum tuā perniciē, with (to) your destruction; magnō (cum) dolōre omnium, to the great grief of all.

330. Ablative of Quality. Quality or description is denoted by the ablative regularly with an adjective, as statūrā fuit humilī, he was of low stature. This is sometimes called the ablative of characteristic or description. See 285 for the genitive of quality.

331. Ablative of Means. Means or instrument is denoted by the ablative, without a preposition, as clārē videō oculīs, I see clearly with my eyes; pugnābant armīs, they fought with arms.

332. Ablative of Cause. Cause may also be expressed by the ablative without a preposition, as ōdērunt peccāre bonī virtūtis amōre, the good hate to sin from love of virtue.

333. Ablative of Agent. The agent is denoted by the ablative with ā (ab), as urbs capta est ab illō duce, the city was captured by that leader.

334. The Standard of Measurement is denoted by the ablative, as magnōs hominēs virtūte mētimur, nōn fortūnā, we measure great men by worth, not by fortune.

335. Measure of Difference is put in the ablative, as sōl multīs partibus est major quam terra ūniversa, the sun is many parts (a great deal) larger than the whole earth. This is also sometimes called the degree of difference.

336. Ablative of Price. Definite price is put in the ablative, as ēmit morte immortālitātem, he purchased deathlessness with death.

a. General value is expressed by the genitive. See 292.

337. Ablative with Adjectives. The ablative is used with dignus, indignus, frētus, contentus, and laetus, and with adjectives of fullness and abundance, as contentus hōc equō, content with this horse; dignus poenā, worthy of punishment; indignus poenā, unworthy of punishment.

a. Also the verb dignor, deem worthy, takes the ablative in poetry and later prose, as haud tālī mē dignor honōre, I do not deem myself worthy of such honor.

338. The Ablative of Route is used to denote the way by which, as prōvehimur pelagō, we sail forth over the sea.

339. Ablative with Prepositions. The ablative is used with many prepositions, the most important being abs (ab, ā), cum, cōram, dē prae, prō, sine, ex (or ē).

340. Ablative of Separation. Separation is expressed by the ablative case, with or without a preposition. This ablative is used especially with verbs of depriving, of freedom, and of want, as sē prīvāvit oculīs, he deprived himself of his eyes; omnibus egēre rēbus, to be in need of everything; tē ab eō līberō, I free you from him. This is called the ablative of separation.

a. The ablative of separation is also used with aliēnus and with adjectives of freedom and want, as aliēnum mājestāte deōrum, inconsistent with the dignity of the gods; līber cūrā, free from care.

341. The ablative is used with opus and ūsus, as opus est mihi aurō, I need gold; ūsus est dictīs bonīs, there is need of kind words.

342. Ablative with Special Verbs. Ūtor, fruor, fungor, potior, vēscor, and their compounds take the ablative, as hīs vōcibus ūsa est, she spoke (used) these words; abūsus est nostrā patientiā, he used up our patience; fruimur lūce vītae, we enjoy the light of life; fungor officiō, I am performing my duty; potītur victōriā, he gains the victory; lacte vēscuntur, they live on milk.

343. Ablative Absolute. The ablative, combined with a participle, adjective, or noun, may serve to express the circumstances in which an act takes place, as duce victō, abeunt, the leader having been conquered, they depart; urbe captā, hominēs redeunt, the city having been captured, the men return. This phrase is called the ablative absolute.

a. The ablative absolute phrase may have an accessory idea of time, cause, or condition, as Caesare cōnsule haec lēx lāta est, this law was passed in Caesar's consulship.

344. Vocative. The vocative, with or without Ō, O, is used in addressing a person or thing, as Mūsa, O Muse! Aeole, O Aeolus! Ō rēgīna, O queen!

Locative

345. Names of towns and small islands of the first and second declensions, humus, domus, and rūs, are put in the locative of the place where, as Rōmae, at Rome; Crētae, in Crete; humī, on the ground; domī, at home.

a. In poetry the names of countries and large islands also are sometimes found in the locative, as Libyae, in Libya.

ADVERBS

346. Adverbs qualify verbs, adjectives, and other adverbs, as male vīvit, he lives badly; bene labōrat, he works well; ferē omnēs, almost all; nimis saepe, too often.

QUESTIONS

347. a. A question for information merely is generally introduced by -ne, as videtne patrem, does he see his father?

b. A question that expects the answer yes is generally introduced by nōnne, as nōnne vidēs, don't you see?

c. A question that expects the answer no is generally introduced by num, as num vidēs patrem, you don't see your father (do you)?

MOODS IN INTERROGATIVE SENTENCES

348. The Deliberative Question has its verb in the subjunctive, as dīcam an taceam, shall I speak or hold my tongue? quid facerem, what was I to do?

a. Occasionally the present indicative is used in deliberative questions, as quem sequimur, whom are we to follow?

349. The Indirect Question has its verb in the subjunctive, as quaerēmus (1) quid fēcerit, (2) quid faciat, (3) quid factūrus sit, we shall ask what he has done, what he is doing, what he is going to do (will do).

350. The direct form of these three questions would be: (1) quid fēcit? (2) quid facit? (3) quid faciet (or factūrus est)?

TENSES

351. There are six tenses in Latin: the present, imperfect, future, perfect, pluperfect, and future perfect.

1. The Present denotes continuance in the present; it is used: (1) of that which is going on now (specific present), as auribus teneō lupum, I am holding a wolf by the ears; (2) of statements that apply to all time (universal present), as probitās laudātur et alget, honesty is praised and freezes.

a. The Historical Present. The present is used far more frequently than in English as a lively representation of the past, as cohortīs incēdere jubet, he orders the cohorts to advance. This is called the historical present.

b. The present is used in Latin of actions that continue into the present, especially with jam, now, jam diū, now for a long time, jam prīdem, now long since, as Mithridātēs annum jam tertium et vīcēsimum rēgnat, Mithridates has been reigning now going on twenty-three years.

c. The present is sometimes used for the future, or to denote attempted action (conative present), as quam prendimus arcem, what citadel are we to seize? uxōrem dūcis, are you to be married? quid mē terrēs, why do you try to frighten me?

2. The Imperfect Tense denotes continued or repeated action in the past, as pugnābam, I was fighting, I kept fighting, I used to fight. The imperfect is employed to represent manners, customs, situations; to describe and to particularize.

a. The Imperfect of Endeavor. The imperfect is used of attempted and interrupted, intended and expected actions (imperfect of endeavor, conative imperfect), as urbem relinquēbat, he was trying to leave the city; lēx abrogābātur, the law was to be abrogated.

b. The imperfect and the historical perfect serve to supplement each other. The imperfect dwells on the process; the historical perfect states the result. The imperfect counts out the items; the historical perfect gives the sum. The two tenses are often so combined that the general statement is given by the historical perfect, the particulars of the action by the imperfect, as Verrēs in forum vēnit; ardēbant oculī; tōtō ex ōre crūdēlitās ēminēbat, Verres came into the forum; his eyes were blazing; cruelty was standing out from his whole countenance.

3. The Future Tense denotes continuance in the future, as scrībam, I shall be writing. It is also used to express indefinite action in the future, as scrībam, I shall write.

a. The future is sometimes used in an imperative sense, as in English, as cum volet, accēdēs; cum tē vītābit, abībis, when she wants you, approach; when she avoids you, begone sir. Compare such English expressions as "Thou shalt not kill."

b. A similar use is that of the future in asseverations, as ita mē amābit Juppiter, so help me, Jove!

4. The Perfect Tense has two distinct uses: the pure perfect and the historical perfect.

a. The Pure Perfect expresses completion in the present and hence is sometimes called the present perfect. It is used of an action that is now over and gone, as vīximus, we have lived (life for us has been); Troja fuit, Troy has been (but is nc longer). It is more frequently used to denote the present result of a more remote action (resulting condition), as āctum est, perīstī, it is all over, you are ruined; equum et mūlum Brundisiī tibi relīquī, I have left a horse and mule for you at Brundisium (they are still there).

b. The Historical or Indefinite Perfect states a past action, without reference to its duration, simply as a thing attained, an occurrence, as vēnī, vīdī, vīcī, I came, I saw, I conquered; Milō domum vēnit, calceōs et vestīmenta mūtāvit, paulisper commorātus est, Milo came home, changed shoes and clothes, tarried a little while.

5. The Pluperfect denotes completion in the past and is used of an action that was completed before another was begun, as fuerat inimīcus, he had been my enemy.

6. The Future Perfect denotes both completion and attainment, as fēcerō, I shall have done it, or I shall do it (once and for all).

352. The Latin tenses are divided into primary (principal) and secondary (historical).

a. The Primary Tenses have to do with the present and future; they are the present, pure perfect, future, and future perfect.

b. The Secondary Tenses have to do with the past; they are the historical present, imperfect, historical perfect, and pluperfect.

MOODS IN SUBORDINATE SENTENCES

Sequence of Tenses

353. Primary (principal) tenses are ordinarily followed by primary tenses, secondary (historical) by secondary tenses, as follows:

(1) All forms that relate to the present and future (primary tenses)	are regularly followed by	the present subjunctive (for continued action); the perfect subjunctive (for completed action).
(2) All forms that relate to the past (secondary tenses)	are regularly followed by	the imperfect subjunctive (for continued action); the pluperfect subjunctive (for completed action).

a. The action which is completed with regard to the leading verb may be in itself a continued action. So in English: I do not know what he has been doing, I did not know what he had been doing. The Latin is unable to make this distinction, and so the imperfect indicative (he was doing) is represented in the dependent form by the perfect or pluperfect, thus: nesciō quid fēcerit, nescīvī quid fēcisset.

b. The above rule is subject to several modifications:

1. Tense refers to time, not merely to tense form, so that

(a). The historical present may be felt according to its sense as past or according to its tense as present.

(b). The pure perfect may be felt according to its starting-point as past, or according to its completion as present.

2. The effect of a past action may be continued into the present or the future.

3. The dependent clause may depend on two or more clauses with their verbs in different tenses, and so follow a varying sequence.

4. An original imperfect or pluperfect subjunctive does not change its tense even when made to depend on a primary leading verb, for example, in unreal conditions (382, a).

354. The future relation of a verb in a dependent subjunctive clause may be made clearer by the use of an active periphrastic, as cognōscam, quid factūrus sīs, I shall (try to) find out what you are going to do; cognōvī quid factūrus essēs, I have found out (know) what you were going to do.

355. In Indirect Discourse (indirect statement) all verbs in subordinate clauses are in the subjunctive and follow the general rule of sequence of tenses. See 390.

QUOD CLAUSES

356. Quod, the fact that, in that, is used with the indicative to introduce explanatory clauses after verbs of adding and dropping, doing and happening, and after demonstrative expressions, as adde quod vīcimus, add the fact that we have won; praetereō quod nōn mānsit, I pass over the fact that he did not remain; bene facis quod tacēs, you do well in that you keep silent; hāc rē est īnfēlīx, quod victus est, in this he is unfortunate, in that he was conquered.

CAUSAL CLAUSES

357. Quod, quia, quoniam and quandō take the indicative in direct discourse, the subjunctive in implied indirect discourse, to express cause, as fūgit quod timēbat, he fled because he was afraid; fūgit quod timēret, he fled because (as he said) he was afraid.

358. Quod is used after verbs of emotion with the indicative in direct discourse, the subjunctive in implied indirect discourse, to give the reason (ground), as gaudet quod vēnērunt, he rejoices that they have come; gaudet quod vēnerint, he rejoices that (as he says) they have come.

PURPOSE CLAUSES

359. Purpose is expressed by the present or imperfect subjunctive with ut or nē, as vēnit ut dūceret hominēs, he came to lead (that he might lead) the men; fugit nē capiātur, he flees lest he be (that he may not be) captured. For the relative clauses of purpose see 388.

360. Substantive Volitive Clauses. The present or imperfect subjunctive with ut or nē is used in a substantive clause after verbs of will and desire, as ōrō ut veniās, I beg that you come; volō ut veniat, I wish him to come; voluī nē venīret, I wished him not to come. Such a clause is called a substantive volitive clause.

a. The infinitive may also be used with such verbs, especially in poetry.

b. Jubeō regularly takes the accusative and infinitive.

VERBS OF HINDERING

361. A verb of preventing, refusing, and the like may take nē or quōminus with the subjunctive, as obstat nē veniat, he hinders him from coming.

362. A negatived verb of preventing, refusing, and the like may take quīn or quōminus with the subjunctive, as nihil obstat quīn (or quōminus) sīs beātus, nothing hinders you from being happy.

VERBS OF FEARING

363. A verb of fear may be followed by nē or ut (= nē + nōn) with any tense of the subjunctive, as timeō nē hostis veniat, I fear lest the enemy come, that he is coming, that he will come; timeō nē hostis vēnerit, I fear lest the enemy have come, that (it will turn out that) he has come; timeō ut amīcus veniat, I fear lest my friend come not, that he is not coming, will not come.

RESULT CLAUSES

364. The subjunctive with ut or ut nōn is used to denote result, as tanta vīs deōrum est ut eīs nōn possīmus obstāre, so great is the power of the gods that we cannot oppose them; nēmō est tam fortis ut nōn possit cadere, no one is so strong but he can (that he cannot) fall.

a. A relative pronoun is sometimes used instead of ut, as nēmō est tam fortis quī nōn possit cadere.

365. A verb of effecting has the subjunctive with ut, nē, or ut nōn, as faciam ut veniat, I shall make (have) him come; faciam nē veniat, I shall bring it about that he does not come.

366. Negatived or questioned verbs of doubt and uncertainty may be followed by the subjunctive with quīn, as nōn dubium est quīn urbs capiātur, there is no doubt (but) that the city is being captured.

367. Substantive Clauses of Result. The subjunctive with ut is often used in a substantive clause to give the contents or character of a preceding substantive, adjective, or pronoun, as tōtum in eō est, ut tibi imperēs, all depends on this, your self-command (that you rule yourself); id est proprium cīvitātis, ut sit lībera, this is the peculiar privilege of a state, to be free (that it be free). This is called the substantive clause of result.

TEMPORAL CLAUSES

368. Ut, ut prīmum, cum, cum prīmum, ubi, ubi prīmum, simul ac, simul atque, in the sense of as soon as, and postquam take the perfect indicative, as postquam vēnit dux, urbs capta est, after the leader came, the city was captured; ut vīdit urbem captam, fūgit, as (soon as) he saw the city captured, he fled.

a. The imperfect indicative is used of overlapping action, and the pluperfect indicative when a definite interval is given, as ut vidēbat hostēs vincentēs, rediit domum, as he saw the enemy were conquering, he returned home; postquam cēperat urbem, mīlitēs dūcit domum, after he had captured the city, he led his soldiers home.

369. When two repeated actions are contemporaneous, both are put in the indicative in tenses of continuance, as rēx bellum gerēbat cum volēbat, the king waged war whenever he wished.

370. When one repeated action comes before another, the antecedent action is put in the perfect, pluperfect, or future perfect indicative, the subsequent in the present, imperfect, or future indicative, according to the relation, as quotiēns cecidit, surgit, as often as he falls (has fallen), he rises; quotiēns ceciderat, surgēbat, as often as he fell (had fallen), he rose; quotiēns ceciderit, surget, as often as he falls (shall have fallen), he will rise.

371. Dum, dōnec, quoad, and quamdiū, so long as, while, take the indicative of all tenses, as vīta dum superest, bene est, while (as long as) there is life, it is well; dōnec grātus eram tibī, fēlīx fuī, while I was pleasing to you, I was fortunate; quoad potuit restitit, he resisted as long as he could.

372. Dum, while, while yet, usually takes the present indicative when the verb of the main clause is in the past tense, as dum hae rēs aguntur, urbs ardēbat; while these things were going on, the city was burning.

373. Dum, dōnec, and quoad, until, take the present, historical present, historical perfect, or future perfect indicative, when suspense or anticipation are not involved, as manēbō dum venit, I shall remain until he comes; mānsī dum (quoad, dōnec) vēnit, I remained until he came. See 374.

374. Dum, dōnec, and quoad, until, take the subjunctive when suspense, anticipation, or design is involved, as mānsī dum venīret, I remained until he could come; exspectō dum veniat, I am waiting for him to come. See 373.

375. Dum, modo, and dummodo, if only, provided only, take the present or imperfect subjunctive in a proviso clause, as ōderint dum metuant, let them hate so long as they fear (provided that, if they will only fear); veniat, dum maneat, let him come, provided that he remains.

376. Antequam and priusquam take the indicative present, perfect, or future perfect when the time limit is stated as a fact, as antequam abeō, dīcam pauca, before I go, I shall say a few words; antequam abiit, dīxerat pauca, before he went, he had said a few words.

a. Antequam and priusquam take the subjunctive when the action is anticipated, contingent, or designed, as urbem capit priusquam rēx veniat, he captures the city before the king may arrive (too soon for the king to arrive); ante vidēmus fulgōrem quam sonum audiāmus, we see the flash of lightning before we hear the sound (of thunder).

CUM CLAUSES

377. Temporal cum, when, is used with all tenses of the indicative to designate merely temporal relations, as animus nec cum adest nec cum discēdit appāret, the soul is not visible, either when it is present or when it departs; pāruit cum necesse erat, he obeyed when it was necessary.

378. Descriptive cum, when, is used with the imperfect and pluperfect subjunctive to give the circumstances under which an action took place, as cum dīmicāret, occīsus est, when he engaged in battle, he was slain; Caesar cum id nuntiātum esset, mātūrat ab urbe proficīscī, when this was (had been) announced to Caesar, he hastened to set out from the city. This cum is sometimes called cum circumstantial.

379. Causal or Concessive cum, when, whereas, although, is used with any tense of the subjunctive, as quae cum ita sint, dēbet fugere, since these things are so, we must flee; cum pār esset armīs, tamen dēbuerat fugere, although he was equal in arms, nevertheless he had to flee.

CONDITIONAL SENTENCES

380. The Logical (More Vivid or Simple) Conditional Sentence regularly has the same tense of the indicative in both the subordinate clause (the condition or protasis) and the principal clause (the conclusion or apodosis) as follows:

CONDITION	CONCLUSION
Sī id crēdis,	errās,
If you believe that,	you are wrong.
Sī id crēdēbās,	errābās.
If you believed that,	you were wrong
Sī id crēdidistī,	errāvistī,
If you (have) believed that,	you were (have been) wrong
Sī id crēdēs,	errābis.
If you (shall) believe that,	you will be wrong.
Sī id crēdiderīs,	errāverīs,
If you shall have believed that,	you will have been wrong.

381. The Ideal (Less Vivid) Conditional Sentence regularly has the present or perfect subjunctive, in both clauses, as follows:

CONDITION	CONCLUSION
Sī id crēdās,	errēs.
If you should (were to) believe that,	you would be wrong.
Sī id crēdiderīs,	errāverīs (rare)
If you should (prove to) have believed that,	you would have been wrong.

a. In indirect discourse, or indirect statement, the verb of the conditional clause of a logical or less vivid conditional sentence is in the subjunctive and follows the general rule of sequence of tenses, as dīcō tē, sī id crēdās, errāre; dīxī tē, sī id crēderēs, errāre.

382. The Unreal (Contrary to Fact) Conditional Sentence regularly has the imperfect subjunctive in both clauses if contrary to present fact, and the pluperfect subjunctive in both clauses if contrary to past fact, as follows:

CONDITION	CONCLUSION
Sī id crēderēs, If you believed that (but you do not),	errārēs. you would be wrong.
Sī id crēdidissēs, If you had believed that (but you did not),	errāvissēs, you would have been wrong

a. In indirect discourse the verb of an unreal condition is in the same mood and tense as it would be in direct discourse, and the verb of an unreal conclusion takes one of four special periphrastic forms, as follows:

Dīcō (dīxī) sī id crēderēs, tē errātūrum esse.	(active, contrary to present fact)
Dīcō (dīxī) sī id crēdidissēs, tē errātūrum fuisse.	(active, contrary to past fact)
Dīcō (dīxī) sī id crēderēs, fore ut dēciperērīs.	(passive, contrary to present fact)
Dīcō (dīxī) sī id crēdidissēs, futūrum fuisse ut dēciperērīs	(passive, contrary to past fact)

b. Similarly in substantive clauses, as follows:

Nōn dubitum est quīn, sī id crēderēs, errārēs.
Nōn dubitum erat quīn, sī id crēdidissēs, errātūrus fuerīs.

c. In poetry the present subjunctive is often used in both clauses of an unreal conditional sentence.

d. All conceivable combinations of types of mixed conditions and conclusions may be used; as the conclusion may have the form of a wish, command, statement of obligation, necessity, etc. These mixed forms are especially common with verbs which convey a future idea, as dēbeō, ought; possum, be able, can; studeō, desire; volō, will, wish, as sī Pompēius prīvātus esset, tamen is mittendus erat, if Pompey were a private citizen, nevertheless he ought to be sent; vincite sī vultis, have your way if you will.

383. Ut sī, ac sī, quasi, quam sī, tamquam, tamquam sī, velut, or velut sī, and the subjunctive are used in a clause of comparison, as tantus metus patrēs cēpit, velut sī jam ad portās hostis esset, a great fear took hold of the senators, as if the enemy were already at the gates.

a. The subjunctive verb in such a clause follows the rule of sequence of tenses.

CONCESSIVE CLAUSES

384. A Concessive Clause may be introduced by etsī, etiamsī, or tametsī, with the indicative or subjunctive; by quamquam, with the indicative only; by quamvīs, with the subjunctive only.

RELATIVE CLAUSES

385. The Relative Clause as such, that is, a clause used as an adjective to modify a noun, regularly has its verb in the indicative, as amō virum quī fortis est, I like a man who is brave, I like a brave man.

386. An indefinite or general relative clause usually has its verb in the indicative; so explanatory quī, when equivalent to quod, as errāverim fortasse, quī mē aliquid putāvī, I may have erred in thinking myself to be something.

387. A relative clause that depends on an infinitive or a subjunctive, and forms an integral part of the thought, has its verb in the subjunctive by attraction, as pigrī est ingeniī contentum esse iīs quae sint ab aliīs inventa, it is the mark of a lazy mind to be content with what has been found out by others.

388. A relative clause has its verb in the subjunctive when quī is equivalent to ut is in an expression of purpose, as ēripiunt aliīs quod aliīs dent, they snatch from some to give to others. This is called the relative clause of purpose.

389. A relative clause has its verb in the subjunctive when quī is equivalent to ut is in a clause of description or characteristic; so after an indefinite antecedent, after dignus, indignus, idōneus, aptus, etc., as multī sunt quī ēripiant, there are many to snatch away; sunt (eī) quī dīcant, there are those who say (some say); dignus est quī cōnsul fīat, he is worthy of being made consul. This is called the subjunctive of characteristic.

INDIRECT DISCOURSE

390. Indirect discourse (indirect statement), as opposed to direct discourse, gives the main drift of a speech and not the exact words.

a. Indirect discourse depends on some verb of saying, showing, believing, perceiving, or thinking, expressed or implied.

b. In indirect discourse a principal statement has its verb in the infinitive, as dīcit eōs vēnisse, he says that they have come; dīcit eōs venīre, he says that they are coming; a question or a command has its verb in the subjunctive, as quaerit quid velint, he asks what they want; quaesīvit quid vellent, he asked what they wanted; dīcit hominibus ut veniant, he tells the men to come; dīxit hominibus ut fugerent, he told the men to flee.

c. A subordinate clause in indirect discourse has its verb in the subjunctive. See 355.

VERSIFICATION

The Dactylic Hexameter

391. One of the most common meters of Latin poetry is the dactylic hexameter. It was commonly employed by the Greeks and Romans in epic (narrative) poetry, such as the Iliad and the Odyssey of Homer, the Aeneid of Vergil, and the Metamorphoses of Ovid. It is occasionally used in English, as in Longfellow's Evangeline. Some of the most beautiful Latin hexameters ever written are those of Vergil and Ovid.

392. There are six feet in a hexameter (Gr. hex, six; metron, measure) verse or line. The first five feet are either dactyls (Gr. dactylos, finger), i.e., one long syllable followed by two shorts (– ◡◡), or spondees, i.e., two longs (– –). The sixth foot is always treated as a spondee (– –).

393. The final syllable of a hexameter verse may be either long or short (syllaba anceps); but for practical purposes in scansion it may be considered long and thus marked.

394. The Metrical Scheme of a verse is thus:

– ◡◡ | – ◡◡ | – ◡◡ | – ◡◡ | – ◡◡ | – ◡

i.e., the first syllable of each foot must be long. It is also given slightly more stress than the other half of the foot. This stress is called the metrical accent.

a. A short syllable is often lengthened under the metrical accent or before a pause.

395. The fifth foot of the hexameter is almost always a dactyl. When a spondee is used in this place, it gives the verse a slower movement than usual. Such a verse is then called spondaic.

396. For metrical purposes each syllable of a Latin verse is considered either long or short, a long syllable occupying approximately twice as much time as a short (14). For this reason a spondaic foot (– –) is considered the metrical equivalent of a dactylic foot. (– ◡◡).

397. Observe that only long vowels are marked in the Latin words in this book. For the general rules on the length of syllables, see 14–24.

398. Elision. Whenever a word ends with a vowel, diphthong, or m, and the following words begin with a vowel or h, the first vowel or diphthong is regularly elided. Elision is not a total omission, but rather a light and hurried half-pronunciation, somewhat similar to grace notes in music.

399. Hiatus. Occasionally a word ending in a vowel, diphthong, or m is followed by a word beginning with a vowel or h and elision does not take place. This is called hiatus.

400. Semi-hiatus. Sometimes when a word ends in a long vowel or a diphthong and the next word begins with a vowel or h, the long final vowel or diphthong is shortened. This is called semi-hiatus.

401. The vowels i and u are sometimes used as consonants (j, v), as abiete (pronounce abjete), genua (pronounce genva).

402. Hypermeter. Sometimes the final syllable at the end of a verse is elided before a vowel at the beginning of the following verse. This is called synapheia, and the verse whose final syllable is elided is called a hypermeter or a hypermetric verse.

403. Synizesis. Two successive vowels which do not ordinarily form a diphthong are sometimes pronounced as one syllable for the sake of the meter. This sort of contraction of two syllables into one within a word is called synizesis.

Scansion

404. Observe the scansion of the following passage:

Arma virumque canō, Trojae quī prīmus ab ōrīs
´ ⏑ ⏑ | ´ ⏑ ⏑ | ´ – | ´ – | ´ ⏑ ⏑ | ´ –

Ītaliam fātō profugus Lāvīnaque vēnit
´ ⏑ ⏑ | ´ – | ´ ⏑ ⏑ | ´ – | ´ ⏑ ⏑ | ´ –

lītora, multum ille et terrīs jactātus et altō
´ ⏑ | ´ – | ´ – | ´ ⏑ | ´ ⏑ ⏑ | ´ –

vī superum saevae memorem Jūnōnis ob īram,
´ ⏑ ⏑ | ´ – | ´ ⏑ ⏑ | ´ – | ´ ⏑ ⏑ | ´ –

multa quoque et bellō passus, dum conderet urbem
´ ⏑ ⏑ | ´ – | ´ – | ´ – | ´ ⏑ ⏑ | ´ –

Albānīque patrēs atque altae moenia Rōmae.
´ – | ´ ⏑ ⏑ | ´ – | ´ – | ´ ⏑ ⏑ | ´ –

In marking the scansion the sign (–) is used below the line to indicate a long syllable and the sign (⏑) for a short syllable. The feet are separated from each other by the perpendicular line (|), the metrical accent is indicated by a (´) over the first syllable of each foot, and elision is indicated by a (‿) connecting the elided vowel with the vowel following.

Hints on the Metrical Reading of Latin Poetry

405. In reading Latin poetry orally, the words should be kept distinct and no break made between the separate feet, unless there is a pause in sense.

406. Careful attention should be paid to the meaning of the passage, and the various pauses in sense should be indicated by the voice. Of course the voice should not be allowed to drop at the end of a verse unless there is a distinct pause in sense.

407. Remember that the rhythm of Latin verse is based primarily upon the regular succession of long and short syllables, that of English primarily on the succession of accented and unaccented syllables.

408. To obtain facility in reading Latin verse, a considerable amount of it should be memorized, special attention being paid to the quantity, i.e., approximately twice as much time should be given to each long syllable as to a short one.

409. Caesúra.[1] Whenever a word ends within a foot the break is called caesura. If this coincides with a pause in the verse, it is called the principal caesura, or sometimes simply the caesura of the verse.

410. A single verse may have more than one caesura, each marked by a pause in sense. The principal caesuras are: (1) After the first long syllable of the third foot; (2) After the first long syllable of the fourth foot.

FIGURES OF SYNTAX AND RHETORIC

411. Alliterátion is the repetition of the same letter or sound, as the sound of v in tum vīctū revocant vīrīs, then they recall their strength with food.

412. Anacolouthon or want of sequence occurs when the scheme of a sentence is changed in its course.

413. Anáphora is the repetition of a word or words at the beginning of successive clauses, as mīrantur dōna Aenēae, mīrantur Iūlum, they marvel at the gifts of Aeneas, they marvel at Iulus.

414. Anástrophe is an inversion of the usual order of words, as tē propter, on account of you.

415. Antíthesis is an opposition or contrast of words or ideas, as speciē blanda, reāpse repudianda, charming in appearance, in reality to be rejected.

416. Aposiopésis is a breaking off before the close of the sentence, as quōs ego — sed mōtōs praestat compōnere flūctūs, whom I — but it is better to calm the angry waves.

[1] In the teaching of scansion to beginners, it is preferable to omit all reference to caesura for at least the first two or three years of reading Latin poetry. These paragraphs on caesura are given for the benefit of teachers who may wish their pupils to know something about it.

417. Apóstrophe is a sudden break from the previous method of discourse and an addressing, in the second person, of some person or object, absent or present, as Ō patria, Ō dīvum domus, O fatherland, O home of the gods! (In this case the speaker is in Carthage, many miles from his native land, and is making an apostrophe to Troy which had been destroyed by the Greeks.)

418. Asýndeton is the omission of conjunctions, as ancora dē prōrā jacitur; stant lītore puppēs, the anchor is cast from the prow; the sterns rest on the beach.

419. Brachýlogy (breviloquéntia) is the failure to repeat an element which is to be supplied in a more or less modified form, as tam fēlīx essēs quam formōsissima (es) vellem, would that you were as fortunate as (you are) fair.

420. Chiásmus is the arrangement of corresponding pairs of words in opposite order, as Īlionēa petit dextrā laevāque Serestum, he sought Ilioneus with his right (hand) and with his left Serestus, where Īlionēa and Serestum form one pair and dextrā laevāque form the other pair.

421. Ellípsis is the omission of one or more words which are obviously understood but must be supplied to make the expression grammatically complete, as Aeolus haec contrā, Aeolus thus (spoke) in reply. The words most commonly omitted are agō, dīcō, faciō, loquor, and sum.

422. Enállage is a shift from one form to another, as vōs (pl.), Ō Calliopē (sg.), precor, I entreat you, O Calliope.

423. Éuphemism is the substitution of an agreeable or nonoffensive word or expression for one that is harsh, indelicate, or otherwise unpleasant, as sī quid eī acciderit, if anything should happen to him (i.e., if he should die).

424. Éuphony is the effect produced by words or sounds so combined and uttered as to please the ear.

425. Hendíadys is the expression of an idea by means of two nouns connected by a conjunction instead of by a noun and a limiting adjective, or by one noun limited by another, as vī et armīs, by force of arms; vulgus et multitūdō, the common herd.

426. Hypállage is an interchange in the relations of words, as dare classibus Austrōs, to give the winds to the fleet (instead of to give the fleet to the winds).

427. Hyperbaton or Trajéction is the violent displacement of words, as per omnīs tē deōs ōrō, by all the gods I beg you.

428. Hyperbole is rhetorical exaggeration, as praeruptus aquae mōns, a sheer mountain of water, referring to a great wave of the sea.

429. Hysteron Proteron is a reversal of the natural order, as moriāmur et in media arma ruāmus, let us die and rush into the midst of arms.

430. Irony is a sort of humor, ridicule, or light sarcasm which states an apparent fact with the manifest intention of expressing its opposite, as scīlicet is superīs labor est, ea cūra quiētōs sollicitat, of course this is work for the gods, this care vexes them in their serenity!

431. Litotes or Understatement is the use of an expression by which more is meant than meets the ear. This is especially common with the negative. Nōn indecōrō pulvere sordidī, soiled with not unbecoming (i.e., glorious) dust.

432. Metaphor is an implied comparison, as illa, Trojae et patriae commūnis Erīnys, she (Helen), the common curse of Troy and of her native land.

433. Metonymy is the substitution of one word for another which it suggests, as Cerēs, goddess of grain, for grain.

434. Onomatopoeia is the use of words of which the sound suggests the sense, as magnō cum murmure montis, with a mighty rumbling of the mountain.

435. Oxymoron is the use of words apparently contradictory of each other, as cum tacent clāmant, when they are silent they cry out.

436. Paraleipsis or Preterition is an apparent omission by which a speaker artfully pretends to pass by what he really emphasizes, as nōn dīcō tē pecūniās accēpisse; rapīnās tuās omnīs omittō, I do not say that you accepted sums of money; I omit all your acts of rapine; praetereō quod nōn mānsit, I pass over the fact that he did not remain.

437. Personification is an attribution of the element of personality to an impersonal thing, as aspīrat fortūna labōrī, fortune favors our struggle; fuge crūdēlīs terrās, fuge lītus avārum, flee the cruel lands, flee the greedy shore.

438. Pleonasm is the use of superfluous words, as sīc ōre locūta est, thus she spoke with her mouth.

439. Polysyndeton is the use of unnecessary conjunctions, as ūnā Eurusque Notusque ruunt crēberque procellīs Āfricus, both the East wind and the South wind and the Southwester rush forth together.

440. Prolépsis or Anticipation is the use of a word, usually a modifier, before it is logically appropriate, as summersās obrue puppīs, overwhelm the sunken ships, i.e., sink and overwhelm the ships.

441. Símile is a figure of speech which likens or asserts an explicit comparison between two different things in one or more of their aspects, as pār levibus ventīs volucrīque simillima somnō, like unto the light winds and most resembling winged sleep; velutī cum coörta est sēditiō, just as when a riot has arisen.

442. Sýnchysis is an interlocked order of words, as saevae memorem Jūnōnis īram, fell Juno's unforgetting hate.

443. Synécdoche is the use of a part for the whole, or the reverse, as tectum, roof, for domus, house; puppis, stern, for nāvis, ship; mūcrō, point, for gladius, sword.

444. Sýnesis is a construction according to sense and not according to grammatical form, as pars veniunt, part come.

445. Tmésis is the separation of the parts of a compound word by one or more intervening words, as quae mē cumque vocant terrae (for quaecumque terrae mē vocant), whatever the lands that call me.

446. A Transferred Epithet is an epithet which has been transferred from the word to which it strictly belongs to another word connected with it in thought, as vēlivolum mare, the sail-flying sea, where sail-flying is properly applied to ships which sail the sea rather than to the sea itself.

447. Zeugma is the junction of two words with a modifying or governing word which strictly applies to only one of them, as Danaōs et laxat claustra, he looses the barriers and (sets free) the Greeks.
